Girl Says She Burned for Love

ZEP IN STORM OVER FRANCE

Meyer Gives Names in Huge Booze Ring

POLICE, WARD HEADS NAMED AS DEALERS

Specific allegations as to operation of a gigantic, officially-controlled liquor ring were made by United States Attorney John D. Meyer today, in filing bills of particulars to indictments returned last June by the federal grand jury probing alleged rum rings here.

No bills of particulars or amplified overt acts were filed to the "downtown," "East Liberty" or the general blanket indictment. The latter, naming the entire 166 defendants, will not be filed by the government attorney until 20 days before they are listed for trial. The court granted permission for this action when the others were filed.

Meyer charged that on the South Side 262 saloons, clubs and confectioneries and other places were operated under police and political control. He listed these places and named Francis Kirley, ward chairman, and John J. McArdie, police inspector, as the ones whose word determined whether a given saloon was to be closed or permitted to operate.

165 SPOTS IN STRIP

In the Strip district, Meyer listed 165 places to which, he charged, liquor was delivered under orders of John W. Orie, police magistrate, his brother Stanley Orie, and State Representative Luke Sullivan.

On the North Side, the Federal prosecutor averred, the sale of booze was in the hands of Thomas Oliffee and Samuel J. Grenet and that they discussed and planned at the Fort Pitt brewery, on or about February 15, last, operation of a still by Andy Puniak as a source of supply

GRAFT OVERLORDS ELUDE PROBE TRAP

Admitting that as yet his grand jury graft probe has not really enmeshed any big political leaders, District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner this morning directed the work of a corps of assistants who are preparing indictments against the 252 "small fry" named by the grand jury yesterday.

"The evidence is only inferential. It's a lousy trick to indict anybody just for the sake of indicting him, and I am not going to do it," was District Attorney Gardner's comment on the fact that "the big fellows" had not been recommended for indictment by the grand jury.

"We've a lot on people who weren't named—people higher up, the big guys, but that evidence is only inferential," he said as he told of plans to continue his graft probing.

All available clerks in Gardner's office were put to work at the task of drawing the indictments. There was to be one for each of the 252 persons recommended for indictment in the jury's presentment—and for some of them more than one.

While citizens scanned the list of indictments in vain to find names of alleged grafting officials which were not there, Gardner pointed out

WOMAN BURNS SELF TO SHOW LOVE, FAITH

By GENE HOFFMAN.
International News Service.

LAKE FOREST, Ill., Oct. 31.—Mystery surrounding the burning of pretty Elfrieda Knaak, former University of Chicago co-ed and Sunday school teacher, was cleared today with the girl's own story, sobbed from a bed of pain in a Lake Forest hospital.

Miss Knaab said she held her body to the roaring mouth of the furnace in the basement of the Lake Bluff Police Station to "purify" herself and show her faith when her "psychic sweetheart" failed to keep an appointment with her.

Her head, arms and feet were fearfully burned. Even if she recovers, physicians say, both arms and possibly the right leg will have to be amputated.

The eerie love rite, unparalleled in the lore of psychic phenomena, occurred Monday midnight in the police station where the man she claims as her spiritual lover—Charles W. Hitchcock—was employed as night marshal.

FUN, NO ROUGH STUFF HALLOWEEN UKASE

Goblins will be snooping around every section of the city and county tonight—'tis Halloween. The witches and fairies will be in evidence in numerous official and impromptu celebrations when young America will be given free rein for night.

Civic bodies in various sections of the city and nearby boroughs have taken hold of the celebration in each of which there will be a mummers' parade, with desirable prizes to be awarded winners in costume events by staid judges.

Police have been instructed to give the celebrants the widest latitude in their fun, but rowdiness is taboo.

Fifth avenue, in the downtown district, will be given over to the merrymakers. Street car traffic will be diverted over to other thoroughfares, and while there will be no organized celebration, the downtown section will be the mecca for thousands of mummers. They usually return to their home districts in time to participate in the fag end of the celebration there.

Police prepared for a big crowd in the business section, and Fifth avenue will be patrolled by one of the largest forces of officers seen in that district.

In each of the outlying districts there has been arranged parades under the direction of the civic bodies. Much red fire will be burned.

In addition to the street celebrations, there will be numerous private entertainments. Taffy pullin' is still in vogue in certain sections, where apple bobbin' also will furnish amusement.

Jaworski Fires His Jail Bed

Did Paul Jaworski try to commit suicide in the county jail yesterday?

Did the leader of the Flathead Mob, the killer who is condemned to die, hope to cheat the electric chair by dropping a lighted match on a newspaper under his cot?

Warden John McNeil admitted today that a match dropped by Jaworski had lighted the paper. A guard nearby stamped out the flames as they spread to Jaworski's cot.

Jaworski was reported burned on the face and hands. McNeil insists it was all an accident.

Jaworski had lighted his pipe with the match and then dropped the lighted match to the floor of his cell. It fell on the paper.

Jaworski is paralyzed from gun wounds. Had there not been guards handy the flames might have spread quickly and eventually proved fatal to the condemned bandit leader. News of the fire was kept secret by officials of the jail from which Jaworski once made his escape.

Fair Weather Halloween Promise

A pleasant Halloween night was promised by Forecaster W. S. Brotzman. The temperature likely will be between 45 and 50 with skies partly overcast when mummers begin their festivities. A rain belt is approaching from the Southwest, he said, but this will not reach here before tomorrow afternoon.

"HARTJE TOOK ALBUM PHOTOS," WIFE DECLARES

MRS. ELIZABETH HARTJE

Today the Hartjes—Mrs. Elizabeth and John Scott, Pittsburgh millionaire—look to Atlantic City Chancery Court for a decision in the divorce suit Mrs. Hartje brought against her husband. Mrs. Hartje asks no alimony, but the custody of their son, John, Jr., 6, and the suit is not contested. She charges desertion. Once, she told the court, Hartje left her, "even taking the pictures in the family album."

'Hartje Acted Crazy'—Wife

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 31.—(INS.)—Special Master in Chancery Ralph Harcourt today was weighing testimony submitted in Mrs. Elizabeth Hartje's divorce suit against her husband, John Scott Hartje, Pittsburgh millionaire. Mrs. Hartje lives here.

"He was anything but respectful to me," she told the special master, "and he acted like a lunatic at best. He was always pulling his hair or raving about his freedom. Once he attempted to strike me with a milk bottle. After that incident he packed up and left, even taking the pictures in the family album."

Harcourt reserved decision. The suit, based on a charge of desertion, is uncontested. The Hartjes were married in 1922, and she alleges that he left her in September, 1925. They have one child, John, Jr., 6, of whom she asks the custody. She does not ask alimony.

LOS ANGELES BACK AT HOME STATION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—The Navy dirigible Los Angeles made an all-night flight from the naval air station at Lakehurst, N. J., last night with Leut. Commander Charles E. Rosendahl in command.

The dirigible left her hangar at 7:27 p. m. and returned this morning at 5:30 p. m. This was the first flight made by Lieut. Commander Rosendahl aboard the airship since his return from Germany aboard the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin.

ABOARD THE GRAF ZEPPELIN, Oct. 30.—Nine-thirty o'clock tonight (Pittsburgh time) finds us 400 miles southwest of Fastnet Light, Ireland, heading toward Cherbourg, from whence we will steer direct for Friedrichshafen.

Our position at this time is 48 north longitude, 20 west latitude. We are making 75 knots (84 miles) an hour. Radio conditions are bad. The air has been clear and the sea is calm and we can see for miles in any direction. I just paused to watch an unidentified tramp steamer slip by beneath us.

Joseph D. Jessel, New York financier, who was injured in an automobile accident at Lakehurst Sunday night shortly before we took off, is able to be up today. He says he is enjoying the trip. He was determined not to stay home because of the accident although he has been confined to his stateroom until today.

Somebody produced a phonograph this morning and the welcome melodies from Ziegfeld's "Showboat," which the crew saw while in New York, are proving the most popular.

ABOARD GRAF ZEPPELIN, Oct. 30 (a. m.)—As I write this it is 8 o'clock on our second morning out from the port of Lakehurst and we are humming our way along through the skies to the tune of a perfect drone from our engines.

Technically our position is 40 west and 52-30 north, but as a human icicle unused to considering his geo-

HOOVER OR SMITH? WHAT STARS TELL!

If Herbert C. Hoover were born between 4 and 5 a. m., he will be elected President, Paul Karl Schimmack, Washington (Pa.) astrologer, told the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph today. He based the prediction on the Republican candidate's horoscope.

Schimmack also has cast Alfred E. Smith's horoscope, and says it shows that he will receive the votes of thousands of women who at this time have no intention of voting for him. They will be influenced to do so, the astrologer said, by the fact that Smith was born under the sign of the planet Venus.

Schimmack has been handicapped in reading the future of the candidates by lack of exact information

AIRSHIP OFF PATH; LANDING TONIGHT BLOCKED

International News Service.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Oct. 31.—Delayed by bad weather which forced her to deploy northwestward along the Bay of Biscay on the coast of Western France, the Graf Zeppelin is not expected here until tomorrow morning.

Ludwig Duerr, constructor of the Zeppelin, ordered all landing plans for tonight canceled.

Later advices indicated that the Graf had changed her course and instead of flying directly eastward, had steered northwestward towards the Loire River. According to a message received late in the afternoon, quoting an intercepted wireless from a ship, the Zeppelin had passed out over the Biscay coast line and was off the mouth of the Loire River at 5 o'clock, German time. It was assumed she was dodging another storm zone.

The zeppelin works received the following radiogram from Com. Hugo Eckener, commander of the airship:

"The Graf Zeppelin at 4 p. m., German time (10 a. m., Eastern Standard time) is 100 miles southwest of Brest."

It was upon the basis of this report that Herr Duerr announced that the airship would probably land the first thing Thursday morning. He ordered the ground crew of 200 men to disperse.

The special ground crew of 200 men had been gathered to moor the Zeppelin tonight.

Thousands of visitors had gathered here today from all over Germany to welcome the mighty air liner on the return from her trail-blazing journey to the western world. The crowds were disappointed by the news that the landing would be delayed.

All Friedrichshafen, where the Graf was built, was filled with flags and garlands of flowers. The home of Com. Hugo Eckener, commander of the dirigible, was swamped with congratualtory messages and filled with flowers.

ALL WELL ABOARD

International News Service.

BERLIN, Oct. 31.—Having successfully weathered terrific gales on the first half of its return flight from Lakehurst, N. J., to Friedrichshafen, Germany, the Graf Zeppelin was nearing its homeland today.

Eckener is known to be anxious to bring his airship back to its hangar at Friedrichshafen in the shortest possible time.

Now more than 50 hours out since leaving Lakehurst at 1:54 a. m. Monday on the second half of its pioneer trans-Atlantic round trip as the first passenger and mail airship, it appeared likely that Eckener's prediction that the Graf would make a 70-hour trip would come true.

Leaving Lakehurst, the Graf headed northeast, passed over New York and part of Long Island and was next sighted off Block Island and Massachusetts coast. At 6:25 a. m. Monday it passed out to the sea off Chatham, Mass., apparently headed for Halifax.

About four hours later, the Zeppelin passed over the S. S. Laconia, which was 175 miles due south of Halifax, at the time. Then there were several reports from Newfoundland that the airship had been sighted or heard passing over at about 5:30 p. m. Monday.

Next came a direct report from the huge craft stating that at 10 p. m. the same night it was about 250 miles northeast of Cape Race, Newfoundland, encountering terrific gales.

Reports from several ships which either sighted the Zeppelin or communicated with it by wireless yesterday indicated that Dr. Eckener headed east on a course far north of the shipping lanes until reaching mid-Atlantic, when he encountered better weather and headed southeast until the ship was a little below the forty-ninth parallel north latitude.

STOWAWAY REVEALS HOW HE BOARDED ZEP

By CLARENCE TERHUNE.

(Copyright, 1928, by New York American, Inc., and King Features Syndicate, Inc. Production Prohibited in Whole or in Part.

ABOARD GRAF ZEPPELIN, Oct. 30.—This is not my first experience as a stowaway. I stowed away on the maiden voyage of the steamer Malolo, from San Francisco to Honolulu, in 1927.

I came down to Lakehurst from Rye Country Club last Friday night and I watched in the hangar all night for a chance to board the Zeppelin.

Finally the watchman went away from the mail hatch and I climbed up the ladder Saturday night and hid in the mail bags.

Monday morning I was so hungry I came out and asked a mechanic to report me to the commanding officer. He did, and I was put to work.

I wanted to be the first aerial stowaway to Europe. I don't care how they ship me back—they can send me back in irons if they wish.

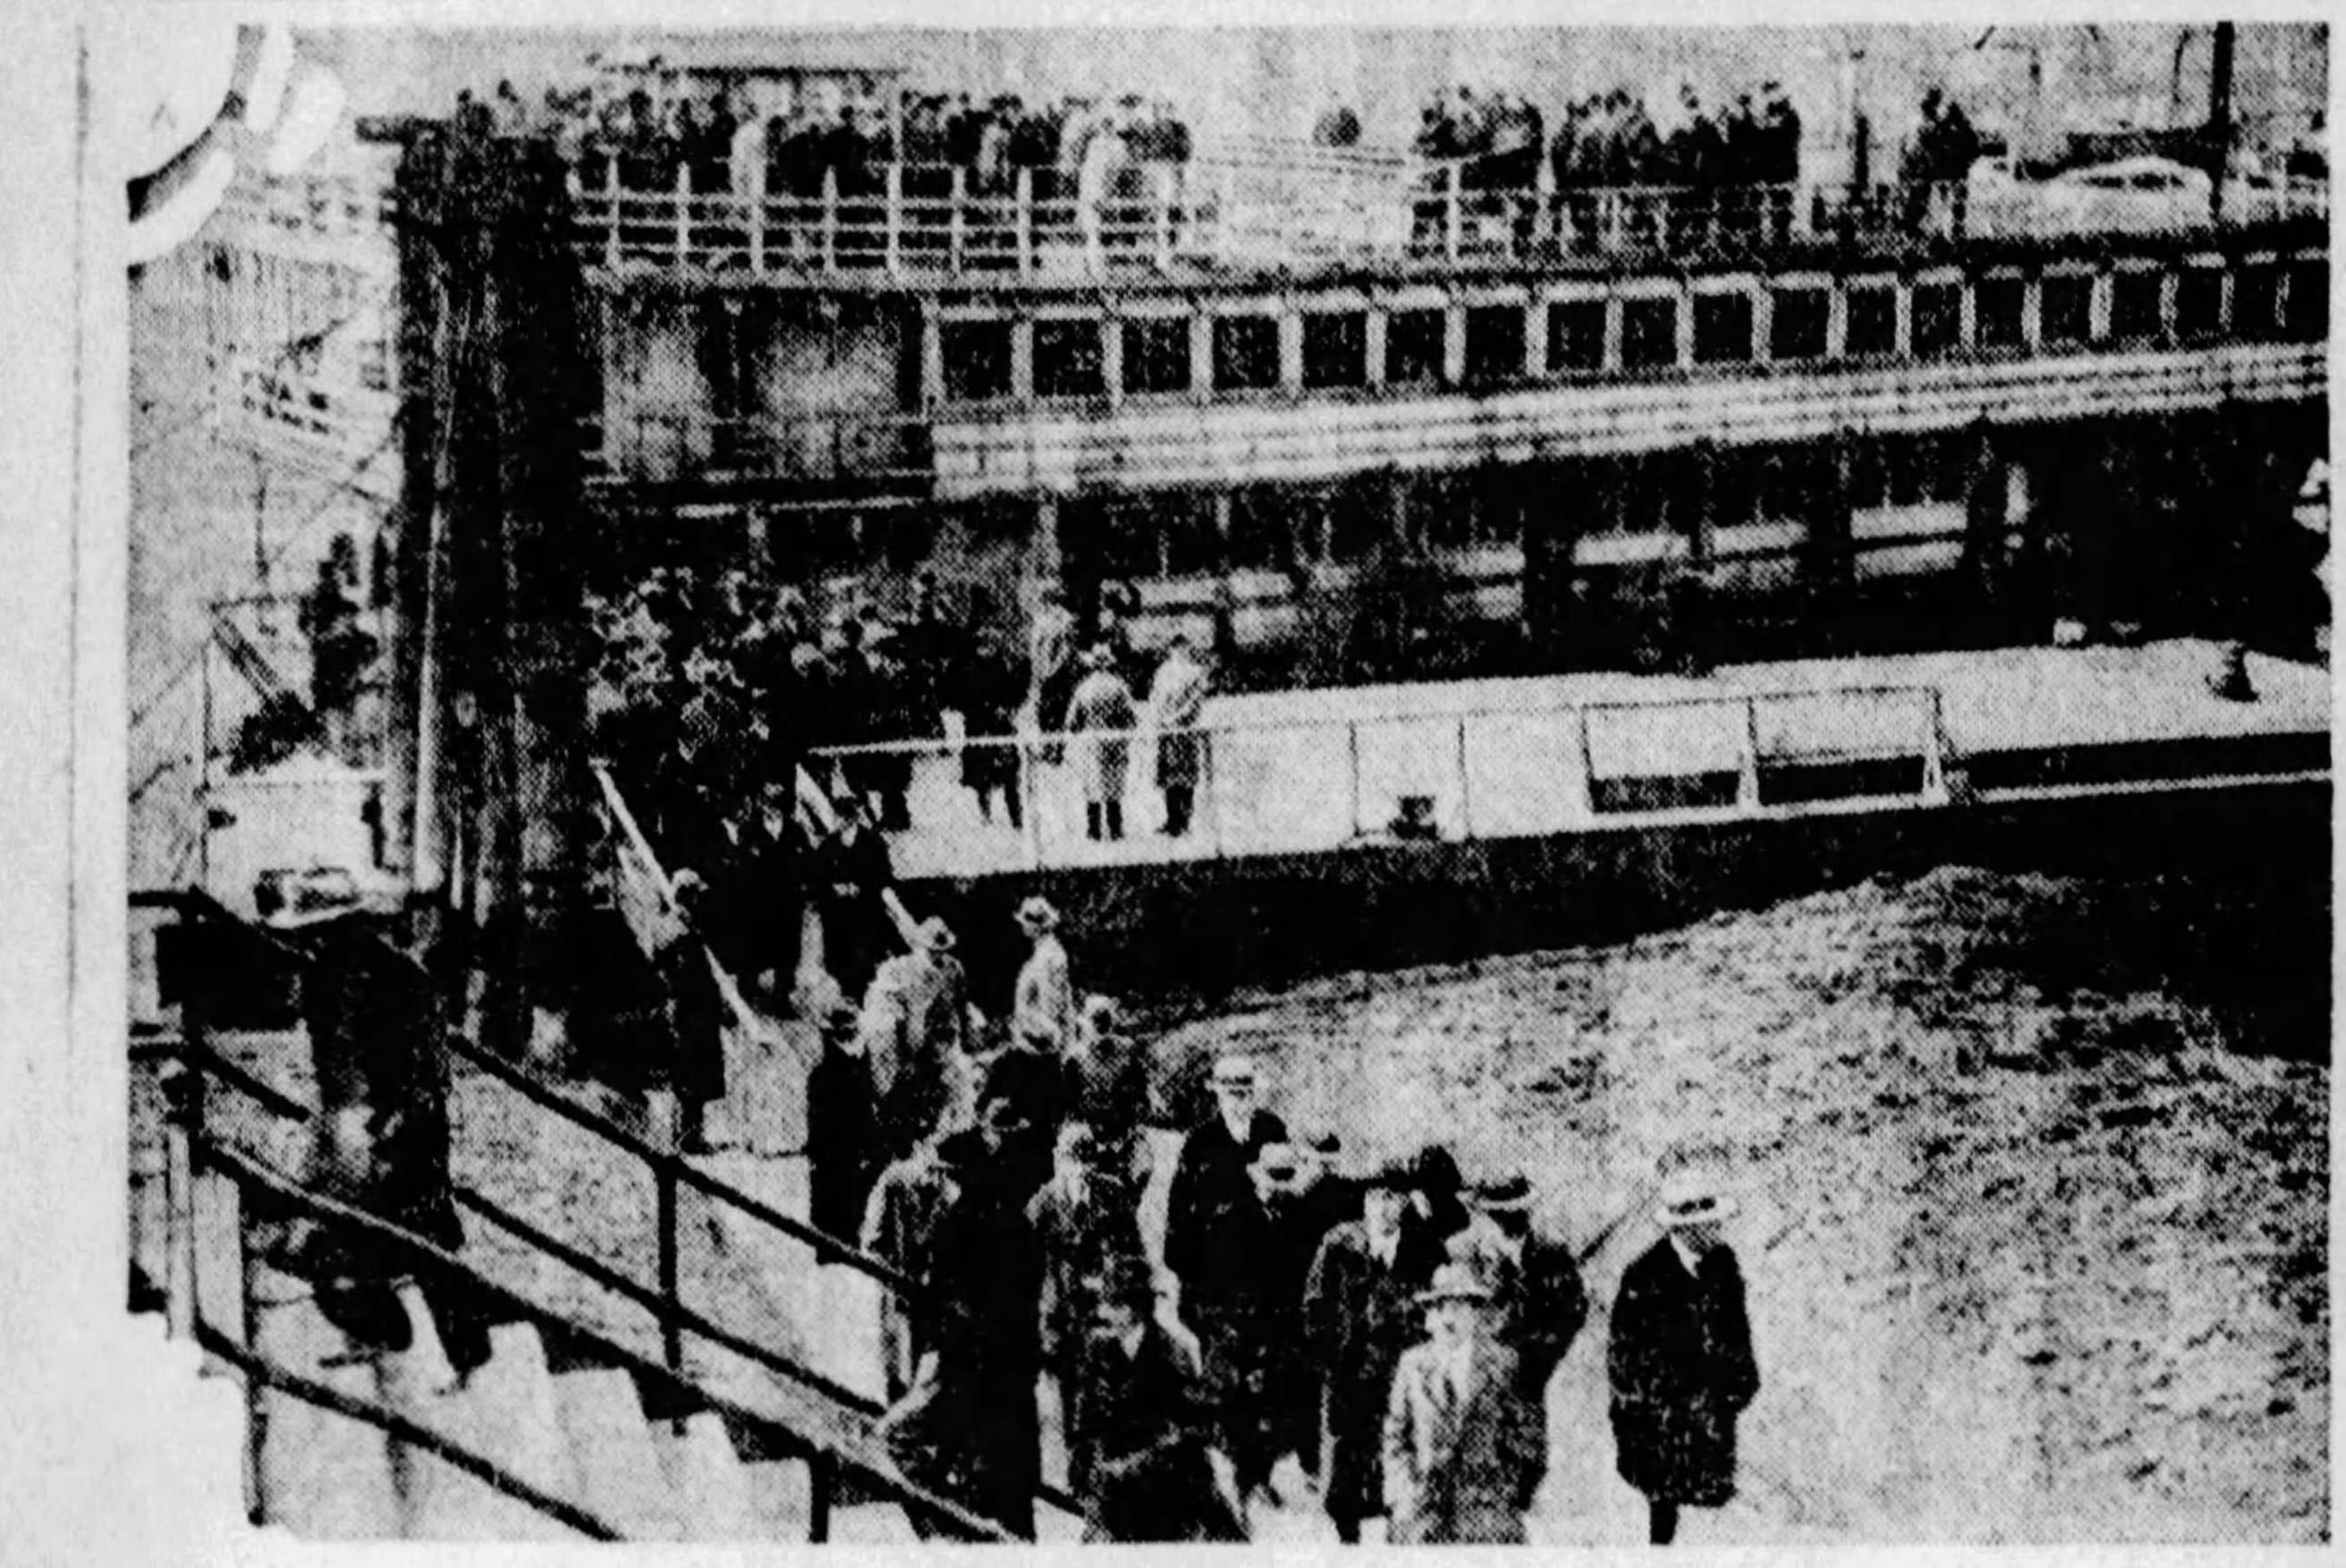
SMITH GOES TO NEWARK FOR TALK TONIGHT

Short Ceremony :-: Senator Reed Breaks Ground for Power Plant :-: Brunot Island



BOAT TRIP

Senator David A. Reed has started construction on Brunot Island, Ohio River, of Duquesne Light Company's giant new power station, to be named for James H. Reed, the Senator's father. Several hundred went to the island by river boat.

SENATOR REED

Senator Reed gave one of the two brief addresses that marked the short ceremony.

GROUND-BREAKING

Here is Senator Reed, surrounded by Pittsburgh businessmen and officials of Duquesne Light Company, as he broke ground for the erection of the new plant. The Senator used a new steel blade,' "symbolic of our city," in the words of A. W. Robertson.

ARREST PATROLMAN ON GIRL'S CHARGE

Accused of a felony, Sub-Traffic Officer John Bodaracco was arrested while on duty in Smithfield street this afternoon and lodged in Central Police Station. The arrest was made on a warrant which Mrs. Julai Davis, 1227 Dickson street, North Side, had issued in behalf of her daughter Anna, 17.

Bodaracco, when questioned by Traffic Inspector Ben Marshall and Detective Inspector Frank Boyd, is said to have admitted that he and several companions had met several girls on Sunday evening and had gone to Mt. Washington, where a party was held. He said he became disgusted with the party and left early. At that time, he said, the Davis girl was still in the house where the party was being held. He denied attacking the girl. Dodaracco, who is 26, gave his address as 134 Bertha street, Mt. Washington.

is a teacher of salesmanship, public speaking and expression. Miss Knaak seemed not to know that for the past week Hitchcock has been laid up at his home with a broken leg.

The young woman's story of how she climbed to the mouth of the furnace and held herself there until she apparently dropped unconscious to the floor, tallied with facts in the possession of investigators. Her nude body was found near the furnace early yesterday. She was rushed to the Lake Forest Hospital.

At the first sign of consciousness, State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county bent forward and asked:

"Who did this?"

"I did it myself—for faith, for purity," she whispered.

By degrees, this story was drawn from her.

"I have known Mr. Hitchcock for four years. I studied from him while I was teaching school in Waukegan. A few months ago I got to know him spiritually.

NOT MATERIAL LOVE

"Understand this was no material love affair. Advanced psychology made me understand him. For several weeks I have been hearing a voice say 'have faith—have faith.' That was his voice.

"Thus we communed, though material distance might place us far apart.

"I had an appointment with him last night. He did not keep it. When he did not appear, I communed with him in the spirit world before the fire. Again I heard the voice—'have faith.'

"To prove my faith, I thought of the fire. I removed my clothing, which I burned. Then—I burned myself."

After calling for a drink of water, the girl rested a moment and then continued, a triumphant smile lighting her countenance:

"But I survived. I proved my faith, and I'll live. Be sure of this: I knew I would survive. This was no effort at suicide."

DEERFIELD, Ill., Oct. 31.—Miss Elfrieda Knaak, whose strange experience with fire in the basement of the Lake Bluff village hall has furnished the police of these exclusive north shore communities with the most troublesome mystery they have ever encountered, is known here as a quiet and studious girl.

She was always timid, even backward, in company, and never had any intimate friends. Her higher education embraced courses at the University of Illinois, Chicago University and Michigan State Normal. Her pastor, the Rev. Mark J. Andrews, of the Presbyterian church, said Miss Knaak was deeply religious and that she had taught her Sunday school classes as usual last Sunday.

According to the Deerfield-Highland Park High School annual, Miss Knaak was graduated from that school in the class of 1917.

"Favors to none, to all she smiles extends," was the quotation beneath her class picture.

BURY HAMMER AT HEARING

It was a hammer which John Meister and Nick Kunkle buried this morning at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Richard Lloyd, of Mifflin township. Both had hearings on disorderly conduct charges, the result of a fight in Bull Run last Saturday night during which a hammer was used as a weapon. Each was sentenced to pay $10 and costs. The pair decided to resume their friendship of years.

BUTLER SCHOOL BOMBED BUT NO ONE WORRIES

BUTLER, Pa., Oct. 31.—Nobody seems much perturbed over the bombing of the Glade Mills Public School at Cooperstown—in fact some folk seem to have looked for the ramshackle building to fall down, burn down or blow down long before this.

Of course, the "outrage" is being investigated by county and school authorities, but the investigation appears to have been more or less a sort of sight-seeing trip, because the wrecking of the schoolroom and its equipment is a work of art from the standpoint of destruction.

"It's a pretty mess," was the way one of the residents put it. And he smiled broadly when he said it. The entire community seems pleased, except perhaps a few members of the school board.

Why the school was bombed, no one is exactly willing to reveal.

"Maybe it was a Halloween prank," one of the residents offered as an explanation.

But the matter seems to go much deeper than that. Several weeks ago, it is said, rumors were rife of a scarlet fever epidemic being prevalent in the community. There was no actual epidemic, as far as can be learned, but a few children were stricken with the disease. A few of the residents claimed the school was unfit for their children and some discussion arose as to the advisability of terminating classes until a new building under construction was completed. The board decided against this, but some of the parents, it is thought likely, might have considered more drastic measures.

Glade Mills school was built before the advent of modern facilities—in fact some of the residents jokingly referred to the dirty gray structure as "The Ark." In the memory of Lorem Marsh, the community's oldest resident, the schoolhouse has been standing for "nigh onto 70 years."

Mr. Marsh is 72, or thereabouts, he says, and he remembers working on the building at the age of 11.

"It's time we got a new school—and they've been long enough building the new one," several of the residents declared.

The new structure, a two-story brick building erected as a consolidated school for Middlesex township, will not be ready much before December 1, it is said, but work on the structure will be rushed in an endeavor to get classes under way by the middle of November, school board members said.

Hunter Killed as Dog Knocks Gun Down

FRANKLIN, Pa., Oct. 31.—(AP.) James Miller, 14, of near here, was killed last night when his dog knocked over and discharged a shot gun which had been leaned against a corn shock. The jugular vein was severed by the charge.

The boy, with two younger brothers, was husking corn and had taken the shot gun along to the field. The pup was frisking about when he bumped against the gun.

of liquor to be delivered to certain places in the Twenty-Seventh ward.

Meyer filed the bills of particulars, sought by defendants, in response to an order by Federal Judge R. M. Gibson that more specific information be presented in support of the indictments which named 166 politicians, police, racketeers and alleged bootleggers.

In the bill setting forth supplemental information against South Side defendants, Meyer avers:

"That between September 1, 1925, and June 7, 1928, the defendants, Francis Kirley and John J. McArdle, supervised the operation of saloon business in the South Side, permitting certain individuals and saloons, and preventing others from operating."

A list of 262 places is attached.

NAMES GRENET

The bill setting forth overt acts as to North Side defendants recites that

"On or about February 15, 1928, Thomas Oliffee and Samuel J. Grenet had a conversation at the Fort Pitt brewery at which conversation sale and possession of whisky and beer for use as beverage purposes were discussed by the defendants, which plans were carried into effect by the erection, maintenance and operation of a still by Andy Puniak, 2823 Preble avenue, where whisky was manufactured and distributed to various persons and places in the Twenty-seventh Ward, pursuant to the plans and agreement entered into at the time of the conversation."

Regarding the Strip defendants, the bill sets forth that

"From January 1, 1926, to June 7, 1928, John W. Orie was a police magistrate of the City of Pittsburgh and at various times during that period held meetings with Stanley Orie, Luke Sullivan and others of the defendants, at which meetings the defendants made plans and agreements for the manufacture, sale, transportation and possession of beer and whisky, which was to be delivered to various persons and places in Pittsburgh."

A list of 165 places is attached.

NAMES OVERT ACTS

The amplified overt acts set forth in the "Strip" indictment allege that:

"That between September 1, 1928, and June 7, 1928, the defendants, Luke Sullivan, John W. Orie, Stanley Orie, Patrick O'Malley, Thomas O'Malley, "Moo" O'Malley, Frank DeLuce, Patrick Meenan, Frank Chasta, John Plsche, Walter Stec, Charles Wolf, Steve Olekszak, Thomas Worst, Isaac Oleszak, Patrick Dixon, Stanley Scheleski, John Burke, John H. Schaurr, Joseph J. Elsner, John Dye, Charles J. Stellar, Darby Hicks, Harry Nehf and Robert Scarbar, at Pittsburgh, did unlawfully possess, aid and abet, in the transportation of intoxicating liquor, for the purpose of selling, and transporting to retail dealers, some of whom are named in the overt act. That Luke Sullivan, Stanley Orie and Luke Harman, between the same dates, solicited orders for moonshine whisky and promised protection to buyers."

In the bill of particulars to the South Side indictment it is set forth:

"That February 1, 1927, John Early and James L. Challis (police lieutenants), conducted a raid on a saloon at 2328 Arlington avenue, seized a small quantity of wine which was not reported to the proper authorities by the two men. That from May 1, 1927, to January 30, 1928, Patrick McArdle, together with George Shad, conducted a saloon at the above address, where whisky and beer were sold with the knowledge and consent of the ward chairman and the police inspector of the district in which the saloon is located. It also avers the payment of various sums of money to defendants for intoxicating liquor delivered to the Lotus Club, the Allentown Turnverein and other clubs in the South Side. Also that on or about April 15, 1927, Mickey Meyers, Joe Meyers, Sam Meyers and Gossie Meyers, unlawfully transported 80 gallons of moonshine whisky in a touring car on Carson street."

The amplied overs acts in the North Side indictment set forth that on May 1, 1928, Martin J. Burke and John Harkins, transported from a point of origin a quantity of moonshine whisky to the saloon of Earl J. Poehlman, 3057 Preble avenue, and that on May 7, 1928, Eugene Cappi and Arnold Thornburg, two of the defendants who on arraignment day entered pleas of "nolo contendere," sold a five-gallon can of moonshine to Mike Saplolia, 2016 Beaver avenue. The bill also cites sale of deliveryy ofyy liquor at several North Side clubs.

"PLAIN TALK" ON POLITICS WINS PRAISE OF READERS

The "Plain Talk With the Readers of This Paper by the Editor," published in the Sunday Sun-Telegraph, has struck a responsive chord. Letters have been received expressing appreciation of the clear analysis in that article of the factors entering into the presidential campaign.

Here are two such communications:

Dr. O. L. Hess, 12 Chestnut street, Scottdale, writes:

"I have just read your 'Plain Talk' in this morning's edition, and to my mind it is the most concise, comprehensive and logical summing up of the present campaign situation that I have read or heard during the whole political discussion. The campaign committee could not spend a few thousand dollars more profitably than by broadcasting this talk throughout the whole country in the few days left. If I had the means it would be done without consulting anyone but yourself.

"I cannot understand why any intelligent man reading it could vote otherwise than as suggested."

E. S. Bullock, manufacturer of hardwoods, white pine and hemlock lumber, Williamsport, Pa., writes:

"Permit me, please, to congratulate you on the 'Plain Talk With Your Readers' in your last Sunday's issue, not altogether because I am a Republican and a strong supporter of Herbert Hoover for our next President, but from a business standpoint.

"It might be interesting for you to know that since I was 10 years old, when I was a newsboy selling the Pittsburgh Times, up to the present time, I have been an out-of-town reader of your paper during the past 32 years.

"I, like millions of others, am deeply interested in this election, and follow up closely all the editorials for and against 'my man,' but your plain talk in Sunday's paper was the best I have ever read.

"I hope that prosperity, prohibition and experience will win, and not experiment."

concerning the precise hours of their birth. Even the minute has extremely important bearing, he says.

He has been forecasting the future from the stars for many years and is credited with having foretold the outcome of the Tunney-Dempsey fight.

SEES SMITH LUCK

In his horoscope of Smith Schimmack says:

"All the newspapers will foretell a great Republican victory, but I will say, not to hollo too loud, and to hold your breath for 48 hours. On the 9th of November the newspapers may change their mind. Moon, with Saturn and Venus, also are in Sextile on the 9th. This is Alfred Smith's good day as the Democratic candidate. This election will be very deceiving to the best minds in this country."

Schimmack says Hoover was born as the pole star was rising, and that persons born under that sign have as much brain power at 12 as most ordinary men; but that it is dangerous for them to overtax their brains. If Hoover should not be elected, Schimmack says, his failure to win the presidency may be a blessing, in that it will save him from the danger of overworking.

SMITH SPEAKS TONIGHT IN NEWARK

By RAYMOND I. BORST,
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Behind carefully guarded doors at the Biltmore Hotel, Gov. Al Smith today was putting the final touches on the speech he will deliver tonight at Newark in his last appearance of the campaign outside his own New York.

Smith is calmly confident of the outcome. With nearly 12,000 miles of campaigning behind him, marked by demonstrations the like of which never before have been witnessed in a presidential campaign, the Governor feels the tide is fast drifting his way and that by next Tuesday the election will be "in the bag" for the Democrats.

He will go to New Jersey convinced he can win the state's 18 electoral votes. Democratic leaders of New Jersey, who privately have admitted during the last 10 days that they were a little worried over the outlook for the national ticket, now feel that Smith's appearance in Newark tonight will be the means of putting the state in the Democratic column.

Labor, prohibition and probably another slap at intolerance are expected to be the high spots in Smith's speech at Newark.

The Governor is expected to stress his opposition to the issuance of court injunctions in labor disputes. Democratic leaders have told him that if he takes a firm stand on this question he will win the votes of countless workers in New Jersey as well as in industrial centers in other parts of the country. In his speech of acceptance the Governor made it clear he was opposed to injunction in labor disputes, but since then he has not touched upon any of the labor issues.

"HIGHER-UPS" NEXT

that the probe had only scratched the surface.

He was going further, he said, to "get the big fellows." He expected to add the names of two ward chairmen and other "big politicians" to the 252 law transgressors already cited for indictment.

FORNEY—AND A REFORMER

Among those 252 there were two of political importance and one whose profession of reformer made worthy of mention.

Alfred Forney was on the list—the same Forney who is serving a six months' Federal sentence in the county jail, and who did not tell all before the grand jury a week ago. Forney was indicted for maintaining gambling devices and being a common gambler. It has been alleged and not seriously disputed, that Forney is the head of a slot machine syndicate that has made millions, but the jurors were not prepared to say that he had enjoyed the benefit of official aid—at least, not to say it with indictments.

Separated from the name of Forney by a string of collectors, maintainers and keepers of slot machines, was the name of Sam Rost of East End avenue. But the inequality was only one of clerical exigency. Mr. Rost, the jurors were told, belonged beside Forney as the lord of a racket principality—the slot machine concession in the boroughs east and south of Pittsburgh.

And then there was Charles W. Collins, of the city's Children's Service Bureau, an avowed foe of slot machine owners. He was alleged to have started many prosecutions that were suddenly dropped. The grand jury will start its promised quest for those "big fellows" next Wednesday. The October jury will continue the probe as a special investigating body. The November grand jury will do the indicting for the "big fellows," taking information from the special investigating jury—if Gardner gets around to it before November is out.

First Signpost for Fliers Painted On Pa. Road

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Oct. 31.—(AP.)—The first road sign in Pennsylvania intended to guide aviators has been painted on the Lincoln highway four miles east of here by employes of the State Highway Department. The sign, painted lengthwise on the road, reads:

"U. S. 30," in letters 14 feet tall.

The sign, the first of a series to extend over the entire Lincoln highway through the state, at intervals of 10 miles was viewed from the air by Lieut. Lowell Harding, of the Gettysburg Flying Service, who said it was one of the finest things yet done to aid aviators. It is easily read from an altitude of 2,000 feet, he added.

SWAMP ZEP STOWAWAY WITH OFFERS OF BIG JOBS

BERLIN, Oct. 31.—(INS.)—Clarence Terhune, the 19-year-old St. Louis adventurer, who stowed away on the Graf Zeppelin, thus opening the way to international limelight and a good job, will find all kinds of offers awaiting him when the Graf reaches Friedrichshafen.

America and Germany are already competing for the young man. Among the offers some are from music halls, others are from business concerns and one is from an animal circus which shortly will go to America.

The manager of the Hagenback Animal Show, of Hamburg, tried to steal a march on his rivals by sending a radiogram direct to Terhune on board the Zeppelin. He offered the American youth a job at his own price, but it is believed that American dollars will win over German marks when the stowaway begins to consider the many proposals.

If Clarence desires to become a journalist he will find the opportunity awaiting him, for a position as reporter is among the offers on hand.

The Tietz department store at Tachen, which follows American methods of advertising, sent word that there is a good job awaiting Clarence in that emporium if he desires to go into trade.

All Germany is interested in the sensational exploit of the 19-year old youth and he is certain to be the center of attraction when he lands.

J. E. Kehl, United States consul at Stuttgart, arrived at Friedrichshaven today to provide Terhune with a regular passport. It is expected that this will avert the $5 fine that the St. Louis youth would have had to pay for entering the country without a passport.

However, on account of the fact that Terhune left the United States without a passport, the authorities have decided to inspect the passports of all the passengers on the air liner.

LIFE IN THE AIR

Here is a graphic idea of life in the air, life in a giant Zeppelin today flying the Atlantic Ocean. This sketch shows passengers peering from the main gondola as the Graf Zeppelin left land behind and headed out over the sea. The next sketch shows officers grouped in the chart and control room.

MACKEY TO RIP OUT WHOLE POLICE FORCE

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—The greatest police shakeup in the history of American municipalities, so extensive that it will amount to the formation of nearly an entirely new force, is planned by Mayor Harry A. Mackey in an effort to rid the bureau of grafters revealed by the grand jury investigating organized lawlessness and police corruption.

After ordering the suspension and trial by the Civil Service Commission of three police inspectors, 18 captains and one detective, declared "unfit to hold any public office" by the grand jury, the Mayor announced today that he had worked out plans for a complete reorganization of the Bureau of Police.

The reorganization will include a revision of the boundary lines of police districts so that they no longer will correspond with the borders of city wards. This was suggested by the grand jury, and Mr. Mackey said he was convinced it would be one of the most effective moves in divorcing the police from politics.

Mayor Mackey's plan contemplates the dismissal of every member of the force against whom even a suspicion of dishonesty has been directed by the grand jury and the dismissal or demotion of every man not exposed by the investigation, but whose record shows derelictions of duty and inefficiency. It also includes the formation of a new ranking slate, with promotion based on efficiency rather than seniority, and the demotion of ranking officers who have failed to measure up to executive duties to the rank of patrolmen with attendant loss of pay.

The Mayor said his reorganization plan would be put into effect as soon after election as possible.

MILLION MORE VOTERS IN N. Y.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 31.—(AP.)—An increase in registration throughout the state of 997,722 over that of 1924, was announced today by Robert Moses, secretary of state. The total registration this year was 4,885,276.

In the presidential election of 1924 the vote in New York state was as follows: Davies (Dem.), 950,796; Coolidge, 1,820,058; LaFollette (Soc.), 268,510; LaSollette (Prog.), 206,395; Johns (Soc. Lab.), 9,928, and Foster (Workers), 8,244.

SPECTATORS TO BE BARRED AT RUM TRIALS

Spectators will not be permitted to attend the trials of the 167 persons indicted by the United States Grand Jury rum-ring probe because of the small seating space in the Federal Building court rooms it was announced yesterday.

The first of the cases will be called November 13 and only attorneys, the defendants, witnesses and newspapermen will be permitted in the room with the judges, jurors and court attaches.

About 50 persons named in the North Side group of indictments will be among the first called. Nineteen attorneys have been engaged to act as counsel. The large number of defendants will fill all the space inside the railing, which usually is reserved for attorneys. The seating space will then be reserved for witnesses.

United States attorneys today are expected to file with the clerk of courts the amplified overt acts alleged against the accused men.

"Vote Early," Armstrong Asks, Fearing Poll Tie-Up

FEARFUL that the unusual interest in this election, the unprecedented enrollment and registration and the large ballot will cause congestion at the polling places of Allegheny county that may prevent some citizens from voting, Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, chairman of the Republican county committee, today issued a statement suggesting means by which the difficulties can be overcome.

His suggestions were:

First—That as many men and women as possible vote before going to work in the morning.

Second—That employers permit their employes who have not been able to vote before coming to work to visit their polling places during the day.

Third—That women, particularly housewives, go to the polls early to leave the field clear for men and women who are employed later.

Fourth—That every voter who finds it at all possible to do so go to the polls before 5 o'clock in the afternoon, the peak hours being between five and seven.

Commissioner Armstrong said that his board had provided greater facilities in the way of additional election paraphernalia and voting booths and had requested all election boards to have everything in readiness to receive voters promptly at 7 o'clock a. m.

LANSING'S BODY TO REST AT WATERTOWN

International News Service.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 31.—The body of Robert Lansing, secretary of state under President Wilson, is expected to arrive here today from Washington, where he died yesterday. Funeral services and burial will take place in this city, Mr. Lansing's birthplace.

The bell at the City Hall was tolled for several minutes last night in mourning for the former diplomat.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Official Washington today mourned the death of Robert Lansing, war-time Secretary of State under Woodrow Wilson. Mr. Lansing died late yesterday at his home here, where he had been confined for the last month suffering from angina pectoris.

In a letter to Mrs. Lansing, President Coolidge wrote:

"The sad news will be a shock not alone to a host of intimate friends but as well to those both here and abroad who are familiar with the important part he played in international affairs for so many years."

FIRE-SUFFERERS

Today Mrs. Margaret Adams, 30, and her three young children are destitute and homeless—living with neighbors—and her husband, John, World War veteran of Company 8, Thirty-sixth Infantry, lies in United States Marine Hospital, paralyzed with injuries said to have been suffered while he was doing heavy work for a transfer company. Their home, rear of 319 Cedarville street, is in ruins and even the few dollars the mother earned last week by doing housework were burned by fire that took their furniture and clothing. Here are Mrs. Adams and Johanna, 10, and Dorothy, 8, and John, Jr., 3.

PROSPERITY, TAX CUT G. O. P.'S FINAL APPEAL

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON.

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—National prosperity, tax reduction, business stability and the protective tariff were rushed to the front line trenches today as the Republican party's major issues in the campaign to elect Herbert Hoover President entered its final stage.

While the Republican nominee began the work of closing up his capital headquarters, the leading spokesmen of the party hammered home business issues as a final reason for a Republican victory next Tuesday. Hoover will touch upon the same issues lightly in his St. Louis speech Friday night, which will be devoted chiefly to a further explanation of his farm relief program and his proposal for developing inland waterways.

The Republican strategists meanwhile swept prohibition aside in their battle for the "Atlantic Seaboard," even though Democratic leaders have sought to make the wet and dry question a paramount question from Massachusetts to Maryland. In the South and West, however, the Republicans raised the issue, pointing to Hoover's defense of the Eighteenth Amendment and his Democratic opponent's proposal for changing the dry amendment.

In the East, still looked upon by Hoover advisers as the great battleground, the tariff was given a greater play than at any previous time during the campaign. Both Charles Evans Hughes speaking in Worcester, Mass., and Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg, speaking from here over the radio, stressed the importance to the country of keeping the Republican party in power to control the tariff.

The Republican organization meanwhile kept after Gov. Smith. Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, who has followed Smith all over the country, will speak in Baltimore tonight, where the Democratic nominee spoke Monday night. Borah, incidentally, will close the Republican campaign with a 90-minute radio address Saturday night.

Hoover leaves at 5 p. m. tomorrow, en route through Maryland, West Virginia, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, Utah and Nevada to his home in California. He will make a number of rear-platform speeches across the country.

SHRINERS END MEETING IN UNIONTOWN

UNIONTOWN, Oct. 31.—Yesterday was Shriners' day in Uniontown. About 4,000 of the nobility attended a big ceremonial in Uniontown and made merry.

A class of 105 passed over the "hot sands." Last night's business session and also a brief one early yesterday afternoon were in charge of Reginal A. Daniell, illustrious potentate of Pittsburgh.

The class of "novices" met at the Masonic home here and marched to the State Theater for the ceremonial which adjourned shortly after 11 o'clock and which was followed by a vaudeville show.

The parade attracted about 15,000 persons with about 3,000 participating. In the line of march were the illustrious potentate and attendants, nobility, Syria Band, Oriental Band, Chanlers Syria Drum Corps and Patrol, Veteran Patrol, Legion of Honor, Triangle Band of Uniontown and the Uniontown Drum and Bugle Corps.

Nearly 4,000 lunches were served in the Hudson-Essex Building. At the ceremonial were represented Wheeling, W. Va., Parkersburg, W. Va., Harrisburg, Philadelphia, Altoona and Columbus, O.

GLORY BARN RADIO PLEA BACKED BY WITNESSES

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Following completion of public hearings in the case officials of the Federal Radio Commission today were unable to say when a decision may be forthcoming on the application of the Rev. John W. Sproul, evangelist, for the reinstatement of a permit to establish a 100-watt radio station in Pittsburgh for use in broadcasting religious services of his "Glory Barn."

Final action may be deferred for some time due to the press of other applications now pending, it was stated.

Accompanied by two attorneys and more than a half-dozen witnesses from Pittsburgh and vicinity the Rev Sproul spent some four hours before the commission Tuesday in an effort to show the necessity for an additional broadcasting plant in the city. He was questioned at length on the nature of programs to be broadcast.

CAMPBELL OPPOSES

Congressman Guy E. Campbell, of Pittsburgh, expressed the belief that more people "tuned in" on Rev. Sproul's services than on the regular feature programs of station KDKA. Similar expressions came from Judge Albert D. Brandon, of the Pittsburgh Morals Court; E. Barr Peat, manager of Bettis Field Airport, and Dr. P. H. Lynch, pastor of the First Baptist Church of McKeesport, where Mr. Sproul recently operated a radio station.

Rev. Sproul informed the commission that, if granted a license, he would tender the use of the station to other religious bodies.

It is the purpose of the Rev. Sproul to utilize approximately 18 hours weekly in broadcasting his own services, the remainded being given over to other sects.

Although the Pittsburgh Evangelist disclaimed any merit as a "healer," the high spot in the hearings came during the testimony of John H. Miller, giving his residence as 68 Delaware street, Mt. Washington, Pittsburgh, who went at length into his experience of being "healed" of an ailment extending over a period of 56 years by the simple process of listening in over the radio to services of Rev. Sproul.

NO MOURNING

If granted a license he promised to carry only regular programs on the air, refusing to allow "shouting and mourning" to take place in his church.

Sproul made a fairly good impression before the commission and there now is a chance that his application may be granted.

Prof. Floyd B. Johnson of Chicago conducted the services in Glory Barn, Carson street, last night in the absence of Evangelist John W. Sproul, who is visiting in Washington in the interest of getting back his license to operate a broadcasting station. Mrs. Sproul assisted the professor, who usually conducts the large choir.

"Salvation by Faith and Faith Alone," was the topic of his sermon delivered by Mr. Johnson. Mrs. Sproul annointed more than a score of men, women and children who came to the platform to be cured. Fifty others answered the altar call. The attendance was about 1,000.

OVAL BARN "CONCESSION" UNDER FIRE IN COUNCIL

The city-owned race track barn at Schenley Park Oval is operated as a livery stable by a private citizen, who nets a profit of $46 monthly on each stall he rents out, according to a report submitted to council.

O. W. McLain, proprietor of the Oakland Riding Academy, 228 Atwood street, told Council the Schenley Park enterprise was hurting his business and asked relief.

McLain said W. J. Moore, former superintendent of the Oakland Transfer Company, is in possession of part of the race track barn and that he induced eight of McLain's customers to remove their horses to the Schenley Park stables.

McLain declared he could not compete successfully with Moore as the latter paid only $4 a month for each stall and did not have any expense for taxes or water rent.

McLain complained to David G. McDonald, superintendent of city horses, but was told that Moore had gone "over my head."

Council asked Edward G. Lang, director of the Department of Public Works, to submit a report showing how stalls are rented at the race track barn, the revenue they produce for the city, the number of horses housed there and the names of the owners.

ZEP PASSES ICEBERG

graphical position in terms of parallels and degrees I would say that we are 600 miles east of Newfoundland and 1,100 miles away from Ireland, the next sight of mother earth that we expect to raise. That will be some time about noon on Wednesday, we are informed.

PASSENGERS COLD

We are traveling considerably farther north than the passenger list had expected. After riding the storm over the gulf and across Newfoundland last night we are far out to sea this morning gazing down on a vista of icebergs and drifting floes. And the weather, I might say, is cold.

Just how cold it is I don't know, but anyone of this good ship's compliment will tell you that it is cold enough in all conscience. Breakfast was a welcome sight. The warming quality of food in the early morning after a frigid night aboard a sky-bird is one of the most grateful sensations a fellow can experience.

The pre-breakfast gathering in the saloon was a gathering of hand-rubbing, bundled-up passengers to whom the very thought of warming drinks was like a dream of paradise. Now, if a fellow could only smoke a cigaret——

But it is a marvelous trip and an amazing experience. I do not imagine there is a soul amongst the passengers who did not suffer all the feeling of pre-adventure nervousness as we sailed from Lakehurst, but it has been amply demonstrated to us during the last 30 hours that we are riding aloft in a particularly airworthy craft in which we travel in safety and comfort.

STORMS BEATEN

Storms beset our course through the evening and early night as we were crossing Newfoundland but throughout the gale our good ship rode like an eagle, almost ignoring its arch enemy the storm king. Just a faint sense of gentle swaying and a slight, easy pitch; that was all there was to remind us in the motion of the Graf that we were riding through a Northern gale.

It was smoother than riding a Pullman car—particularly in a Pullman in which your berth is over the wheels. Nobody was seasick. Everyone aboard was in the best of spirits. There is an absolute absence of concern for personal safety amongst those on board. The steady quality of our Zep and the machine like precision with which its crew goes about its tasks robs one of any vestige of everything but confidence.

STOWAWAY IS HAPPY

Our dishwashing stowaway is still the happiest boy in the clouds. He goes about his job of washing dishes in the ship's galley without a care in the world and with a whistle on his lips. Clarence is living in the crew's quarters and working his passage to land. Capt. Lehmann, while looking on young Terhune with a degree of respect for his sportsmanship in stowing away for an ocean hop, nevertheless officially frowns on the event. In his opinion, young Terhune ought to be punished for his act. Whether this should be in the nature of a sound paddling or just what form the young man's castigation should take the Captain does not vouchsafe, however. Clarence says he doesn't care if they ship him back in irons; he's had his fun, and has the accomplishment of being the first transoceanic aerial stowaway to his credit. The passengers are all with him and admire his young courage, a feeling which I suspect is shared by everyone on the ship.

The beginning of this message back to civilization and the ground was written and sent winging on its way about 8 o'clock New York time, just about the time when the big town was hurrying away to the day's work. Now it is 10 o'clock—in New York, that is—and we have ridden out of the wind into a calm and smiling day. Just how long that condition will last I cannot say. The Atlantic is a fickle mistress and a lady of elemental moods.

Our course has veered southward slightly and we are riding along at an average of 40 knots, heading southward to regain some of the mileage that we lost when the storms drove our craft toward Greenland on Monday night.

NIGHT TECH 'OWL' BALL WILL BE HELD NOV. 10

The fifth annual Tech Owl ball, held under the auspices of the staff of "The Owl," official publication of the Westinghouse Technical Night School, will be held Saturday night, November 10, in the annex of the Pittsburgh Athletic Association.

HOOVER LANDSLIDE IN BUTLER COUNTY LOOMS

Butler county will be solidly Republican, according to a complete canvass of the county in the straw vote poll of Pennsylvania by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

This county will slightly increase its Republican strength over 1924, it is indicated. In that year President Coolidge won 70 per cent of the total vote in the county. Herbert Hoover wins 73 per cent of the vote in the straw poll.

Following the apparent shifts in Western Pennsylvania counties Butler will give some advantages to Smith on this basis: Smith wins in party defections on the basis of 122 Coolidge voters now voting for Smith; compared with 50 Davis supporters now supporting Hoover; and 32 LaFollette voters of 1924 now supporting Smith, compared with 12 LaFollette voters now favoring Hoover.

The vote of women in Butler county is about even, with 27 women voters favoring Hoover and 28 women voters favoring Smith.

In the city of Butler, Hoover will win by a good majority, according to the straw vote. Hoover captures 234 votes, including 15 women, compared to 137 votes for Smith, including 8 women.

The latest returns in the poll of Pennsylvania, conducted in connection with the canvass of the United States by the Hearst papers, gives the following totals in the state: Hoover 73,320, including 59,570 men and 13,750 women; Smith 38,308, including 29,728 men and 8,580 women.

This vote was divided in 1924 as follows: Coolidge 77,272, including 62,521 men and 14,751 women; Davis 11,817, including 9,955 men and 1,862 women; LaFollette 6,525; not voting 16,014.

PASTOR OF CHURCH IN HUNTINGDON DIES

HUNTINGDON, Pa., Oct. 31.—(AP.)—The Rev. Percy C. Webber doctor of cannon law, archdeacon and widely known through his ministerial mission labors, died suddenly at the St. Johns rectory here yesterday. He preached last Sunday, while seated, to the St. Johns congregation and the next day suffered a heart attack. Dr. Webber's home was in Boston. Although non-parochial, he was canonically connected with the diocese of Florida. He was unmarried. His body will be taken to Boston for burial.

MUMMERS WARNED TO NOT TOUCH AUTOS

HARRISBURG, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Sounding a warning against the damaging of automobiles as Halloween pranks, a statement issued by the Department of Highways said most of the practices are violations of the motor code. The statement called upon all police officials to co-operate in preventing the tricks of jokers, such as deflating tires, smearing soap on windshields and putting tacks or nails on the streets and highways to puncture tires.

3 JAILED FOR SHOOTING

Three men were committed to the county jail last night after county detectives had questioned them in connection with the wounding of Jack Grey, laborer at the Dead Man's Island Dam, who is in a serious condition in the Sewickley Hospital. Detectives say Grey was shot in the head when the four were struggling for a revolver. Police say they had been drinking and were riding in a stolen car at the time. The prisoners are Joseph Somers, 35, 1204 Fayette street; George Dumas, 30, a Negro, of Cleveland, and Rufus Howze, 30, a Negro, of Coraopolis.

SENATOR'S GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

SALISBURY, N. C., Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Senator Lee S. Overman, who has represented North Carolina in the upper House the last 26 years, observed his golden wedding anniversary with Mrs. Overman at their home here today. Both Senator and Mrs. Overman declined plans of friends to make the affair an elaborate one.

Among the telegrams of congratulation from prominent men and women of the nation was a message from Gov. and Mrs. Alfred E. Smith, of New York

STOTESBURY, PHILA. FINANCIER, IN CRASH

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Edward T. Stotesbury, financier, was in Lankenau Hospital today as a result of cuts received in a head-on collision of automobiles in Fairmount Park shortly before midnight. The accident occurred when he and Mrs. George Willing, of Chestnut Hill, his guest, were returning from the opera. Mrs. Willing was injured also, but not seriously.

CONDEMNATION FOR AIRPORT IS DELAYED

Condemnation proceedings to acquire land for the municipal airport, Lebanon Church road, Mifflin township, will not be presented to court for at least several months.

County engineers are continuing a preliminary survey of the field, and according to Director Norman F Brown, Public Works Department it will be sometime before the survey is completed.

"The project is still in the preliminary stage," said Director Brown. "We have four corps of engineers on the ground at present, who are working at high speed in an effort to have the field surveyed as soon as possible."

Engineers said that it would be impossible to determine at this time what yardage or the shape of the field should be. "Until we work the proposition up in detail we can not say what properties will be condemned," Brown said.

It was intimated that at least 436 acres will be acquired for the airport. County Solicitor W. Heber Dithrich announced Tuesday that as soon as the report of the engineers is made to him, steps would be taken by him in drawing up petitions for acquiring the properties by condemnation proceedings.

BOSTON SYMPHONY OPENS HERE FRIDAY

The Boston Symphony Orchestra of 110 players, under the distinguished conductor, Serge Koussevitzky, will open the Pittsburgh Orchestra Association concerts at Syria Mosque on Friday night and Saturday afternoon this week. The Friday night program will feature the Beethoven Symphony No. 3, "Eroica," Wagner's Prelude to "The Mastersingers of Nuremburg," Debussy's Nocturnes, "Nuages" and "Fetes" and Stravinsky's "Apollon Musagete" Ballet. On Saturday afternoon the principal work is Brahms' Symphony No. 2 in D major.

EX-PGH. MAN HELD IN W. VA.

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Ray J. Williams, 33, who came here from Pittsburgh, but whose home is said to be in Virginia, was held in jail here on charges alleging embezzlement of $255 from local merchants. Williams, according to charges, collected money for an advertising plan, but failed to fulfill his pledges. Bond of $2,500 was required for Williams' appearance at a grand jury session in January.

LONGWORTH TO SPEAK HERE

Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the House of Congress, and United States Senator David A. Reed, at the Syria Mosque tomorrow night, will carry on the fray in the national campaign against the Democratic party, its candidates, its policies and its principles.

Joseph G. Armstrong, of the Republican Committee of Allegheny County, will preside, and it has been announced there will be no reservations. First to come will be first tendered seats. No meetings have been carded for tonight on account of the Halloween celebrations, but Councilman W. Y. English will speak at the regular noonday meeting at the Republican headquarters at the Hotel Henry. Congressman Stephen G. Porter, at 7:30 tonight, will deliver a radio address over KDKA.

PROCLAMATION

To the People of the Pittsburgh District

The Problem

"The Metropolitan Plan" for Pittsburgh, if adopted, will increase the City's present population from 600,000, 1920 census, to about 1,500,000. The Pittsburgh District, (approximately fifty mile radius), has now a population of about 2,750,000. This population translated into terms of commerce and industry, families and homes, dwellings and office buildings, wealth and buying power: is equaled by but few communities of the world.

The country has little or no knowledge of the potentialities of this Pittsburgh District. This situation results in direct loss, commercially and industrially, to the entire district, and retards its possible development.

Within the district itself there is a decided lack of comprehension of the possibilities of Greater Pittsburgh and of the Pittsburgh District. Competing cities with far less advantages and population challenge its standing, and are securing business and locating industry which rightfully belong to Pittsburgh.

This challenge must be met. A metropolitan spirit must be aroused and a comprehensive program undertaken which shall strive to place Pittsburgh and the Pittsburgh District in a position to meet and surpass any and all competition.

A Call for Community Action

In 1926 the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce inaugurated the Pittsburgh Forward Movement. The business men of the city were united and the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce was reorganized and expanded in order to carry forward this movement, and this it has done most successfully.

The time has now arrived when Greater Pittsburgh should capitalize its commanding position in population and corresponding comparative superiority in commerce, industry, wealth, etc., and should adopt for itself objectives commensurate with its outstanding position.

The Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, therefore, submits the following objectives as its program of work for the future and calls upon all business concerns and individuals, governmental agencies, and other organized bodies in the Pittsburgh District to cooperate in translating these objectives into specific results.

Five Great Objectives

Telling Pittsburgh's Story

(1.) It is proposed that practical plans be formulated and adopted by the Chamber of Commerce looking to the publication of information throughout the United States concerning the true population, commerce and industry of the Pittsburgh District, and concerning its attractive home life, and its great educational institutions, etc.—all with the object that Pittsburgh should take that commanding position to which Pittsburgh is entitled, and thus reap for her people and for the community the full measure of civic benefits which are rightfully hers. THE TRUE STORY of Pittsburgh should be told to the world.

Industrial Expansion and Diversification

(2.) Since modern industrial tendencies have increased efficiency and production without correspondingly increasing employment, it is proposed that a study of basic factors underlying sound industrial expansion be undertaken; that an effective industrial survey of the Pittsburgh District and its needs and opportunities be made by the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce; and that successful methods of industrial expansion being developed in other communities be studied; with the object that the industry and business of Pittsburgh be expanded and diversified, and that employment and general prosperity be increased.

Plans for Great River Commerce

(3.) Pittsburgh today has the largest water-borne tonnage of any port in America with the exception of New York. This water-borne commerce has been restricted, however, until recently to local, or almost local, territory.

With the completion of the canalization of the Ohio River, A NEW ERA DAWNS FOR THE PITTSBURGH DISTRICT. HERE RAIL AND WATER WILL MEET. Steel, heavy products and other finished goods will be transported by water and distributed to the cities of the Mississippi Valley. Raw materials will be brought to Pittsburgh by water from the South, and from Central and South America.

This tonnage movement, in itself of great importance, if properly capitalized, should be the means of developing new lines of industry at Pittsburgh.

As new and adequate docks, waterfront and terminal facilities will be unquestionably required to meet this new movement, it is proposed that a thorough survey and study be made of these needs and that the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, working with all governmental and other interested agencies, shall submit comprehensive plans for such improvements and assist in the adoption and completion of the same.

Study of Municipal Governments

(4.) The Chamber has in the past cooperated with all governmental agencies in the betterment of the community, and has assisted, or has taken the leadership, in improving and simplifying the form of municipal government and its agencies. In recent years the form of municipal government in America has been much simplified and improved.

It is therefore proposed that the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, cooperating with all other interested bodies, undertake a study of the various forms of municipal government throughout the United States, and will submit the result of its findings, with its suggestions and recommendations.

Model Living Conditions for Pittsburgh

(5.) From the single viewpoint of industry, commerce, and general business, it is admitted that the prosperity of any community, efficient management, and production adequate to meet all competition, are directly dependent upon the character of living conditions of all the people.

Among these conditions are recreation, education, health, sanitation, safety, etc. It is necessary that these be continually modernized and improved.

Advantages of living conditions are now acknowledged by all progressive cities to not only affect the happiness of all of the citizens of a community, but directly the development and expansion of industry. INDUSTRIES ARE ESTABLISHED IN CITIES WHERE MEN LIKE TO LIVE.

In competition with other great cities, if successful results are to be obtained, living conditions in Pittsburgh must be equal, if not superior to those of rival communities.

It is accordingly proposed that the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, in cooperation with all other agencies, will continue to devote much of its time and income to that special field of civic improvement which most directly affects the industry, commerce and general business of Pittsburgh and the Pittsburgh District.

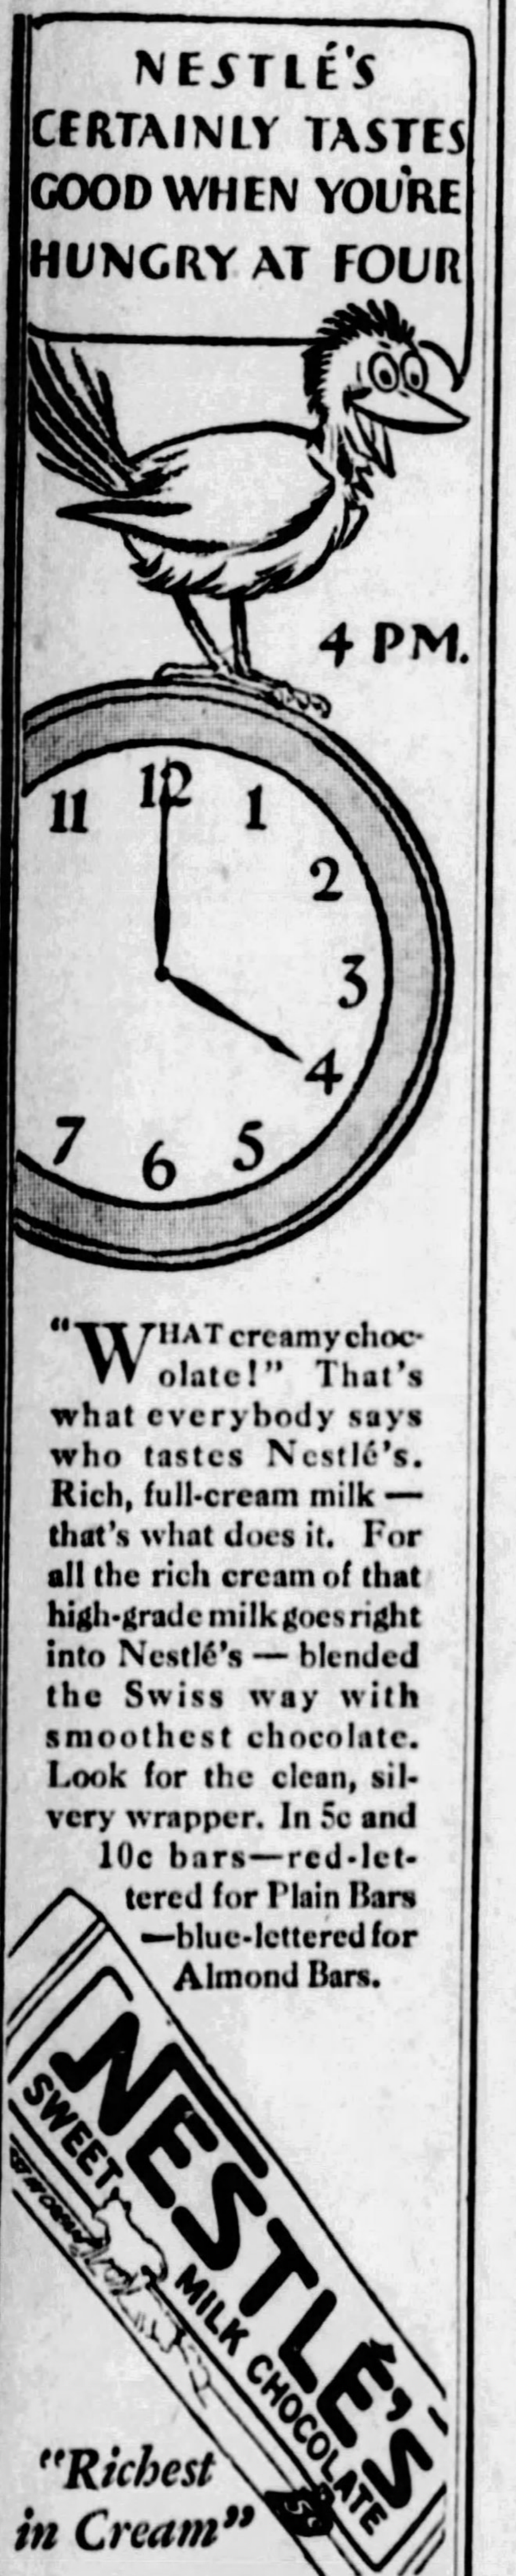
DARROW HERE FOR SMITH

Clarence Darrow, nationally known attorney, will address a Democratic mass meeting in Carnegie Music Hall at 8 o'clock this evening. Mr. Darrow has been speaking throughout the country in the interests of Gov. Smith. At a meeting yesterday of the advisory committee it was decided that the same rule as to seats which prevailed at the mass meeting in the Gayety Theater last Saturday night would prevail and that it would be a case of first come first seated.

Louis V. Barach will address the Seventh Ward Smith-for-President Club at its headquarters, 6204 Penn avenue, this evening at 8 o'clock. The club is also planning a parade and rally tomorrow evening.

The Eighteenth Ward Smith-for-President Club will hold a card party this evening at 8:30 o'clock in the Allentown Turner Hall, Allen avenue.



NESTLÉ'S CERTAINLY TASTES GOOD WHEN YOU'RE HUNGRY AT FOUR

"WHAT creamy chocolate!" That's what everybody says who tastes Nestlé's. Rich, full-cream milk — that's what does it. For all the rich cream of that high-grade milk goes right into Nestlé's — blended the Swiss way with smoothest chocolate. Look for the clean, silvery wrapper. In 5c and 10c bars—red-lettered for Plain Bars —blue-lettered for Almond Bars.

Chiffon Frocks

New, Colorful Ones
For Women and Misses

$25

. . . Because Chiffon, in frocks perfectly attuned to the present season, is having a strong "run" just now . . .

. . . Because many a woman resolves to have several soft, feminine, little frocks, every time she wears something else to a party, and regrets it . . .

. . . Because these are such unusually attractive frocks for the price . . .

For these reasons, women and misses are urged to keep this special item in mind, tomorrow, when they come down to the coat sale.

Five styles for misses, five for women, in wood violet, fuchsia, independence and middy blue, lipstick red, wine, sage green, raspberry, cafe brown, and marron glace.

News of Film World Combined With Brevities About Theaters

YOUNG ACTRESS HAVING WORK IN TWO PLACES CALLED TO PLAY LEAD ROLE

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright, 1928, K[illegible]e Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 31.

NANCY CARROLL has one of those contracts held by a few Hollywood players which calls for a division of time between two studios. Nancy had been appearing most in Paramount pictures. But Fox also has a call on her services. For it was on the Fox lot that she made her bow in "Ladies Must Dress," starring Virginia Valli. Now Fox has called Nancy to play the leading feminine role in "The Great White North." It will be directed by Charles Klein, best known, perhaps, for his work on "The Tell-Tale Heart." Klein has just completed Blindfolded," in which Lois Moran and George O'Brien appear. It is understood that the hero of the film also will come from an outside studio.

When Corinne Griffith begins her new photoplay, "Saturday's Children," she will have Grant Withers as her leading man. Grant it under contract to Warners and has been borrowed by First National for the role. But, as the valiant Warner Brothers now control First National it isn't exactly a borrow after all. Naturally, the picture will be made with vitaphone syncronization.

Marion Davies' Welcome Novel

ONE of the most successful and novel parties in the memory of Hollywood was held at the "Coconut Grove" to welcome Marion Davies back home. It was a complete surprise to the star, which shows that Hollywood can keep a secret. No fewer than 150 celebrities knew all about it. The "Grove" was specially decorated and there were any number of novel innovations such as only Hollywood genius can evolve to greet its favorite. Marion is well rested and looks marvelous after her European vacation and is all prepared to step before the cameras and microphones for her first sound picture, "The Five O'Clock Girl."

Ralph Graves has been given the leading role opposite Marie Prevost in the Columbia picture, "Side Show," which Erle Kenton will direct. Ralph is back again playing in feature length productions after a fling in the two-reel field and also some experience wielding the directorial megaphone. Ralph's last for Columbia was one of the several roles in "Submarine," which is Columbia's banner picture of the present season.

"The Concert" To Come Again

LEO DITRICHSTEIN'S famous old play, "The Concert," will be made into a picture once again Sam Goldwyn made it years ago. This time it will have Adolph Menjou as its star, and they do say it will be the last picture Menjou will make for Paramount. According to the universal rumor, Adolphe is one of the group who will release productions through United Artists, with Joseph P. Kennedy attending to the money matters for various units. Janet Beecher and Jane Grey played the feminine roles of "The Concert" in the stage play.

Milton Sills has signed a new contract with the Warner-First National outfit for four pictures, to be filmed during the next 12 months His first under the new agreement will be "Comedy of Life," in which the star will appear with Maria Corda as his leading woman and Alexander Korda, her husband, as director.

Alvin Has Radio To Announce Curtain

A miniature broadcasting station now is in operation in the Alvin, the first theater to use this mode of informing persons in the lobby that the overture is about to be played, or that the curtain will ascend in a few moment. Song hits from the various musical comedy successes coming to the Alvin in the near future also have been successfully broadcast from backstage into the lobby. The broadcasting set has been installed in the office of James McGrath, stage manager. The microphone catches a voice or the music and transfers it simultaneously into the lobby, this being identical with the equipment and operation of the large broadcasting stations.

The idea for the broadcasting is that of John B. Reynolds, manager of the Shubert theaters in Pittsburgh, and it was executed by Mr. McGrath.

CANTOR PLAY COMES FOR PREMIER

"Whoopie," starring Eddie Cantor, which will have its world's premiere in the Nixon Tuesday night, November 6, is announced as one of the most expensive and luxuriously artistic production which Mr. Ziegfeld has ever offered. Supporting Mr. Cantor will be Ethel Shutta, Ruth Etting, Ruby Keeler, Frances Upton, Tamara Geva, Helen Brown, Chief Caupolican, Indian baritone, and others. Thursday opens the box office seat sale.

"The Desert Song" is announced as the Alvin attraction, beginning next Monday night. Its romance features Alexander Gray and Bernice Claire and the humorous situations between Bernard Granville and Sally Sloan furnish the comedy relief. The company of 125 comes to Pittsburgh intact after an eight months' run in Chicago and a long summer engagement in Detroit. The seat sale opens Thursday.

Beginning next Monday night the Shubert Pitt will offer Miller and Lyles, Negro comedians, in their latest production, "Keep Shufflin'," successor to their "Shuffle Along." The company of 60 includes the Harmony Trio, singers of Negro spirituals, and the Sunshine quartet of male voices. Seats go on sale Thursday.

Harry Rogers' All-Girl Show is booked to top the Keith-Albee vaudeville attractions in the Davis next week. Charlie Murray in "The Head Man," a comedy, will be seen on the screen.

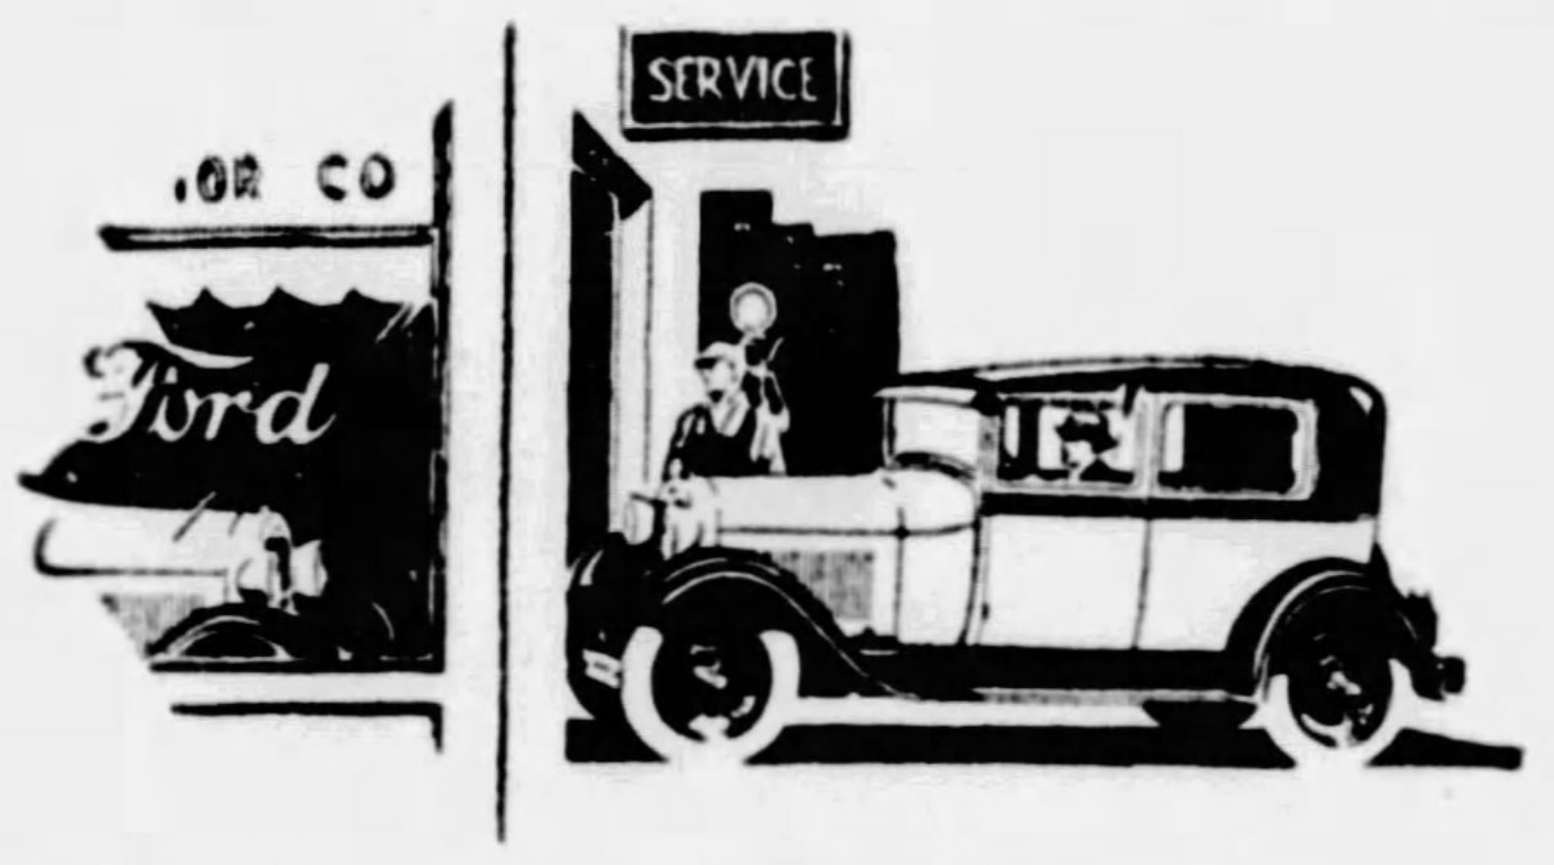
Every purchaser of a new Ford is entitled to Free Inspection Service for the first 1500 miles



THE modern automobile is a finely built piece of machinery and it will stand a lot of abuse. Considering the work it does, it gives surprisingly little trouble. But there isn't a car made that will not run better and longer if given proper care.

The first few hundred miles are especially important because that is when the mechanism of your car is being broken in. Proper attention during this period will lengthen its life and prevent unnecessary trouble later on.

We are particularly interested in this matter because we believe it is our duty not only to make a good automobile, but to help the owner get the greatest possible use over the longest period of time at a minimum of trouble and expense.

With this in view, the entire Ford dealer organization has been specially trained and equipped to service the new Model A car.

Furthermore, we have instructed every Ford dealer to give the following Free Inspection at 500, 1000 and 1500 miles:

Check battery
Check generator charging rate
Check distributor adjustment
Check carburetor adjustment
Check lights
Check brakes
Check shock absorber adjustment
Check tire inflation
Check steering gear
Change engine oil
Lubricate chassis

No charge is made for labor or materials incidental to this service, except, of course, where repairs are necessary through accident, misuse or neglect. The only charge is for new oil.

See your Ford dealer, therefore, and get this Free Inspection of your new car at 500, 1000 and 1500 miles. Find out, too, how little it will cost to have your car given a thorough going-over at regular periods thereafter.

A periodic checking-up, together with oiling and greasing every 500 miles, will add months and years to the life of your car and mean more economical and pleasurable motoring every mile you drive.

GAS 'GYP' FAULT OF MOTORISTS, CLAIM

Only 2 per cent of gasoline station pumps in the county are inaccurate, according to an inspection made by Thomas Howard, head of county weights and measures bureau.

Recent complaints made by motorists that they were "gypped" by a short measure of gas caused Howard to make an investigation.

"Those who claim they were given a short measure, are to blame themselves," Howard said. "In purchasing gasoline if a motorist would be more alert he would receive the amount of gasoline he pays for."

Howard maintains that what cheating is done is by the attendants at the service stations.

"It is not the fault of the pumps, but the men operating them," said the weights and measure expert. "All a motorist has to do in buying gasoline is step out of his machine and see that the attendant gives the number of gallons purchased—and see that the attendant drains the hose from the pump to the gas tank. When an attendant sees that he is not being watched, he will put any amount of gasoline in the tank he desires and charge the motorist for the amount requested. That is where the cheating is done."

A survey of pumps in the city is being made by Murray Livingston, chief city ordinance officer. His investigation will be completed in about two weeks.

According to Howard when the county weights and measures bureau was established an investigation of pumps revealed that 98 per cent of the pumps were not accurate and were giving short measures.

SENTENCE NOT LEGAL, CLAIM

Attorney Albert Martin has begun habeas corpus proceedings in Common Pleas Court to obtain the release of Luke Person, 2942 Webster avenue, from the Allegheny County Workhouse. Person was sent there for 60 days on a suspicious person charge and in default of a $50 fine. Attorney Martin claims that the sentence imposed by Magistrate Edward M. Hough was illegal. The writ is made returnable November 1.

JUDGE ORDERS FAYETTE "VOODOO" HEALER OUT

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 31.—Use of charms in the treatment of the sick today resulted in the expulsion from Fayette county of Clayton R. Miller, known as the "voodoo" doctor of Brownsville. Miller admitted that he used grass, straw and other things in the treatment of the sick. He was fined $300 and ordered to leave the county before December 1.

TWO GO TO PRISON FOR ATTACKING GIRL

STEUBENVILLE, O., Oct. 31.—Campbell Lamatrice, 21, was convicted of kidnaping and assaulting a 14-year-old girl, and was sentenced to from two to 20 years in the Ohio penitentiary. Charles O'Malley, 20, pleaded guilty to the same offense and was sentenced to the reformatory for an indeterminate period.

Gas on Stomach Is Dangerous

Bisurated Magnesia Gives Speedy Relief or Money Back.

Gas, Pain, Bloating and a feeling of fullness after eating are almost certain evidence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach.

Too much acid irritates the delicate stomach lining, frequently causing chronic Gastritis and dangerous Ulcers. Food ferments and sours, forming a gas that distends the stomach and often seriously affects the heart.

It is genuine folly to neglect such a condition or to treat with artificial digestive aids that cannot neutralize the stomach acid. A better way is to get from May Drug Co. or any reliable drug store some Bisurated Magnesia (powder or tablets) and take a little after each meal. This famous but simple and inexpensive stomach sweetener and anti-acid can be depended upon to prove its value in less than five minutes or the druggist is authorized to promptly return your money. Pleasant and perfectly harmless to use—Bisurated Magnesia does give wonderful relief in nine out of ten cases. Ask your doctor or druggist.

Record Mail for Pittsburgh on S. S. "Rochambeau"

The S. S. Rochambeau sailing from Havre today carries the largest mail sent on a single steamer from France since the war. This because RIGAUD, Paris Parfumeur, has dispatched on this steamer 2,000,000 letters for American women. These letters, which were addressed by widows of French soldiers who fell in the war, will reach America about the anniversary of the Armistice. Many of these letters are addressed to Rosenbaum patrons.

Peggy Lynn Stevenson Added to December's Debutante List

IN the days of the "ancien regime" debuts were carefully planned long before the season opened. But this is an age of spontaneity when decisions are quickly made. The social season this year in Pittsburgh, which is inclined to be rather conservative, I'm sure you'll agree, has had a number of additions to the debutante list after the first "coming out" party was over.

No longer ago than two or three weeks, I mentioned, if I remember rightly, that the last debutante who would be added to the list was Louise Latimer Reed, daughter of the W. Edgar Reeds. But I was wrong, I've discovered.

Now instead of 21 debutantes for the 1928 season there are 22. And the twenty-second is Peggy Lynn Stevenson, daughter of the Alan C. Stevensons, of St. James street. Her parents had intended to wait another year, I understand, but now will bring her out month after next. Peggy will be presented at a tea her mother will give in the Twentieth Century Club on Friday afternoon, December 7. Peggy, you probably know, went to Dana Hall, at Wellesley, Mass.

TODAY all the debutantes of the season again are guests at an all-debbie affair. Priscilla Barnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. U. Webber Barnes, of Howe street, is giving a luncheon for them in her home in honor of two buds, Elizabeth McCullough, daughter of the William T. McCulloughs, and Bettie Burger Dunlap, daughter of the Will Knox Dunlaps.

Yellow and white chrysanthemums are used in decorating the table, lighted with tall yellow tapers.

From the luncheon the debutantes will go to the tea Mrs. John Follansbee, of Squirrel Hill avenue, is giving in the Twentieth Century Club for her debutante daughter, Rebecca, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Haynes Follansbee, the former Elizabeth Lewis, daughter of Mrs. William Smith Stimmel. All the buds, I believe I've mentioned before, will be Rebecca's aides.

NO matter how many delightful debutante affairs there are to attract society women, they never forget their philanthropic interests. Proof is given by the number of benefits planned for the busiest months. On Monday many of them will be seen at the benefit bridge to be given in the Hotel Schenley for the Eye and Ear Hospital.

Mrs. John F. Walton and Mrs. Wilmer M. Jacoby will be in charge of ushers for the benefit. The ushers will include, by the way, members of the Pittsburgh Free Dispensary Aid Society, an auxiliary to the board of the hospital. Among these auxiliary aides who will be ushers are Kathleen Guthrie, Margaret McClintic, Anna K. Childs, Augusta Leovy, Mrs. William Larimer Jones, Jr., and Mrs. Samuel A. Hartwell, Jr. Miss Anne Holdship Robinson will be at the door.

ALREADY this week New York has had some Pittsburgh visitors. Among them are Mrs. George Grier Coolidge, who has been at the Barclay, and Mrs. Alexander Laughlin, Jr., who has been stopping at the Berkshire.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. W. A. EWING, of Elm street, Wilkinsburg, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth May Ewing, to Herman George Koch, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman George Koch, Sr., of Cedarville street, which took place October 17 in Butler with the Rev. W. O. David, of the Butler Presbyterian Church, as the officiant.

MISS ELLEN WURTZ STRAWN, of New Kensington, has chosen Tuesday, November 20, as the date for her marriage to Alton Luther, of New Kensington.

* * *

A CHICKEN dinner will be served tomorrow night from 5:30 to 7 o'clock in the dining room of the First Methodist Protestant Church, Aiken avenue and Howe street, by the Irene Rutledge class.

MISS MARIAN BENNER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Benner, of Dickson avenue, Ben Avon, has chosen November 10 as the date for her marriage to James E. Poole, of Painesville, O. A small home wedding has been planned.

* * *

THE class of 1827 of the alumni association of Old St. Mary's Academy will hold a card party Saturday in Kaufmann's with Miss Ella Mae Donovan as chairman.

* * *

THE Court Charliers, Catholic Daughters of America, Dramatic Club will hold a card party Friday night, November 9, in the Knights of Columbus Hall, Crafton. Bridge, euchre, "500" and Old Maid will be played.

WOMEN VOTERS TO HEAR OF UNIQUE SCHOOL

UNIQUE, insofar as this country is concerned, is the story of the Campbell folk school in the mountains of North Carolina, which Miss Marguerite Butler will relate before the annual meeting of the Allegheny County League of Women Voters in the Fort Pitt Hotel Friday. The business session, at which directors will be elected, will be held in the English room at 10:30 o'clock. Luncheon at 1 o'clock will be featured by Miss Butler's talk on "Something New in the Mountains," in which she will describe the beginning of an experiment in education conceived by the late Dr. John Campbell and being carried out now by his widow and Miss Butler, who is assistant director. Patterned after a type of education that has long been established in Denmark, it is a radical departure from formal standards, being free of actual discipline and the usual pedagogical impedimenta such as units, credits, diplomas and degrees. The students and teachers live and work and play together and the whole program of instruction is characterized by informality. The school is at Brasstown, in the extreme southwest of North Carolina. It was established by Mrs. Campbell and Miss Butler after the two had made a thorough study of similar educational work as carried on in Denmark. Miss Butler is a graduate of Vassar and was formerly identified with a settlement school in the mountains of Kentucky.

MRS. G. C. DEAN will have a paper on "Our Moral Court," Mrs. W. G. Hayward will give a reading, Rollo H. McBride, of the Parting of the Ways Home, will speak and Miss Elizabeth Graf will furnish the music for the meeting of the West View Forum on Monday evening. Mrs. Walter Dyck is to be hostess, with Mrs. V. C. Walters assisting.

THE University of Pittsburgh Young Women's Christian Association is holding a Halloween tea for women students this afternoon in Heinz House. The affair marks the close of the finance campaign. Miss Anne Lannan, chairman, is assisted by Miss Mary Ann Johnston.

* * *

MRS. J. M. BOSTWICK heads the the committee in charge of the card party to be given Saturday afternoon in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel by the Woman's Civic Club of Wilkinsburg.

GWILLYM A. PRICE will address the Lee Community Club at its meeting on the evening of November 12. Committee reports will be heard and the by-laws changed at the business meeting.

MEMBERS of the Junior Oakmont Woman's Club will be guests of the Girls' Auxiliary to the Mothers' Club of Carrick next Tuesday. Miss Jeannette Winchester, of the Oakmont juniors, will give her impressions of the State Federation convention and a group of juvenile dancers will furnish a program novelty. Mrs. Paul Hessler, Miss Margaret Rodgers, Miss Florence Brennan, Miss Aileen Niederberger and Miss Cyrilla Dapper will be hostesses.

MOTION pictures shown on the machine which was a gift to the Woods Run Settlement House from the Women's Community Association will feature the association meeting in the Settlement House next Monday evening.

* * *

MRS. CARL J. FECHHEIMER, who traveled through the Holy Land, will speak on "Modern Palestine" at the meeting of the literary department of the Woman's Club of Mount Lebanon on Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Sylvester Ulmar, Hazel Drive.

* * *

THE following officers have been elected by the United Presbyterian Women's Association: President, Mrs. H. C. Campbell; vice presidents, Mrs. W. H. Vincent and Mrs. John McElwain; recording secretary, Mrs. John A. Wilson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. R. L. Thompson; treasurer, Miss Sarah B. Henning.

* * *

MRS. ROSE BRAUN, general chairman for the benefit card party of the Pittsburgh Council of Catholic Women, announces these chairmen of committees: Patronesses, Mrs. L. P. Collins; cards, Mrs. L. J. Feinaugle; prizes, Mrs. T. J. Sweeney; publicity, Miss Catherine A. O'Donnell; candy, Mrs. D. J. Sullivan; reception, Mrs. Thomas P. Horan.

The date selected is November 22 at Elks' Hall, Seventh avenue and Duquesne way.

"THE New Motif and Dimensions in Modern Advertising" will be the subject of a talk by John Vassos, the illustrator, at a special meeting of the Women's Advertising Club Friday noon in Kaufmann's.

OWING to the death of Mrs. W. B. Carson, a director of the Congress of Clubs, the luncheon recital of the music department, which was scheduled for today, has been postponed until Thursday, November 8.

* * *

THE Rev. Dr. Robert Galbreath will speak at the Noon Club for business women in the First Presbyterian Church tomorrow. Music will be furnished by Max Kroen and Vincent Kroen, accompanied by Mrs. Adalaine Merrill Biddle.

A CHANGE in place has been made for the next meeting of the Woman's Literary Club of Bellevue. Mrs. W. R. Murphy, of Teece avenue, will be hostess, taking the place of Mrs. O. M. Waddell. The members met yesterday in Carnegie Institute for a business meeting and a tour of the international art exhibit under the guidance of Elmer Stephan.

THE current interests committee of the Twentieth Century Club will have its opening meeting tomorrow. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 for members only and afterwards Dr. Charles H. Frazier, of Philadelphia, president of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania, will speak on the welfare bond issue amendment; Dr. Thomas H. Reed will discuss the Metropolitan Plan and Mrs. Elizabeth B. Motz will demonstrate the voting machine.

RAILROAD 'Y' SEEKS 1,500 NEW MEMBERS

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 31.—The Newell Y. M. C. A. of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad has opened a drive for 1,500 members. The campaign will close Saturday.

"A Lot of Money?"

A man wanted to increase his life insurance from $10,000 to $20,000. His wife said, "Don't do it; $10,000 is a lot of money." So he put it off.

But he died. She invested the $10,000 at 6%, and received $600 a year, $50 a month—Not such a "lot of money," was it?

What income would your insurance produce? Or how long would it last, if the principal had to be used?

Our "Program Folder" will help you figure what you need. Send for it today

A treasure house of flavors—Roast Duckling Pennsylvania! Special this week on the menus of Pennsylvania diners.

Roast Duckling . . . that will become one of your pleasant memories
—on Pennsylvania diners this week!

Golden-roasted to perfection, juicy, savory, indescribably delicious! One taste will kindle such a glow of pleasure as you feel before a blazing hearth on a cool autumn night . . .

Within the golden walls of duckling is a dressing of crisp celery and young onions, of finely cut ham, chopped livers, chopped parsley, an egg and a pinch of thyme, added to a basis of diced white bread. The whole is seasoned to suit tastes that are as discriminating as any king's.

The duckling, with its treasure of stuffing, is served piping hot—with cool, fresh apple sauce to bring out, by contrast, all its delicate flavor.

No wonder travelers write generously praising the cuisine on the Pennsylvania Dining Cars!

In the Pennsylvania Railroad's three dining-car schools at New York, Columbus and Chicago, skilled instructors train its chefs to prepare such delicious dishes as this.

Roast Duckling Pennsylvania is a dish that makes long journeys seem shorter. Try it—on all Pennsylvania diners this week.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

The Ties That Bind

THE mystery of life, to a modern husband, is the discovery that when his wife begins taking off most of her clothes, she is dressing for a formal dinner party, and not going for a swim.

Love is a gamble in which a woman crosses herself and prays to be the lucky winner, and a man confidently bets on himself as a lucky loser.

* * *

A man may be blinded by the brilliance of a woman's beauty, but he is usually just "struck dumb" by the brightness of her wit.

HELEN ROWLAND

Alas, the girl who could offer a man "the real goods" in all those wifely qualities which he most admires so often loses him for lack of good salesmanship!

* * *

To be popular in this world all you need to remember is that every woman loves to be looked at—and every man loves to be listened to.

In order to startle the world with her originality, nowadays, a woman has only to admit that she is madly and incurably in love with her own husband.

Widows and divorcees are the great optimists of the world. Somehow, if a woman has had a good, faithful husband, she thinks that all other men are like him; if she hasn't she fondly believes that all the others are "different."

* * *

One of the funniest things in the world, to a married man, is to hear a brand new bridegroom and a hard-boiled bachelor telling each other "how to tame a woman."

Most marriages aren't broken off; they just stretch and stretch and stretch—until "the ties that bind" give way.

* * *

Removing all the mystery from love or a woman has the same effect as removing his hat from a bald-headed man.

For the Lovelorn

Melancholy Kid

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am coming for some advice although I think I am rather late. I am a young married woman 19 years of age. At the age of 17 I married a wonderful fellow, a school-pal through kindergarden and high school. He is now 24 years of age. I thought I knew what love was at that time, but of course, at that age we think we can conquer the world with a smile. My mother greately opposed my marriage for this reason: A daughter's duty is with her mother until death. I was refused entrance to home and my brother and sister ignored me. Everything seemed to turn topsy-turvy. He stood by my side and encouraged me, tried his best to cheer me up, putting all the blame on himself. In course of time, I was permitted home, then things only did happen. Mother promised me all sorts of trips and good old times again if I would only come home. Lies were said about him to me and I believed them, so in the end mother succeeded in getting me home. For a long time I really enjoyed being home. Mother gave parties for me, and in fact for two months straight I wasn't home one night. But that all soon stopped and things were not so rosy, and I had time to think over what I did, and remember how he pleaded with me to be sure I knew what I was doing. Naturally, at that time I did, and snubbed him, said goodby and ended things. He immediately tried to hunt me up, but I refused to see anything of him, so he left town. This has happened over a year ago. Now I realize my mistake and my feeling is greater now for him than ever. I can't rest at home, I must be on the go. Out every night and this is the cause. He has just returned to town and his friends can just about recognize him. I would willingly go to him and bare my soul, but mother has taken ill and the least excitement would cause her death as her heart is very weak. She can't walk, just sits around. She loves me, but won't consent to my going back to him, so I am torn between two loves. I love mother even after all she has done, and yet he needs me. I couldn't and wouldn't have any peace if I left home knowing she may die and I being the cause, and on the other hand he is just as bad. What am I to do?

MELANCHOLY KID.

I don't know what you can do, either, my dear. You were very foolish to leave your husband, and after you are married your first duty is to your husband, you know. However, under the circumstances you can hardly go back if your mother's life is really at stake. Are you sure he wants you to return to him now? He may never be able to trust you again, and be afraid to risk further heartache. However, if I were you I should see him and tell him how you feel. Explain the circumstances, and if he still loves you he will be willing to wait until your mother is well enough to leave.

Unhappy

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am writing to you for some of your wonderful advice. Now my trouble is this: My mother and father stopped me from going to school when I was 14 years of age, and made me do all of the housework, but, Miss Gale, I don't mind doing the housework. But they make me do all of the cooking, too. I don't see why they don't make my two other sisters help me. I don't think it is right to push it all on me, do you? They don't allow me to go out and have a good time. I tell them if they would let me out I would not go to the "dogs" as soon as I was left loose. Miss Gale, I went with several fellows, but was not allowed to go out with them. Now the last fellow I went with is the one I love best. One day my father saw him and told him to stay away. Now, Miss Gale, he told me I could go with him again, because the talk that was going around was not true. But I can't get the chance to see him because he works in the daytime and I can't get out at night to see him. But, Miss Gale, I know some of his friends. Do you think it would be all right to ask one of his friends to tell him I want to see him? Oh, Miss Gale, please tell me how to get him back, because I went with several fellows and my love for them was not as strong as I have for him. Don't tell me to forget about him, because I can't. Now, Miss Gale, I see him in the show sometimes and he is always by himself and he always looks to see if I am in there. Do you think it would be right to go and sit beside him and talk to him. Oh, Miss Gale, I am sorry to say that I can't go to my mother and ask her for some advice. I pray for my death. That's how much I hate my home. Would you advise me to run away from home, because I know my people don't like me, because they wouldn't be always nagging at me. I am 19 years of age and I never had a good time. Thanking you for your advice,

UNHAPPY.

I certainly do think your sisters should share the work with you. I cannot understand such a situation. Don't run away from home, though, my dear. It would be all right to tell this boy's friend that you would like to see him, but don't go to sit with him in the theater. That is up to him.

Sunroom Individuality

THE sunroom should be allowed an individuality all its own. The decorator may take all sorts of liberties with it, but it should be made to suggest perpetual summer. To obtain the desired result, the sunroom should face the south.

To make the room still more ideal the windows should have the panes of vita glass that lets the life-giving violet rays penetrate so that outdoors practically comes in to us. There is a wide choice in scenic papers for the walls, gay tropical foliage, or delightful marine scenes from Mediterranean-edged countries with blue waters, blue skies and brilliant landscape.

While the furniture chosen is generally of reed or stick willow, it is nice to have a sprinkling of chairs covered with the grass-woven fabrics with broad soft colored stripes, and the couch of soft tea green velvet that may be slipped for summer use. A low coffee table beside it and convenient end book shelves.

Natural-colored pongee makes attractive curtains, which may be plain or stenciled, or dyed the color of the couch covering if desired. The rugs on the polished, or softly matted floor, may be of the East Indian goat hair weave embroidered brilliantly, as they wash beautifully and are inexpensive. Many of the hooked rugs in the modern patterns are also being used for this purpose.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Thursday, November 1.

THE planetary aspects for this day, both by mutual and lunar relationship, make for bold moves toward the goal of cherished ambitions. A day of unusual activity and initiative is fostered, with prospects of financial returns and other desired emoluments, from diverse enterprises and new undertakings. But it would be well to make changes or to travel with much precaution, since sudden and ill-weighed moves might priciptate disaster.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of unusual activity with constructive effort, applied in many channels, resulting in financial success and the fulfillment of cherished ambitions. But do not jump into sudden moves without proper consideration.

A child born on this day may be versatile, adventurous and ambitious and may succeed by its own bold initiative and cleverness despite a tendency to restlessness and ill-considered chances in which it should be

THEY'RE engaged and planning their future. What happy hours these two spend, talking and planning and building lovely castles in the air. Until finally they fall into a silence peopled with the dreams of their hearts. And how different the dreams!

Her dream is of a palace! With servants and motors and riches and jewels—all the things dear to a girl's heart. True, maybe it's a selfish dream, but that's her dream and even though she knows that her palace is to be just a bungalow, she still has hopes—high ones—of what the years will bring forth in the way of material comforts.

But HIS dream! That's the real one! His pictures a cozy little home big enough for two or perhaps three or four, with roses and flowers everywhere, and a laughing girl with tiny duplicates of herself and him waiting at the gate in the evening. That's the REALEST dream of the two and the one which lasts!

Madge Tries to Clear Underwood's Doubts

HARRY UNDERWOOD put up his hand in quick protest as I exclaimed "Marion is to blame for this!"

"Don't! I beg of you," he exclaimed in patent distress. "She isn't to blame for anything."

My own heart echoed his dismay. It seemed an unpardonable, a disloyal thing to impute any blame to Lillian's winsome young daughter whom I dearly loved, for the query her stepfather just had put to me as to whether Lillian's happiness demanded that he go away again. But justice compelled me to defend my inadvertent exclamation.

I waited for a long minute before answering him, for the responsibility of the task confronting me frightened me. Mr. Underwood evidently was worrying deeply over the problem of best securing Lillian's happiness. Nothing could so have proved to me the change in the man, for the Harry Underwood of my early acquaintanceship had been an irresponsible attractive scapegrace, good-natured and good hearted when such traits did not interfere with his own comfort and desires. But I realized that he would take himself out of Lillian's life summarily if I did not convince him that his remaining would make her happier.

The task would have been far easier for me if I had been sure of Lillian's secret emotional reaction to the decision she had made to take her recreant husband back into her life. But I feared that my old friend had been actuated only by a sense of duty toward her husband and a quixotic feeling that she had been responsible for his plunge into debauchery and crime after she brought Marion home and shaped her lif in accordance with the child's needs instead of those of her husband.

But ever since Harry Underwood's return, I had held the conviction—shared by those who loved Lillian—that his coming back was the very best thing which possibly could have happened to her. The courage which that conviction gave me enabled me at last to give him a decisive answer to his question.

"Before I answer your question will you give me a reply to one of mine?" I asked.

He shot a searching look at me.

"Fair enough," he conceded at last.

"Are you asking me my opinion because you really want it, or have you already made up your mind what you are going to do, regardless of anything that I may say?"

He straightened suddenly in his chair.

"What's that?" he said quickly. Then he chuckled.

"You caught me fairly that time Lady Fair," he admitted. "I did have the old trail pretty well mapped out. But—I'll play fair. Whatever you tell me to do, I'll do it."

I caught my breath. Suddenly I felt as if I held Lillian's fate in my hands. I knew the idolatrous love she had for her young daughter and of the worship the girl gave her mother. Perhaps, after all—then common sense and justice banished romantic sentiment, and I lifted my eyes to Harry Underwood's, watching me closely.

"When I said Marion was to blame," I began slowly, "I did not mean that she consciously was doing anything to make her mother unhappy. But, of course, she is wildly jealous of the time her mother gives you, and she is not very adept at concealing her feelings."

Harry Underwood's face suddenly showed deeply graven lines.

"That is what I have feared," he said.

"It is only the natural result of so sudden a change in the girl's routine of living," I said. "If she never had known her mother's home without you, I am sure that now she would be as fond of you as if you were really her father."

"She was extremely fond of Savarin, I understand, wanted Lil to marry him, so she could have a really truly father."

His voice was hoarse, uneven, and I saw that he was shaken with a very real jealousy of the famous artist who had so deeply loved Lillian.

Some way I achieved a light little laugh. Levity was the only cure, I fancied, for this particular obsession.

"She asked that of her mother as she would have asked for a new Teddy bear," I told him, "years ago, when she was a little thing. Look here, my friend, is it Marion you're worrying about, or the wraith of that old attachment between Lillian and Robert Savarin?"

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Supervise School Child's Appetite

SCHOOL children must be watched and directed in their eating. They are at an age when habits are easily formed. They are at an age when the foundations of permanent health or ill-health are laid.

You see the child at breakfast and at the evening meal. If he carries his lunch, or eats near the school at noon, you cannot be suure how he eats or what he eats.

Sometimes the day begins with such a rush that breakfast is a hurried and unsatisfactory meal. It may be bolted, indeed, consisting too often of a "snack" that cannot provide the nourishment, heat and energy required by that growing body.

We are apt to think that a child's digestion is set to any sort of feeding. This is not the case. Many a youngster is really a chronic dyspeptic. He is undernourished, fails to develop and is the ready victim of contagious disease.

Well selected food, well balanced meals, proper quantities of this and that—all these are even more important to this developing child than they are to the sturdy adult. With all his life before him, it is a pity to overlook anything that can help to fit him for his career.

I know the loving heart of motherhood and the earnest desire to do everything possible for the child. It is not from lack of devotion that any child is poorly fed. But many a mother has a flock of children to look after and a multitude of household cares. Worries without end may cause her to overlook the child's eating.

I want to emphasize the absolute importance of supervising the eating practices of the growing boy and girl. No matter how pressing other matters may be, this cannot be neglected. There may be disorder in the household, but there must not be disorder in the stomach. That organ must be looked after, no matter what happens to the housekeeping.

If the child is properly fed, the appetite will be good. If there is failure of appetite it means that the food is poorly chosen, is improperly combined in the meals, is insufficiently or too freely taken, or else that failure of regularity and system in the feeding have upset the stomach and damaged the appetite.

A normal child gets up hungry, enjoys the breakfast, is eager for play, usually active and noisy, hungry at noon, full of energy all the afternoon and ready for a big meal at night. When appetite flags, you must seek the cause. Listlessness between times and indifference at meals are danger signals.

Please do not be unduly alarmed. I am not speaking of these things to frighten you, but to make clear the importance of right foods and right eating.

On another occasion we can discuss the particular foods that are essential to the well-being of the child. At this time I am content if I have set you to thinking about the eating habits of your child.

What a person is and what he can do, what he will be in future, depend on what he eats every day of his life.

MISS ALICE BRADLEY

PRINCIPAL OF MISS FARMER'S SCHOOL OF COOKERY

Miss Alice Bradley's 30 years of successful teaching, writing and experimenting in domestic science has made her one of America's most trusted authorities on cookery explains some fine points in the use of Baking Powder

"DON'T overlook the small things in baking," urges Miss Bradley. "For one thing don't skimp on your baking powder.

"You depend on these few teaspoons of baking powder to make your cake rise well and I believe it is safest and most economical in the end to use only the very best.

"I have found from personal experience and from our work at Miss Farmer's School that you can always depend on Royal.

"Royal Baking Powder is made of Cream of Tartar and Tartaric Acid—natural products of ripe grapes and the finest ingredients of which baking powder can be made. You know that most doctors and dietitians agree with food specialists in saying that Cream of Tartar baking powder is the most healthful and the best."

Walnut Cake

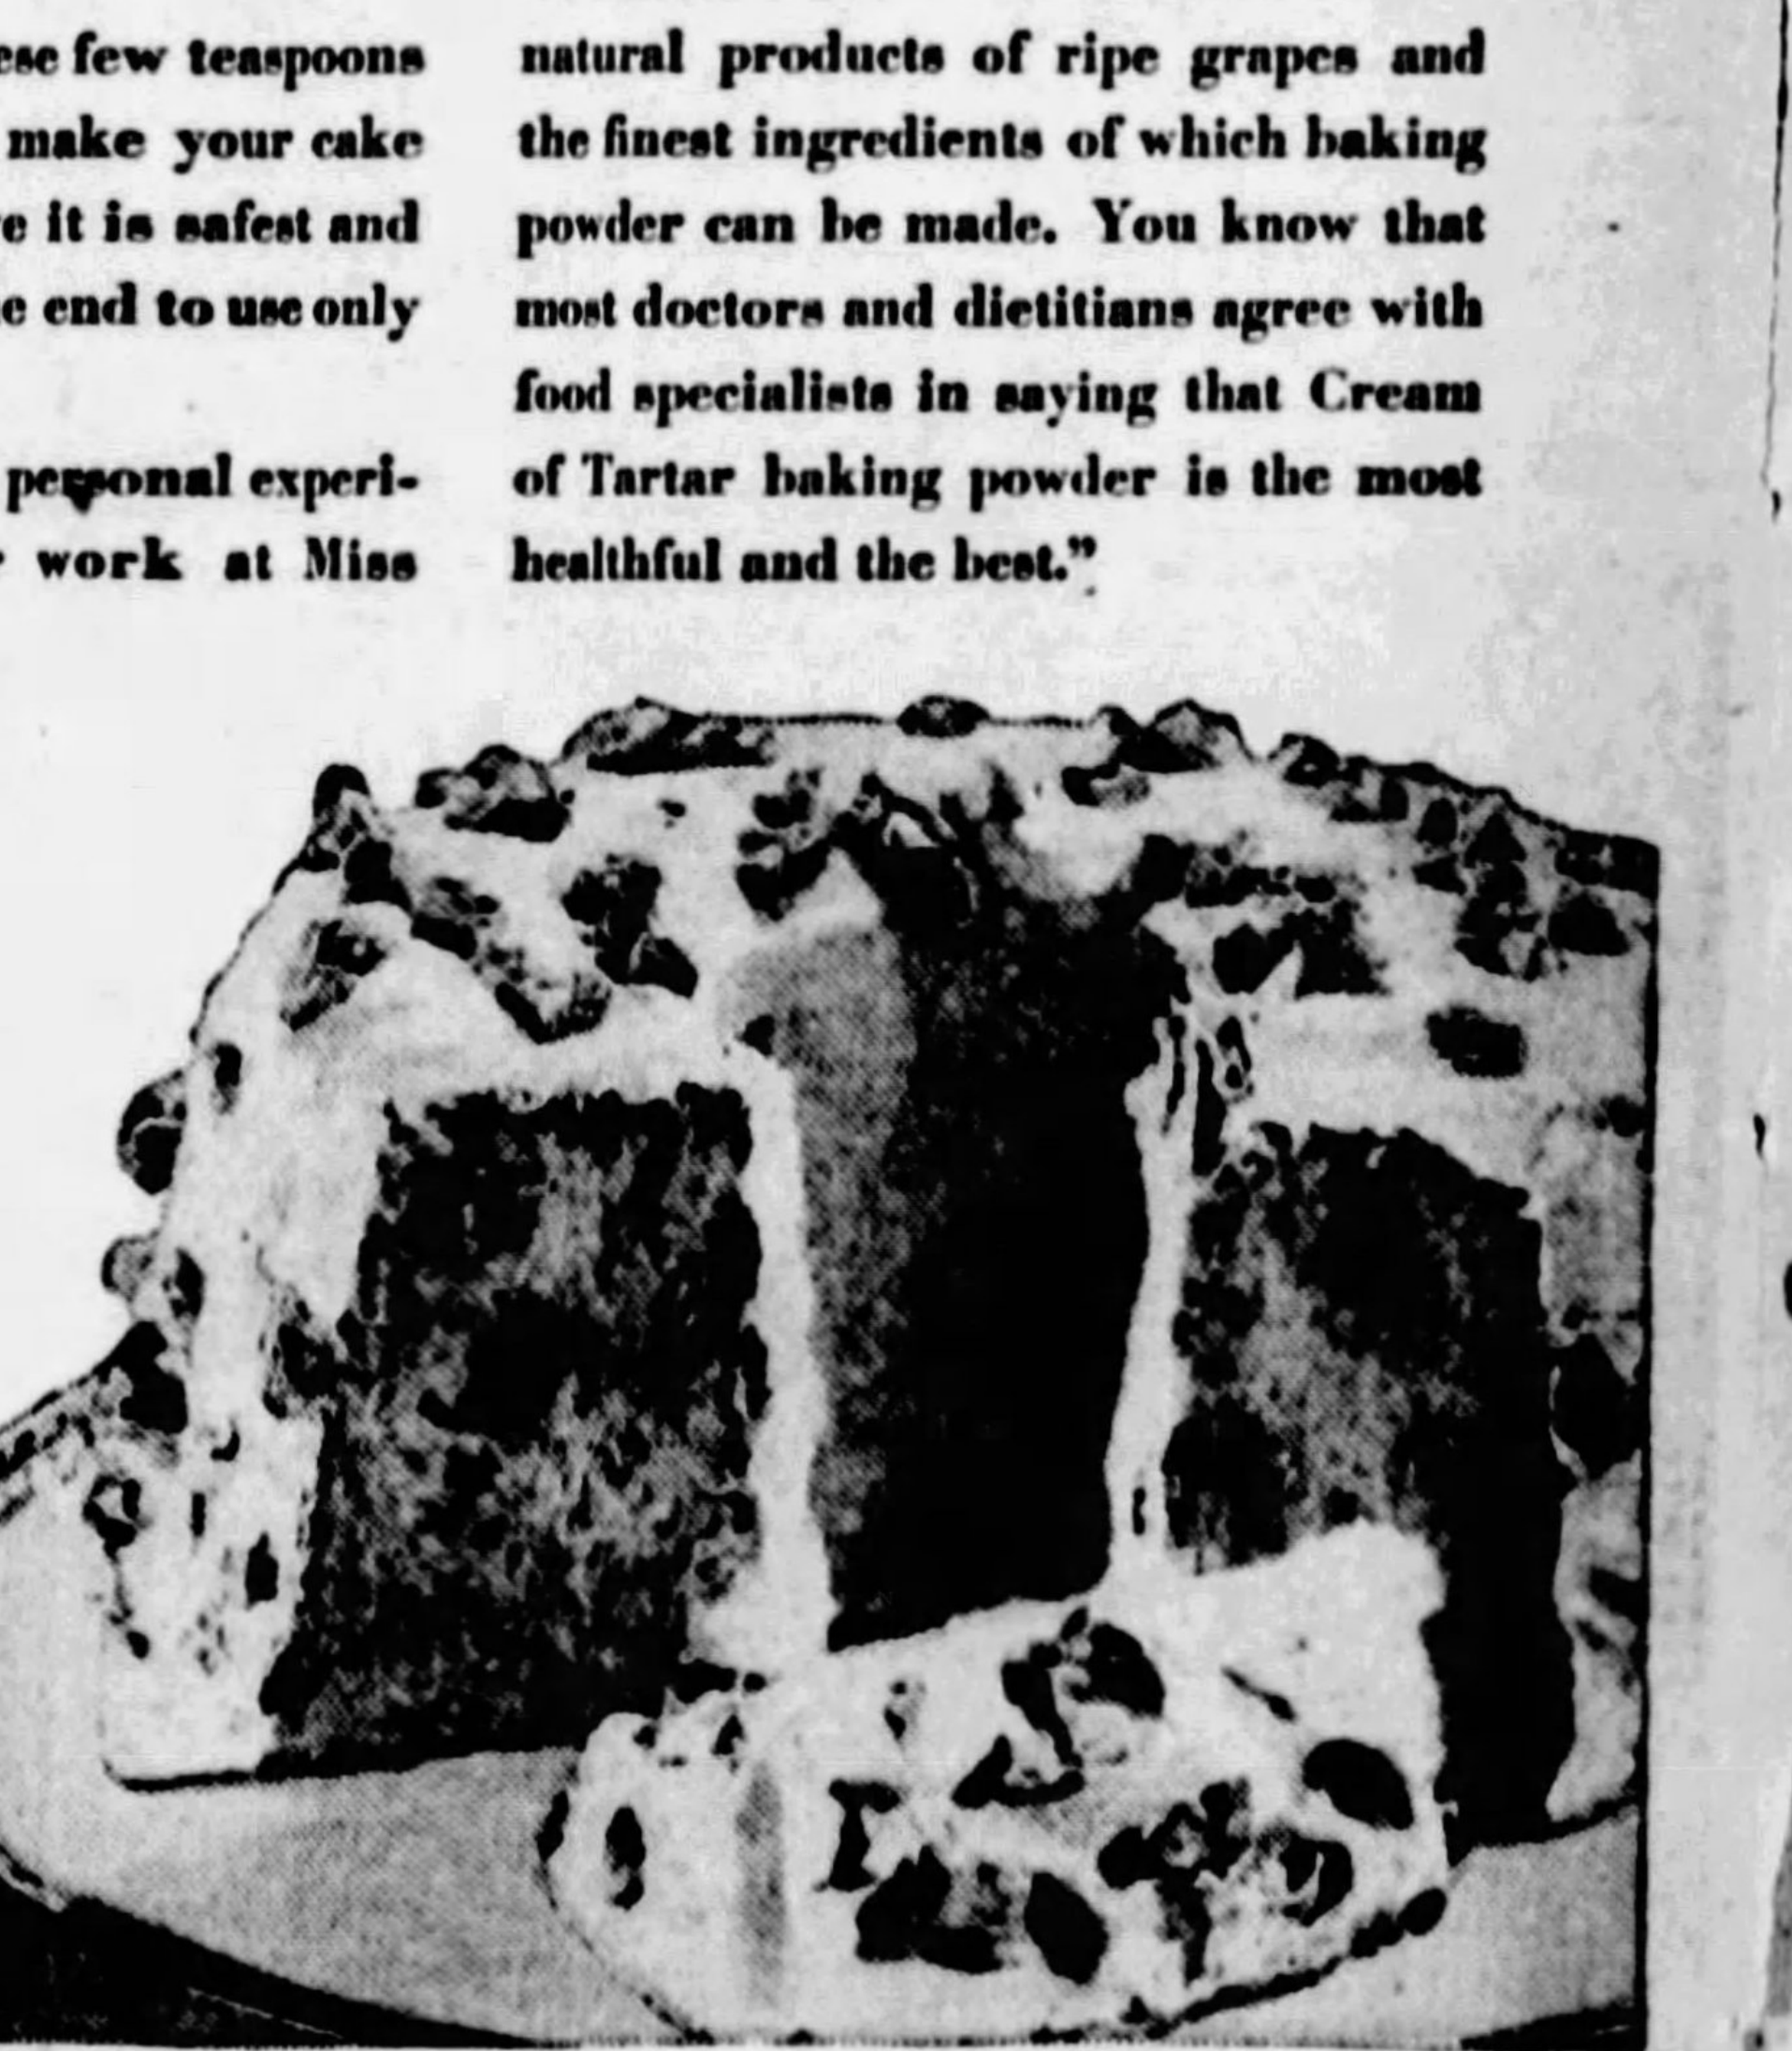
½ cup butter, 1 cup sugar, 3 egg yolks, 1¼ cups flour, 2¼ teaspoons Royal Baking Powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup milk, 2 egg whites, ¾ cup walnuts.

Work butter until creamy; add ½ cup sugar, stirring until light. Then add egg yolks, beaten until thick and lemon colored. Measure flour, after sifting once, and sift two or three times with the Royal Baking Powder and salt. Then add alternately to mixture with the milk. Add nut meats, broken in pieces, and beat thoroughly. Beat egg whites until stiff and gradually beat in remaining ½ cup sugar. Cut and fold into first mixture. Put in greased tube pan, bottom of which has been lined with paper, bake 45 minutes in moderate oven or at 350° F. Remove from pan, cool and cover with Caramel Frosting.

Caramel Frosting

¾ cup brown sugar, 2 tablespoons white sugar, ¼ cup water, 2 egg whites, ½ teaspoon Royal Baking Powder, 1 teaspoon vanilla extract.

Put sugar and water into saucepan; stir until dissolved and boil until it spins a long thread or until it reaches 252° F. Remove from fire; add syrup gradually to well beaten egg whites. Add Royal Baking Powder and vanilla and beat until frosting will hold its shape. Spread thickly on cake and garnish top and sides with broken nut meats.



Royal, the Cream of Tartar Baking Powder. Absolutely pure

CITES NEED OF PROTECTIVE TARIFF

That it is vitally essential to the welfare of the whole American people that Herbert Hoover be elected president, and that a Republican majority be named to the Senate and the House of Representatives was the message brought to Pittsburgh last night by Samuel S. Vauclain, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, speaking at a meeting held in Schenley High School under the auspices of the Hoover Business League.

"Pennsylvania is and always will be a Republican state," said Mr. Vauclain. "The protective tariff has made it an empire within itself. Pennsylvania must continue to have protection for its industries in order that the operatives in all its mills and factories as well as the toilers in our financial and commercial institutions may continue to enjoy the existing rates of remuneration."

"'The Happy Warrior'," said Mr. Vauclain, must "be returned to the sidewalks of New York." "He has been met," the speaker said, "with such positive resistance that his heart fails him and each successive address becomes more personal, more rancorously accusative and less regardful of the truth."

SEES BIG MAJORITY

Pennsylvania, Vauclain predicted, will give Hoover a majority of at least 850,000, in spite of the Smith demonstration in Philadelphia Saturday. The people there, he said, turned out to see "the show and its chief attraction, Gov. Smith. Shall we turn over this magnificent governmental structure to a showman to be president?"

Mr. Vauclain described how, by accident, he happened to find himself at the head of the Smith parade in Philadelphia with a Hoover sign on his automobile. "The multitude began to point at me and shout, 'There he goes'," he said.

Opposition to Hoover on the grounds that he is a Quaker and that Quaker boys do not fight was assailed by Vauclain, who said, "Don't fool with the Quakers of Pennsylvania unless you want to get hurt."

The record registration in Pennsylvania, he said, indicates that the women of the state are on guard to oppose "any attempt to annul prohibition and bring about a restoration of the liquor traffic." Even if Smith is elected president, Vauclain said, he could not change the liquor laws.

"As one address after another floats over the radio, Smith's ignorance of national affairs becomes more and more apparent to all who listen in," he said.

Mr. Vauclain was introduced by A. L. Humphrey, president of the Westinghouse Airbrake Company. Mrs. A. S. Kech, vice chairman of the Blair County Republican Committee, was another speaker. She was introduced by Mrs. C. A. Verner. J. S. Critchfield, a Democrat, and president of the Hoover Business League, presided.

RETURN FUND TRANSFER BILL FOR LANG'S O. K.

Stirred by numerous requests for transfer of funds and reports of deficits in appropriations, Council yesterday returned to Edward G. Lang, director of the Department of Public Works, a resolution transferring $55,000 within accounts of the Bureau of Highways and Sewers.

Phesident James F. Malone declared Council should determine whether Lang approved the request. He recalled a report submitted a few weeks ago which showed a $15,000 deficit in the boardwalks and steps division and pointed out that the director was not familiar with the case until it came up at a Council hearing.

W. Y. English offered a motion requesting Controller John H. Henderson to stop department heads from hiring employes and buying material for activities whose appropriations were exhausted. The motion did not carry.

On motion of Malone the department heads were notified they would be held responsible for any payroll and material expense incurred in their department after appropriations were exhausted.

Reports of a $20,000 deficit in this year's appropriation for street lighting resulted in Council passing a resolution calling for more information on the subject.

English successfully moved for Director Lang, of the Department of Public Works, advise Council how many new lights were installed last January and what credit the city received for the gas lights eliminated thereby.

WRITE THAT ZAIN AD TODAY

This may be the day of days for you! This may be the day on which you will write an advertisement that will win for you the $100 cash prize offered for the best ad submitted in the fifth period of the $15,000 Zain Ad-Test or the $1,000 grand prize to be awarded for the best ad turned in during the entire course of the test. If you will write ads today you will stand an excellent chance of winning these or other prizes. Hundreds of awards are offered.

Ads for the fifth period must be in the office of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph not later than midnight tonight. Those received later will be automatically entered for the sixth period.

IDEA THAT COUNTS

Professional advertising writers and newspaper employes are barred from the test. All that is necessary to put you in the test is to write something that could be used to attract customers for the stores, products or service of the 39 local business concerns that are cooperating in the test. Your ad may take the form of a simple statement of fact, a letter, essay, slogan, jingle, story, argument—anything that can be used effectively in selling. A few words may be sufficient. It is the idea that counts.

The important thing in writing your ads is to be sure of your material. Get things right. The best way to effect that is to visit the stores of the 39 participating firms and ask questions. Make yourself familiar with their commodities and service.

You will find elsewhere on this page the rules of the contest and a list of the 39 firms about which the ads must be written. To be eligible for the $1,000 prize you must write an ad about each of the 39 some time during the campaign.

GET AD MATERIAL IN STORE

A store that you will enjoy visiting in your quest of ad material is that of the J. G. Bennett Company, dealers in men's wear and furnishings, at 443 Wood street. There will be satisfaction in praising Bennett's goods because "Bennett means best," and you can recommend, without the slightest misgiving, that purchases be made there. Bennett customers are always pleased.

The Stevenson and Foster Company, 421-27 Seventh avenue, is participating in the Ad-Test in two capacities, as printers and as dealers in stationery and office supplies. Their beautifully engraved stationery for personal use is famous. And equally worthy of consideration are their facilities for equipping offices with blank books and the like.

Do you like Beethoven's Fifth Symphony? Or do you prefer jazz? Nearly everyone likes music of some sort. And music is available for every taste at the stores of the S. Hamilton Company, 815-817 Liberty avenue, 6008 Penn avenue, East Liberty, and 772 Wood street, Wilkinsburg. They handle pianos, radios, phonographs, and almost everything else musical.

HINT ON BANK AD

The thing to call attention to in your ad about the Union Savings Bank is the strength of the institution. "Savings are safe" there because of the enormous resources that the bank possesses for the protection of depositors. You would do well, too, to point out the attractiveness of thrift and how a savings account in the Union Savings Bank promotes it.

Write each ad on a separate sheet of paper, which should be at least as large as a postal card, and preferably commercial letter size. Put your name and address on the back of each sheet and also on the flap of the envelope in which you mail them. Dormont Wars on Parking Law Violators

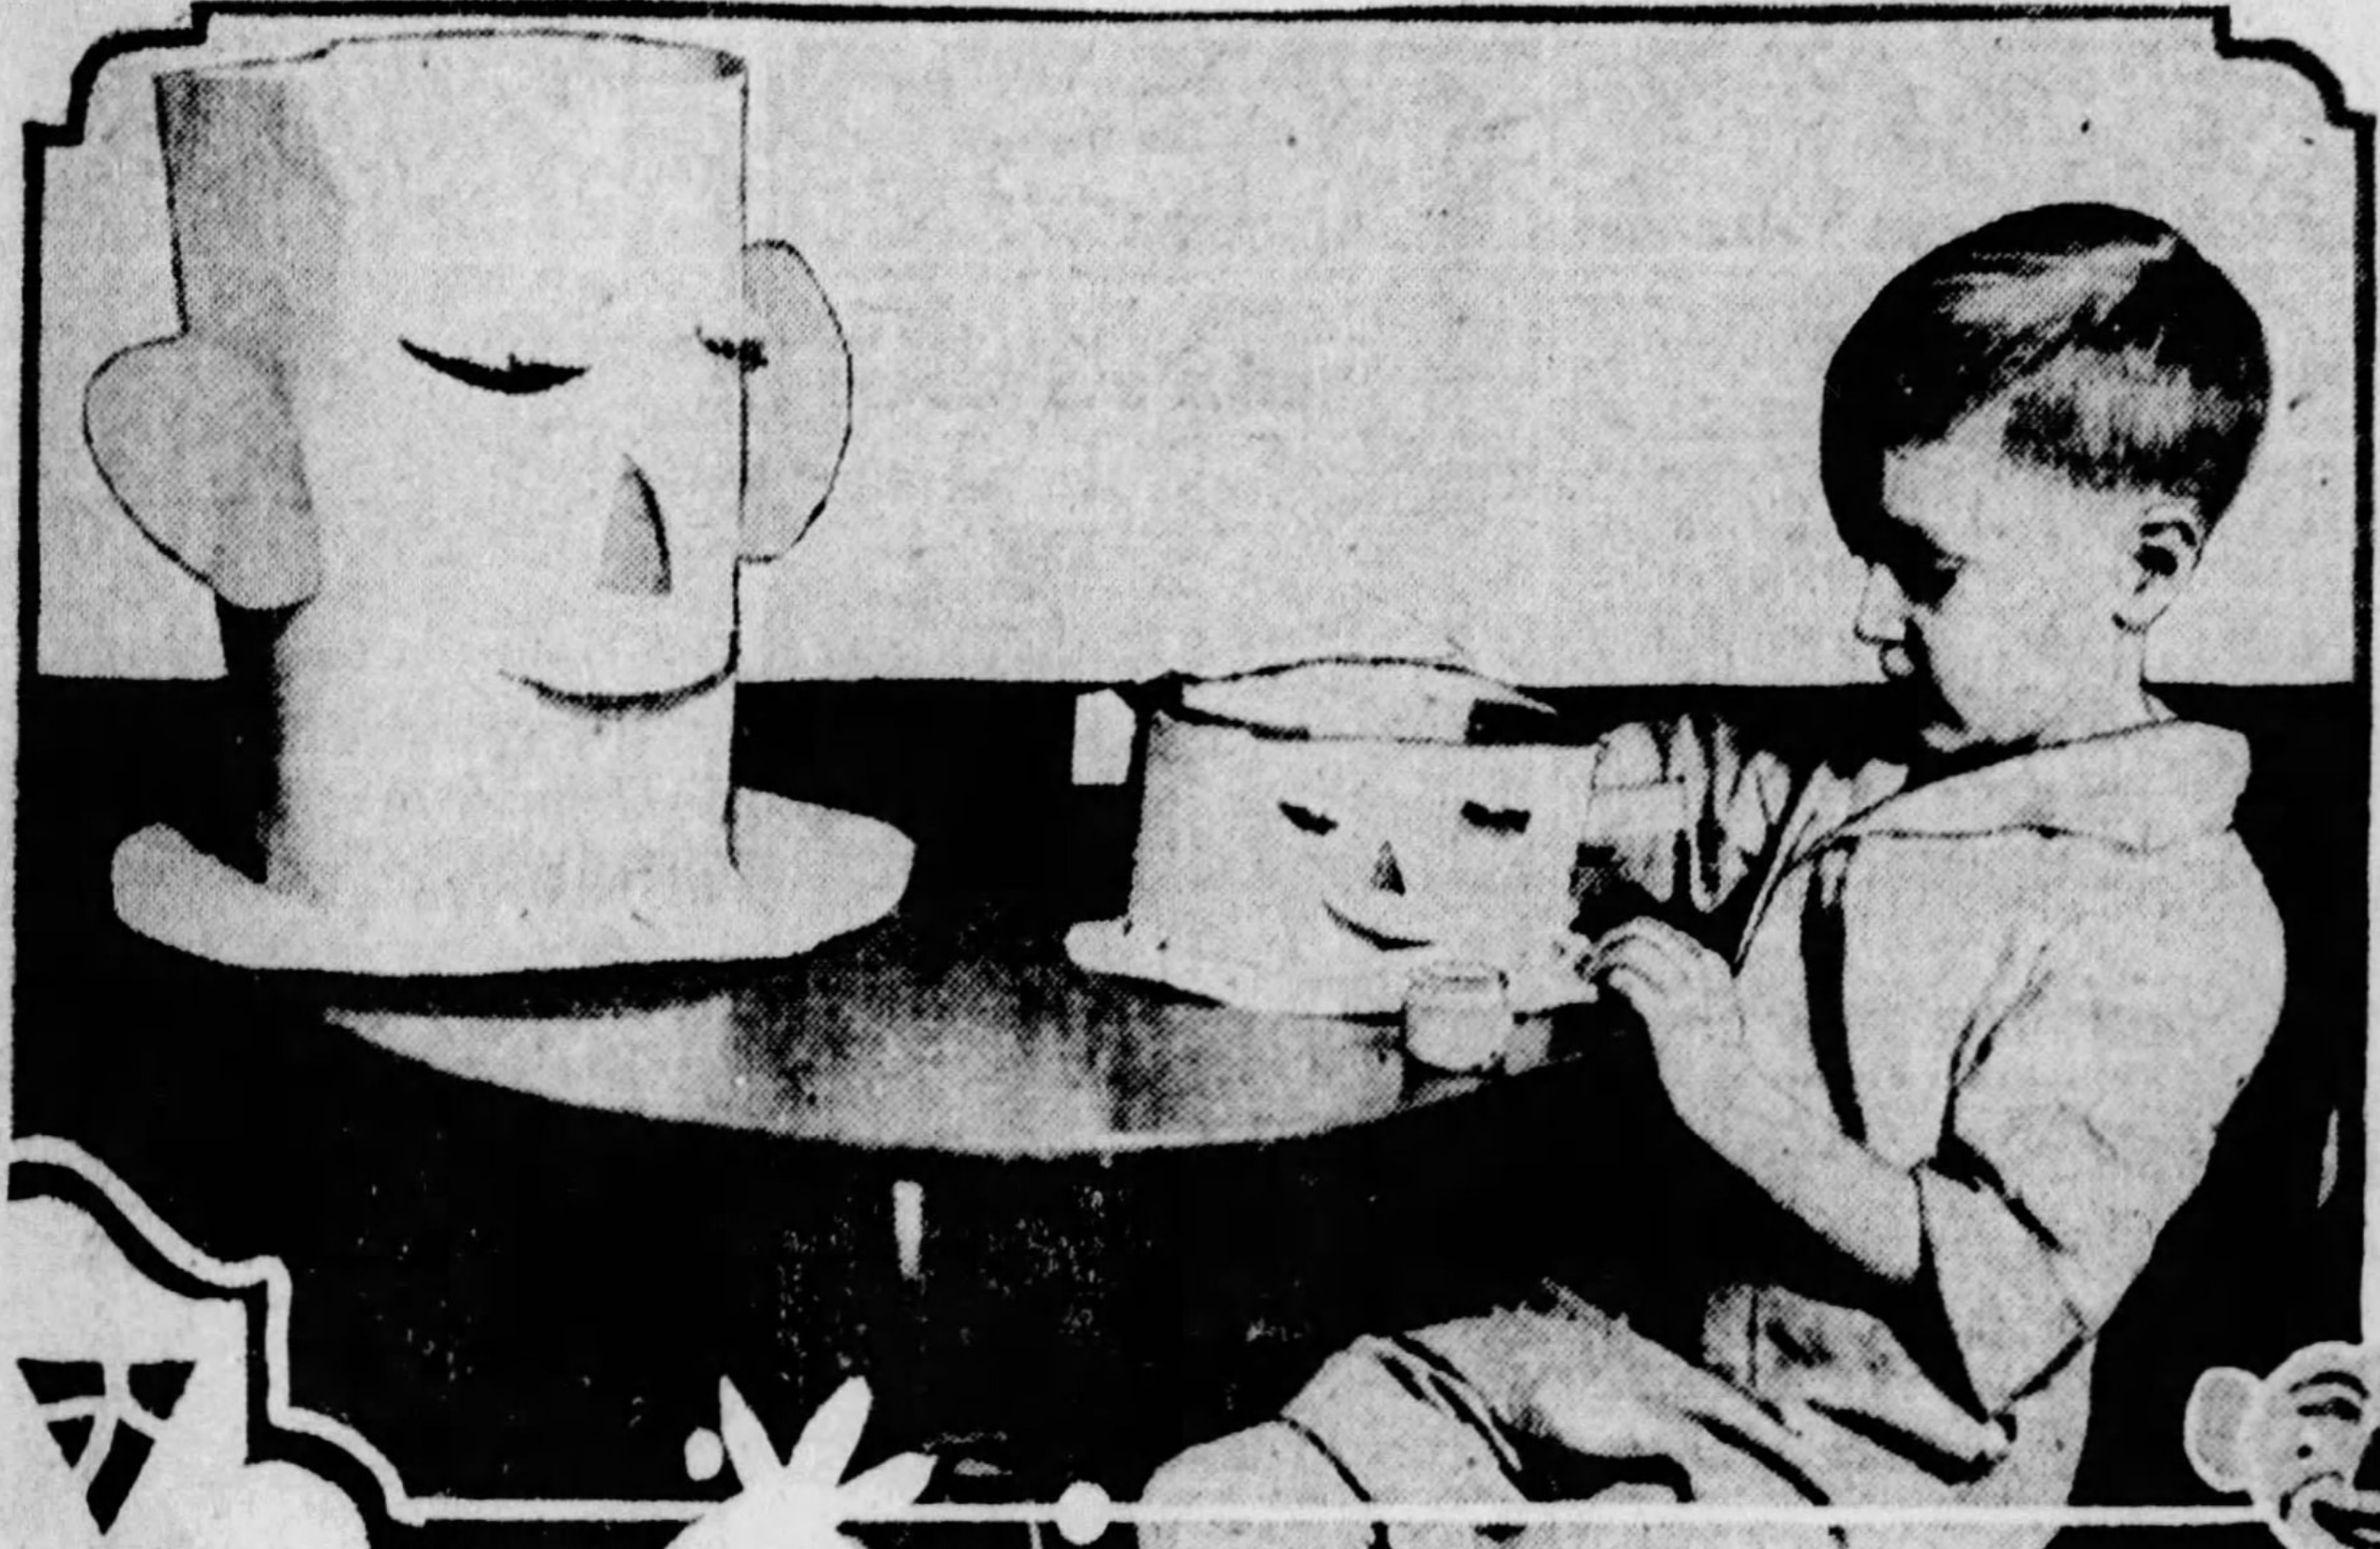
WARRANTS ISSUED FOR 40

Dormont continues to war on violators of the borough's automobile parking laws. Last Friday Burgess William S. Haddock fined 42 motorists $1 each when they appeared before him for disregarding the parking laws.

Forty other persons, who were tagged, failed to appear and today Chief of Police Albert A. Ruehling is starting to serve them with warrants.

It is planned to herald the tardy ones before the burgess this Friday night. Ruehling stated that their fines will range from $10 to $25.

Jack-O'-Lanterns :-: Schools Play Halloween :-: Pumpkin Faces



JACK-O'-LANTERNS

Halloween, in the Pittsburgh public schools at least, is a state occasion. Here, Charles Samuels, in Miss Nan K. Smith's kindergarten class at Friendship school, makes jack-o'-lanterns.

And Charles Marsh, Jr., Harry Parker and Emilia Corona have just learned from Miss Smith how to make pumpkin faces. Beginning tomorrow, they will make paper turkeys for Thanksgiving.

DOCTOR, 103, RETURNS; SAYS LAUGHS BRING LONGEVITY

Thirty years ago Dr. Charlotte De Golier Davenport bid good-by to her many friends in Pittsburgh and said she would not return to this city again until she was at least 100 years old. Yesterday, with 103 birthdays to her credit, she came back to renew old acquaintances, only to find that most of her old friends had passed to the Great Beyond.

But, Dr. Davenport, just as brilliant, witty and agile as she was when she lectured on health at Pittsburgh schools and clubs years ago, proceeded to make many new friends and renew the old promise of returning in 30 years.

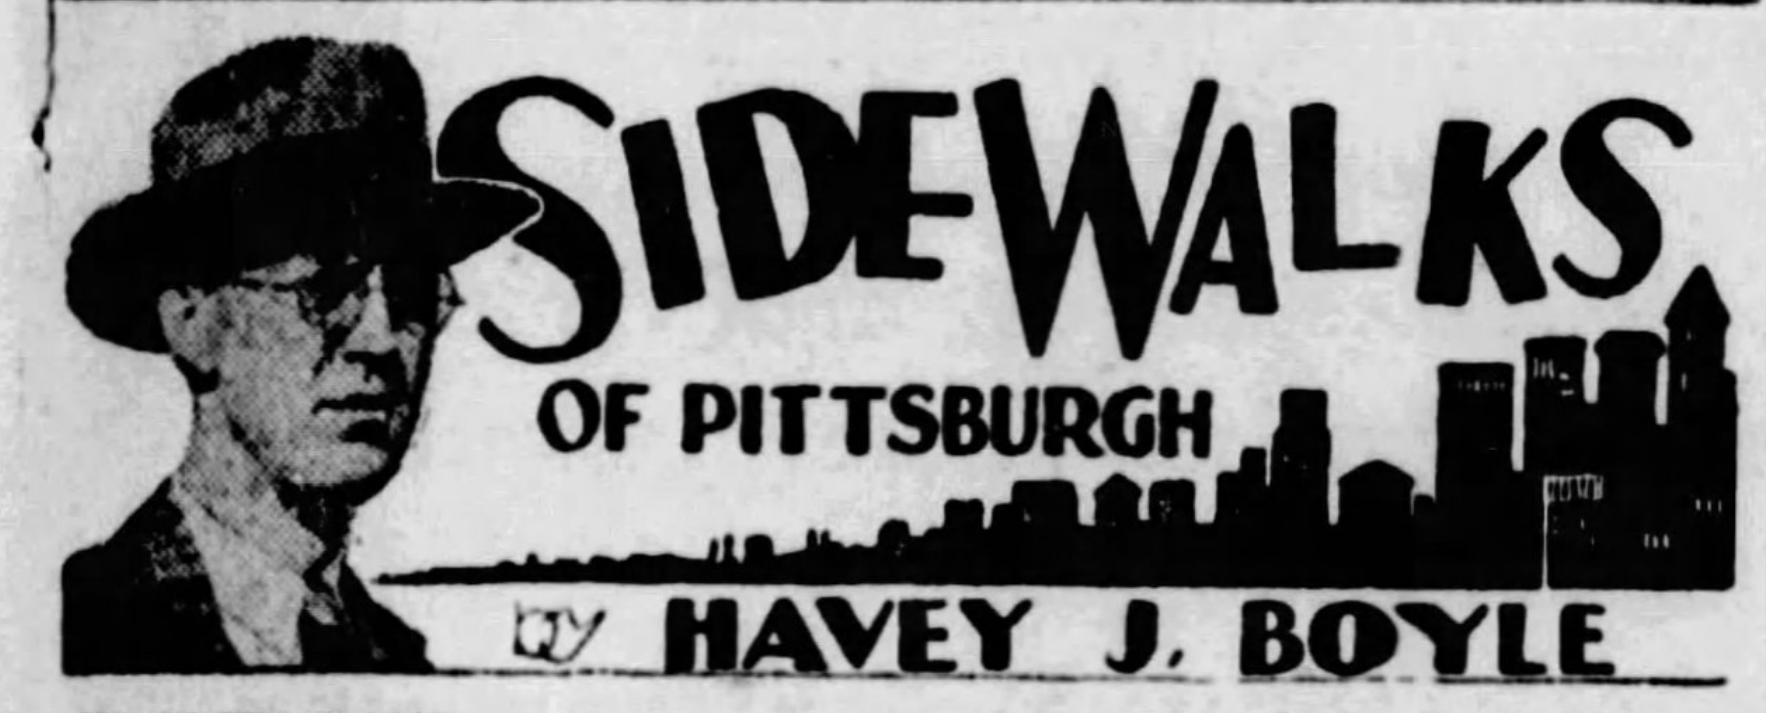
Despite her five score years and three, Dr. Davenport is the picture of health, and designates plenty of laughter as the secret of her longevity.

Born in Vienna, Dr. Davenport was educated at various Old World institutions and received her doctor's degree in Germany. She is the mother of 11 sons, the oldest of whom is 87. Her youngest son, 64, is older than her present husband, her third.

Dr. Davenport is anxious to tell her secret of youth to all and tomorrow night will lecture on how to live, be joyful, full of life and pep and not die by inches, at her apartment at the Fairfax at 4614 Fifth avenue.

GRANDSON IS LEFT $9,000 ESTATE BY WILL

Mrs. Lucinda K. Culgan, 7201 McClure avenue, Swissvale, left her $9,000 estate to her grandson, John A. Culgan, and named him as executor in her will probated today.



POLITICIANS of the town are carrying sample ballots around, which are said to be the largest in the history of the county. The list of presidential electors for the various parties and the imposing list of amendments to the state constitution make the sample ballots large enough to occupy a "double truck" (two pages) if published in a newspaper.

One of the whispering places of the town has a novel way of identifying customers. Customers must enroll their names and date of birth in a book. On the second call to the rendezvous of giggling water the applicant upon giving his name must also give his date of birth. In this fashion the place is made exclusive, with an eye to keeping out boys with badges.

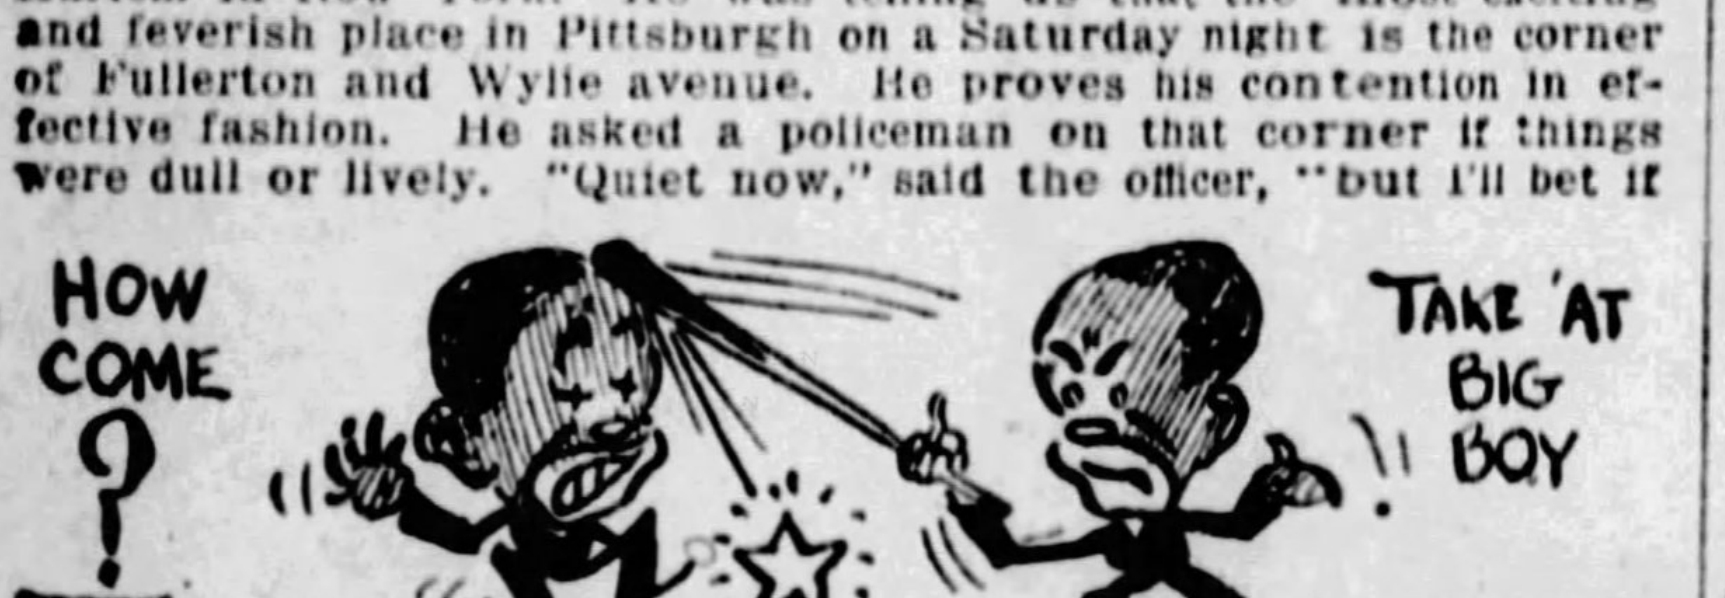
HE IS a reporter on a local Negro newspaper and he knows Pittsburgh's "Harlem" better than a Van Vechten knows the real Harlem in New York. He was telling us that the most exciting and feverish place in Pittsburgh on a Saturday night is the corner of Fullerton and Wylie avenue. He proves his contention in effective fashion. He asked a policeman on that corner if things were dull or lively. "Quiet now," said the officer, "but I'll bet if you stand here 15 minutes you'll see something unusual happen." In less than 10 minutes a man dashed out of a nearby billiard parlor, armed with a cue, the heavy end of which he puts into use by scoring a billiard off the dome of an enemy standing 15 feet away from the corner of Fullerton street and Wylie avenue.



The Negro reporter in question is a graduate of a university.

"Baron" Heinrichs, who writes a Sunday Bridge feature of considerable merit in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, is one of the most distinctive players in the city. In a career of many years' bridge playing Mr. Heinrichs upon taking a trick with a king to circumvent a finesse has never once said on such an occasion: "Not through the Iron Duke," an expression among bridge players almost as common as "Check" is in a game known as "Poker." If you play Bridge we recommend Mr. Heinrichs' Sunday column. Some day we want Mr. Heinrichs to write an article on the informatory groan, that play in Bridge wherein the first bidder passes, accompanied with a frown and a remark: "My, but these cards are terrible." The habit is more common among the ladies than among men, we are very proud to report.

THE ETERNAL FEMININE: A young lady in Sixth avenue in dashing for what she must have thought was the last trolley of the day fell down and bruised her hands and knees. Thirty years go Dr. Charlotte DeGolier Davenport left Pittsburgh and said to her friends that she would return when she was 100 years old. Today she is back, aged 103.

OVERCOME AS FIRE RAGES

One girl was overcome and several hundred dollars damaged was caused yesterday when fire raged through a three-story brick dwelling at 306 Progress street, North Side. The damage was estimated at $500.

The fire occurred on the second floor of the house, occupied by Walter Gapinski. A fire in an open grate caught clothing hanging nearby and Jean Gapinski, 16, alone in the room, partially overcome by the dense smoke, ran to the street and sounded an alarm.

Firemen confined the fire to the second floor. The first floor is occupied by James Phillips and Joseph Maraz lives on the third floor.

FIRE CHILDREN STARTED PERILS RESIDENCE BLOCK

Prompt action on the part of the Swissyale Fire Department probably averted a disastrous fire, which for a time threatened a block of frame houses on Milligan avenue.

Damage of $5,000, it was estimated, was done to the home of Mrs. Margaret McCarthy, 2256 Milligan avenue, Swissvale.

The fire is believed to have been started by children playing with a basket of paper beneath the rear porch of the McCarthy home. Soon the entire rear of the house was in flames. Mrs. McCarthy, in her home with her daughter, Mary, 4, was unaware of the fire until the smoke poured into the kitchen windows. Holding the child she made her way to the front of the house. Neighbors summoned firemen. The house, a two-story frame structure, is partially covered by insurance.

SCORES FLEE MOVIE FIRE

Scores of men, women and children were driven into the street last night when the Strand Theater, 1602 Carson street, became filled with smoke. A fire was discovered in the basement. The cause was undetermined and the damage slight. After the source of the smoke had been uncovered and the slight blaze extinguished, the show was resumed.

Shoots Himself When Denied Cup of Tea

Because his wife refused to make him a cup of tea, Walter Scott, 20, Negro, of 515 Wicklow street, shot himself in the right side in a suicide attempt last night, police say. Homicide Detectives Jerry Deasy and Harry Scott questioned him at West Penn Hospital, where he told the sleuths that his better half wouldn't serve him tea. His condition is not serious. The shooting occurred in the street near his home.

HURT IN CRASH, ASK $25,000

Max Martin and his wife, Esther Martin, have entered suit against John Straster for $25,000 damages for injuries received when the Straster automobile collided with the Martin car at Washington road and Castle Shannon road, in Mt. Lebanon, August 8, 1926. Mrs. Martin was so badly hurt about the head, it is averred in the bill of particulars filed by her attorney, Blythe S. Weddell, that it required 19 stitches to sew up the wounds.

FAMILY AWAY, THIEVES TAKE TWO FUR COATS

A woman's fur coat valued at $550 and a man's overcoat valued at $150 have been reported stolen from the home of W. J. McCann, 5731 Tuscarora street. The house had been vacant since October 17 up until yesterday, when its occupants returned to find thieves had entered by forcing a cellar window.

CHILD'S DIMES, SAVED FOR CHRISTMAS, STOLEN

Margaret Moore, 6, daughter of Judge and Mrs. George V. Moore, 405 Zara street, mourns the loss of her bank in which she was saving nickels and dimes for Christmas.

Thieves entered the Moore home, in the absence of the family, ransacked the entire house, but apparently took little besides Margaret's bank which contained about $10 and possibly a few articles of jewelry.

Judge Moore was attending a dinner at the Shannopin Country Club and Mrs. Moore was at a dinner downtown at the time. Neighbors reported seeing lights in the Moore home about 6 p. m. Mrs. Moore discovered the robbery when she returned home.

Entrance had been gained by jimmying a cellar window. Papers near the bank were taken to detective bureau to be examined for fingerprints.

Gets Wife's Post As Election Judge

Witness the comeback of the husband of a politician wife.

Frank A. Strasler, 59 Warren street, Crafton, was yesterday appointed judge of elections for the Second District of the Second Ward, Crafton, in place of his wife, Mrs. Maude M. Strasler, who had been elected to the position and resigned on account of illness.

TEACHER'S HOLDUP FOILED

Two bandits were frightened away when they attempted to hold up Miss Gladys Strasser, 20, a school teacher, of 3816 Wilksboro avenue, at Termon avenue and Hawthorne street, North Side, by the approach of a pedestrian, last night.

Miss Strasser, a teacher at the Andrews Public School, was returning home from the University of Pittsburgh where she had taken her class for a study in industrial art.

She was walking in Termon avenue when the highwaymen leaped from an automobile and with revolvers attempted to hold her up. At the sight of a pedestrian approaching they leaped into the machine and drove away.

Police believe they are the men who Monday night held up L. A. Group, of Elmhurst street. He was stopped in the same vicinity by two thugs who robbed him of $50.

SPEEDING FIRE TRUCK SCRAPES TROLLEY CAR

The coolness of Peter Webber, driver of the Wilkinsburg Fire Department hose truck, averted a serious accident while the Ross avenue company was answering an alarm of fire.

The truck and an Oakmont and Verona street car arrived at the corner of Penn and Wood street at the same time. Webber swerved the truck to the curb and brought the heavy vehicle to a stop as the fender scraped the street car.

The company was responding to an alarm from a house at 742 Hill avenue. There was no damage.

FALL IN SEPTEMBER KILLS WOMAN, 80

Mrs. Laura Patton, 80, of 58 Oakwood road, died in the Presbyterian Hospital yesterday from a fractured hip suffered September 22 when she fell on the floor in her home, according to a report to the coroner.

SUES HUSBAND FOR SUPPORT

Margaret W. Brown has brought suit in Common Pleas Court against her husband, Victor W. Brown, East North avenue, demanding payment of $6,400 which she claims her husband is in arrears, for her support. It is alleged in the bill of particulars filed by her counsel, Charles B. Prichard, that Brown agreed to pay his wife $200 a month and that he made the payments for five months but has since stopped payment. She demands the sum owing with interest.

SAYS HUSBAND CRUEL, FILES DIVORCE LIBEL

Laredo Rauch, 743 Warrington avenue, charges Harvey M. Rauch with cruel and barbarous treatment in a libel in divorce filed against him in Common Pleas Court. The couple were married in 1911.

OAKLAND FIRE CAPTAIN DIES

Fire Capt. John L. Snyder, 50, of 348 Meyran avenue, Oakland, died yesterday in South Side Hospital after a four-months' illness. He had been a city fireman 23 years and at the time of his death was captain of Engine Company No. 24. He was a life long resident of Pittsburgh and had made his home in the Oakland district for the last 20 years. He was the first city fireman to lecture on safety in the public schools. Capt. Snyder was a member of the Oakland Board of Trade and was secretary of the Firemen's Memorial Association. He leaves his wife, two sons, his mother, four sisters and a brother.

BASEBALL VET DIES HERE

Peter Lavelle, 52, one time big league baseball player, died yesterday in the home of his sister, Mrs. Joseph Rigby, 207 South St. Clair street. Born in Pittsburgh, he began his baseball career with old Holy Ghost College nine. He later played sandlot ball with Honus Wagner and finally became a member of the Cincinnati club. He retired from the game 20 years ago. He was a member of Sacred Heart Catholic Church. Besides Mrs. Rigby he leaves another sister and a brother.

"Miss"

MISS SOUTH SIDE JR.

ANNA BECKER

When South Side business men tonight hold their annual Halloween celebration in South Side Market House, Anna Francis Becker, "Miss South Side, Jr., 1928," will entertain guests.

BLAMES OTHER WOMAN

Another woman, the wife alleges, having come into the life of her husband, Mrs. Edna M. Clay, of Boquet street, is asking Judge Thomas D. Carnahan to divorce her from Geauf Clay. Mrs. Clay testified that on several occasions she saw her husband with Mrs. Jacob Backer and called up Mr. Backer about it.

Mrs. Clay says that her husband had been employed by an insurance company and that he got into trouble with his company and later tried to choke her, a sister of Mrs. Clay interfering. At that time the couple lived on Mt. Washington. Prior to that they had lived in McKees Rocks.

Sun-Telegraph Gravures Used As Posters

Portraits of Hoover and Smith, which appeared in The Sunday Sun-Telegraph color section, recently, have been utilized as window posters by many North Borough residents as a means of proclaiming their preference as to the two presidential nominees. The likeness of Hoover, as printed in this paper, in a gilt frame, was placed on the platform at a large Republican rally.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, N. Y., Oct. 31.

I will say one thing about this campaign. After running for months without an "issue" they have finally found one—that is the Republicans have. It's Smith—that's their issue.

Al sure is drawing the crowds. If I was him I wouldn't care whether I was elected or not. He can go in vaudeville and make more than a President, cause there is always plenty of things to denounce as long as there is a Republican administration.

Coolidge won't come out for either side. He is afraid it will be held against him in 1932. Paste that in your hat and remember it. I am the original Coolidge in 32 man.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

Our Daily Short Story

"WHOM THE GODS LOVE"

By FELICIA WAYNE

THERE is a popular idea that the brightest stars fade early. "Whom the gods love die young" is the way the ancients jury to vanity, they were right phrased it, and if by death they meant humiliation and fatal in- in the case of Stanley Frederick Crewes.

Stanley Frederick Crewes was "beloved of the gods," and their love was a fairly constant one. To say that he was born with a silver spoon in his mouth would be gross understatement. It would have been a silver mine if little Stanley's mouth had not been so small.

The gods, not to be inconsistent, also presented Stanley Crewes with a long, lithe body that was a source of admiration to sculptors and women. They threw in for good measure a keen wit, a blinding smile and the ability to dance and make love carelessly—and divinely.

Thus equipped this young man of 27 did what any other young man so fortunate might have been expected to do. He lived on his natural talents—and had a perfectly lovely time of it. The Crewes family never expected their handsome first-born to work and he didn't disappoint them. He played and made lo

Especially he made love. Every attractive debutante in town had been or was in love with Stanley—and openly confessed it. Most of the attractive matrons in town were also in love with Stanley—but didn't bother to admit it. As for Stanley, he had never been in love in all of his perfectly groomed, silly life.

That is, until the evening that he met Freda Martin who was neither an attractive debutante or in love with Stanley. She was, horror of horrors, the ambitious daughter of a poor grocer, and how she ever found herself dancing in the spacious living room of the Crewes town house even she couldn't tell you. Stanley Crewes' very brown eyes wandered in the direction of Freda Martin's very blue ones, and from that moment on, their aristocratic owner knew he was lost.

But in characteristic fashion he did not let her realize that. He acted just as he had always done with women. He let her take the initiative. That is, he tried to until he saw that she didn't recognize the signals. So first he asked her to dance. She danced well for a grocer's daughter, and she chatted even better. This made Stanley's heart beat unusually hard for Stanley and he wondered what to do about it. Finally he decided to take Miss Martin home himself. Instead of asking her permission to do this, he merely announced, as the dance was nearing its end, "If you'll wait until the others are gone, I'll see you home, Miss Martin".

Miss Martin opened her very blue eyes quite wide at that. Somehow she had not yet been victimized by the obvious charms of her partner, and his self-confidence annoyed her. "Thanks a lot," she smiled. "I'm afraid I'm too tired to wait. I had intended leaving early."

The result of his encounter was very startling to the Crewes' guests. Young Mr. Crewes left the party early to escort Miss Martin home, a procedure that was unusual to say the least. And when he arrived home and announced to his mother, a little old lady with wise eyes, that he had fallen in love, she almost fainted. But she was quickly revived when her modest son announced, "I guess she likes me pretty well, too."

For the next three weeks little Freda Martin did pretty much as she chose with Stanley Crewes. She went places and did things that heretofore she had only read about or dreamed of. Smart tea dances for which she had to borrow clothes; exclusive after-theater parties at which the other women wore fabulously expensive gowns and jewels.

For a few weeks these things fascinated Freda. Then they began to pall. She was an unusually intelligent young woman, and the superficial stimulants that the smart set plied left her unsatisfied, depressed. These people, she thought, are on the wrong road to happiness. They don't want to be set right. And pretty soon young Freda had to admit she was bored with them.

But unfortunately for Stanley this was just at the time he was beginning to realize that he couldn't very well get along without Freda. She was the star in his firmament, the white hope of his desire. Of course he had never told her so. He had merely taken her places—and brought her home. But now, he felt, was the time to break the news. To tell her he loved her, and, despite the fact that she was only a grocer's daughter, would marry her. So he ordered an emerald engagement ring of rare beauty and called on Freda.

With the self-assurance that is natural to a favorite of the gods, Stanley held out the sparkling gem on its bed of creamy satin, put his arms around the girl, and said, "Darling, set the date."

For a moment Freda was startled. Then she laughed merrily. "Why, you foolish boy," she said, "you didn't think for a moment that I fell for you, did you? You're only a lady-killer parading his charms before the public. I happen to be in love, but not with you. He's a man—not a clothes dummy."

It took Stanley Frederick Crewes three years to live down this blow to his vanity. And as many more to forget little Freda Martin, who was not "beloved of the gods"—but very happy.

TRAFFIC SIGNAL ORDINANCES READY

Belated ordinances necessary to start the installation of the downtown traffic signal system, estimated to cost $275,000, will be presented to Council next Monday under a resolution passed yesterday on motion of President James F. Malone.

Malone presented his resolution after Burton W. Marsh, traffic engineer, said the work was being delayed because an ordinance appropriating funds to pay the Duquesne Light Company for its share of the installation had not been passed.

The light company agreed to do the necessary underground work incident to running cables to the light signals and accept payment in 10 yearly installments, but stipulatd that the first payment must be in the city controller's hands before the work began.

Malone called attention to the fact that Council initiated the legislation for the signal system last January and was advised that it would be in operation about November 1.

Marsh submitted a revised promise of next March 1 as the date on which the system would be in operation.

The delay in presenting the ordinance to be offered next Monday was caused by a misunderstanding between Marsh and the law department, it is said.

ENLARGE SOHO CITY BATHS

A building occupied by the Soho Community House on city-owned land assigned to Soho Baths, 2408 Forbes street, will be moved to 2358 Fifth avenue through an agreement effected yesterday between Council and Alx Murdoch, representing the community house.

Murdoch explained that the structure was built in 1920 and that the move was imperative through the necessity of more room for Soho Baths.

INDUSTRIAL LENDERS TO PLAN FOR BANQUET

A Sad Village

CALDECOTE, in Huntingdonshire, is perhaps the saddest place in England. It is the Village Without Any Children, and since, a little while ago, its only child inhabitant—the pet of the village—was drowned in the village well.

STOLEN LOVE

by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Mrs. Barstow Fears Her Son Will Marry Joan And Is Unhappy

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Joan Hastings, seventeen and beautiful, lives with two old maiden aunts and one of them, Aunt Evvie, tells her of her unmarried mother's tragic love affair and death. Joan falls in love with Bill Martin, a penniless young man, and she is sent away to school. Bill, an innocent victim of a bootlegging gang, is sent to jail and Joan, begging for bail money from the aunts, confesses everything to them. She is put on a train for school in charge of a woman friend of Aunt Evvie's. Bill, freed, bids goodby to his mother, leaving no address and befriending Rollo Keyes, a rich young spender, is given a job by his father. Joan, escaping from the train, reaches his home just after he has gone. Concealing her presence from her aunts she gets a position in a department store and later works as a model in a smart shop. There Mrs. Barstow, a rich society woman, sees her, likes her and asks her to tea. She meets Curtis Barstow who immediately becomes interested in her. Joan goes to see Mrs. Martin and learns that Bill has written but has not asked for her. She thinks he no longer cares. Bill comes home and discovers that Joan is close at hand. Joan meets Bill again and discovers Ruth Gillespie, one of the girls at the shop, is deeply in love with him. Mrs. Barstow puts herself out to be nice to Joan for her son's sake. Bill visits Joan and offers to marry her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XIX.

HIGH up on the hill the cabin clung, half hidden by the trees. Manzanita and scrub oak near the road, tall redwoods on the other side. You reached it after a two hours' ride up the winding road from Santa Cruz. Broad balconies that were festooned with Chinese lanterns in summer, fascinating dormer windows curtained with gay cretonnes. Low, inviting armchairs, bright-hued cushions everywhere; a fireplace that burned plump, sputtering logs. "Just a log cabin," Mrs. Barstow said, but two maids and the Chinese cook had been sent on ahead. Lydia Barstow had her own ideas about "camping out."

"Do you like it, Joan?" Curtis asked.

It was the first chance he had had to talk with her, for Eugenia Laird had hopped into the front seat of the car, beside him, with a playful little scream—"I have to sit in the front seat! I always sit in the front seat—don't I, Curt?" And all the long drive into the mountains she had chattered incessantly, buzzing in his ear, like a fly.

"Like it?" Joan echoed. "I love it . . . see Curtis, the creek—that is a creek, isn't it? Way down below—and the little trail going up the hill . . . let's follow it tomorrow and see where it goes, but, of course, you know—"

"No I don't—I haven't been here for two years—"

"Two years!" Imagine keeping away from a place like this for two years!

"Well, we'll start to explore it now. We have half an hour before dinner—haven't we, mother?"

"Yes, but Joan will want to take off her things—"

"Oh no—she doesn't want to dress for dinner. Let's not. Aren't we camping out? What's the idea? Come on—Joan!" He pulled her, laughing, out of the door. "Race you up to the redwoods!"

They clattered down the stairs, ran joyously, breathlessly up the steep, winding road, disappeared round the shoulder of the hill.

Eugenia and Timothy Laird exchanged glances. "This is going to be wildly exciting for me!" Tim murmured, "with Curt helping himself to the blonde."

"Why do you let him, you sop!" Eugenia retorted angrily. "She was asked for you—"

Mrs. Lawrence, the Nora Lawrence whom Mrs. Barstow had asked to keep her company while the four young people amused themselves, raised an inquiring eyebrow. "Really, Lyla, you should have warned us. Such a change in Curtis, galloping off the road like a colt! I have always thought of him as such a serious young man surrounded by law books and abstracts. It's the girl, of course. But, my dear, who is she? Hastings—I don't know any Hastings, except Alexander Hastings in Menlo Park—"

"No," Mrs. Barstow said smoothly, "she isn't related to them. She's one of the Van Fleets though. Her father was a naval officer, killed in some engagement—the Spanish war? No, it couldn't have been that, well, something interesting . . . rather an unusual girl, and so talented, she designs costumes, you know—"

"She's decorative, all right," Tim agreed, eagerly. "Wonder if she studied at Hopkins? I know a fellow, class of '24 at Stanford, did some work there—I'll have to ask her about it—"

"You'll never get the chance," his sister said pointedly, "Custis will see to that. Are they engaged, Mrs. Barstow?"

"No—oh, no—"

And out in the fresh cool air Curtis and Joan raced down the hill, holding hands like children, laughing, sliding in the soft dirt, scattering pebbles and clumps of mossy ground.

His smooth hair was mussed, big blobs of mud clung to his light suit. "Come on—down to the creek—see if there are any fish—"

They came back at dusk, sank, still breathless and laughing, into big chairs near the fire. "Tomorrow we'll go down to the creek, the big one. There's a dam somewhere down there. Wish it were summer so we could swim. . . . Mother, Joan and I are going to start at 6 tomorrow morning—"

"Six! It will be dark—"

"Well, 7 then—or half past—and take the old trail toward the mill . . . oh . . . Gene and Tim, too, of course. Come with us, Gene?"

"I couldn't possibly go anywhere at 7 in the morning unless I stayed up all night," Eugenia yawned.

"I will!" Timothy promised.

But in the morning Curtis forgot to call him, so they went alone. It had rained a little in the night, the sun made the raindrops glisten like the tinsel in the trees. In a hollow in the hills they found redberries, great armfuls of them to bring back to the cabin. "Everything is so beautiful, so fresh and cool and rainwashed." Joan sighed happily.

The sun went behind the clouds. Fear touched her, sharp and jagged, piercing the veneer of happiness. She looked at him appealing . . . always something to remind her. . . .

"Race you down the hill!" she called. She wouldn't give way to it. She had turned her back on it . . . forever.

They both laughed a lot at dinner, with a tremendous turkey, and crystal glasses holding old Mr. Barstow's pre-prohibition wine. The red berries glowed in the candlelight, the women's dresses, mauve in a dim sky. The others talked . . . trickle of low conversation, tinkle of laughter. . . . . Joan and Curtis ate absently, lost in their secret, happy thoughts.

He looked at her, slender and faintly smiling in her rose-colored frock, and she looked at him, dear, loyal Curtis, steady and strong and good. Their eyes met, held, each other, across the white table. Only they were real. The others were shadows, shadows that would soon be growing.

"It is very late," Mrs. Barstow said, when Eugenia, a disgusted nymph in fluttering mauve chiffon had stopped hammering the old square piano, and gone yawning to bed.

"So it is," Mrs. Lawrence agreed, "and the country air—"

Joan stood up, too. "Oh, don't go yet!" Curtis begged. Wait till the logs burn down. Mother, tell her it's her solemn duty to sit up with me a while and see the house doesn't catch fire. Besides I'm going to pop some corn, and I'll get sick and die, if I eat it all alone, and it will be all Joan's fault. Joan Hastings, if you go away so early, on our last night—"

"But I'll wake Eugenia then—"

"To hell with Eugenia—"

"Curtis!"

But she stayed. Lyla Barstow saw them, sitting on cushions before the fire before she closed her door. Joan's slender arms clasped her knees, her hair was a halo of gold light in the dim fire lit room.

"I can't give him up to her I—can't—I can't—" she whispered to her haggard reflection in the mirror. "Oh, Curtis—what can you see in her—"

Outside the wind whispered in the trees, raindrops pattered on the shingled roof. The wicker chairs squeaked. Instinctively Joan drew nearer to Curtis . . . Curtis . . . her only friend.

"Have a good time?" Francine asked.

"Oh, yes!" Joan's face was glowing—no need to ask.

Ruth watched them talking, from a corner. "I've got something to tell you," she telegraphed to Joan.

Something about Bill, Joan knew. Always something to bring her back, just when she had made up her mind.

She steeled her heart. "What about?"

Ruth pushed her into one of the empty fitting rooms. "Listen—William's gone back to Pasadena. Did you know?"

Her round dark eyes were boring into Joan's like gimlets.

"No, I didn't know. Why should I?"

"I thought you were such friends."

"Not for a long time—"

"But you saw him after the party with Rollo and me at the hotel—"

"Oh—"

"Oh, yes, you did. He told me himself."

Bill telling . . . telling Ruth . . . "Well, what of it?" she asked defiantly, but the dark color surged over her face. What else had Bill told? Ruth was shrewd, it would need only a word, a careless, blundering word . . .

Sultan of Paper Collectors on His Load Stirs Fay King's Imagination

SOME DAY IM GOING TO RENT A TURKISH COSTUME AND TAKE A SIGHT-SEEING TRIP ON ONE OF THOSE BAGDAD PAPER WAGONS!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

NEVER do I behold one of those wagons piled to Alpine heights with sacks of waste paper without appreciating why O. Henry called New York "Bagdad on the Hudson."

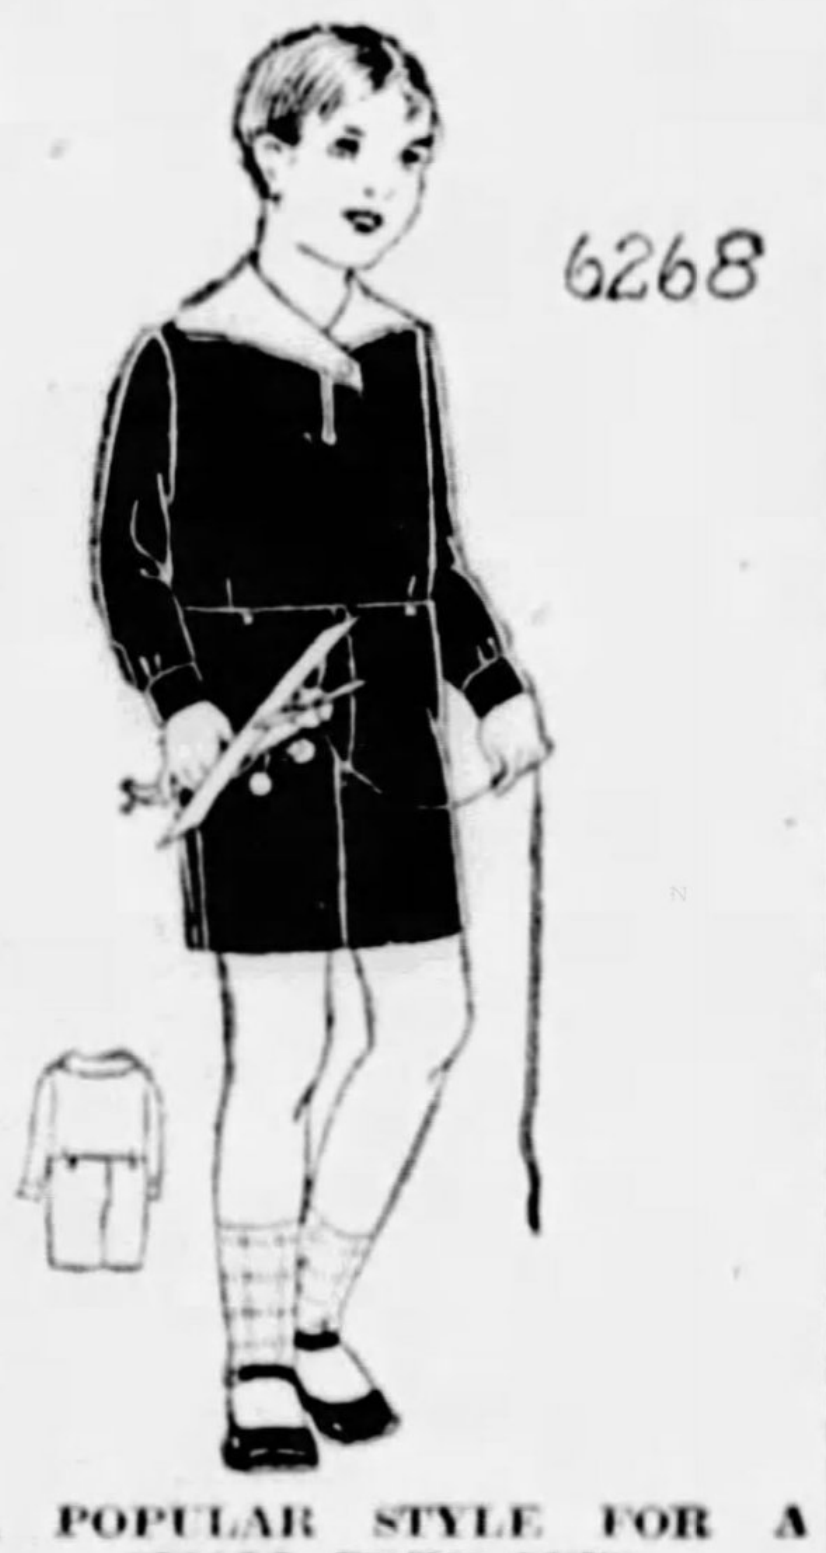
To see the Prince of Paper Collectors perched high up there in Oriental splendor and cushioned comfort, one can't help thinking he is some merry Sultan riding by.

Slowly he goes along, smiling down with calm and kindly benevolence at the hurrying world below.

A Rajah of India on his favorite elephant would seem insignificant in comparison.

No conqueror who sacked a great city in ancient time ever rode along more triumphantly than those who cheerfully and patiently sack our city thoroughly every day.

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern



A POPULAR STYLE FOR A SMALL BOYS' SUIT.

Black velvet with the collar of white silk broadcloth is here shown. This model is also pleasing in flannel—brown or navy blue—with simple stitching or braid for a finish. Twill or broadcloth are nice as are also wash materials such as madras, linen or Indian Head. The collar is a distinctive feature of this style. It is cleverly cut with a tab extension that overlaps at the left side. The trousers are cut with straight lower edges.

The pattern of this natty little suit is cut in three sizes: 2, 4 and 6 years. A 4-year size will require 2¾ yards of 36-inch material. A facing on the collar of contrasting material requires ¼ yard 20 inches wide.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Pape's COLD COMPOUND to STOP a Cold

Snaps Out of Cold In Record Time!

Did you ever hear of a five-hour remedy for colds? There is one, and it really does bring you out of it completely. Even if it's grippe, this method works, only it takes longer. It's a simple compound the druggist has in tablets. Pleasant-tasting, but it sure has the "authority!"

Plenty of people with a bad cold in the morning have been rid of it by night; and the secret is Pape's Cold Compound. You'll think it just luck the first time, but it always goes to the spot. Druggists have it for 35c.

Now! meal time is a happy event

"IT is all so wonderful, I can hardly believe my eyes. When I think how badly you used to feel—didn't want anything to eat—perhaps sometimes a little grouchy and miserable, and just driving yourself by main force, I almost shudder. I know it worried you, too. You seemed to feel as though you were slipping. Then one day you brought home a bottle of S.S.S. and told me you were going to give it a trial. That was only a few weeks ago. Today you look like a new person. Your appetite is keen, your flesh is firm, and your whole being seems to radiate happiness and I am happy too, because you are well and strong again."

Loss of appetite only a symptom

It is a known fact that when one's system gets "run-down," they haven't the resistance to ward off disease. Loss of appetite is only a symptom. General weakness pervades the entire body. There is no desire to work or play.

Rich, red blood builds and sustains

Your physician will tell you that lowered vitality is the result of an insufficient supply of red blood cells—those vitalizing elements in the blood that build and sustain the body.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there can be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

—purely vegetable

When you get your blood cells back up to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, loss of appetite, rheumatism, boils, pimples, and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again; sleep soundly; solid flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You fell strong; and your nerves become steady.

S.S.S. proven record over 100 years

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been helping people regain their strength and charm. Thousands of users have testified to its benefit in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

Made only from the fresh vegetable drugs gathered at the proper season of the year, S.S.S. gives to Nature what she needs in making you yourself again.

All drug stores sell S.S.S. Get the large size. It is more economical.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

A Simple Application That Dissolves Blackheads

No more squeezing and pinching to get rid of those ugly blackheads. Get a little Calonite powder from any drug store, sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth, rub over the blackheads, and in two minutes every blackhead will be dissolved away entirely.

What one taste showed Mrs. Cadle about

Pie Crust

A SWEET delicate shortening can make the crust of a pie as delectable as the filling! To make sure that your shortening is sweet and delicate, test it the same way you test your milk and butter—taste it!

Mrs. Katherine M. Cadle did just that; then wrote us:

"The taste of Crisco is sweet, agreeable—without the slightest trace of any 'strong flavor' which one occasionally finds even in the best of other shortenings.

"For pies, Crisco has proven excellent; it makes a flaky crust that browns beautifully and has a fine flavor."

Standard Pie Crust

Amount for one-crust pie (Or baked shell)	For medium size two-crust pie
1⅓ cups pastry flour	2 cups pastry flour
½ cup Crisco	⅔ cup Crisco
½ teaspoon salt	¾ teaspoon salt
4 to 6 tablespoons cold water	6 to 8 tablespoons cold water

Sift pastry flour and salt together. Cut shortening in with two knives until the consistency of small peas. Add only enough ice water to hold. Roll. For baked shell, cover bottom of pie plate. Leave enough edge to fold back to make it firm. Prick well with a fork to prevent bubbles. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) for 15 minutes.

Sour Cream Pie

Filling

1 cup sour cream
¾ cup sugar
1 tablespoon Crisco
⅛ teaspoon salt
3 eggs separated
1 tablespoon flour
¼ teaspoon each cloves, cinnamon, allspice, nutmeg
½ cup raisins

Mix flour and sugar. Add cream and Crisco. Bring to a boil. Add beaten egg yolks, spices, salt and raisins. Boil five minutes, stirring constantly. Cool, pour in baked shell. Cover with meringue. Beat egg whites stiff, add 3 tablespoons sugar and pinch of baking powder. Cover pie. Brown in moderate oven (350° F.).

Chess Pie

Filling

⅓ cup Crisco
1 cup sugar
2 egg yolks beaten
1 egg white
Juice and grated rind of small lemon
⅔ cup chopped raisins
⅔ cup chopped walnuts
⅛ teaspoon salt

Cream Crisco, sugar and egg yolks. Add raisins and nuts. Fold in the white of one egg beaten until stiff. Line patty pans with crust, put in the filling and bake in hot oven (450° F.) 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 325° F. and bake until filling is set about 30 minutes. When done, top with meringue made of two egg whites beaten stiff and four tablespoons of powdered sugar. Return to oven to brown.

Program Errors Not Fault of Newspapers

Due to the inconsistency of both political parties in the arrangement of speakers for radio talks, a few inaccuracies have occurred in radio programs. Such was the case last night with the Gov. Smith talk scheduled for 8 p. m. over KDKA. At the last minute it was decided he wouldn't speak over the air, but no notice of this decision was sent to newspapers. Another speaker was substituted by the Democratic National Committee. The Sun-Telegraph makes an honest effort to have its radio programs as accurate as possible. Where a slipup in the time or the names of speakers occurs it is clearly the fault of the publicity committees for the political parties. Sun-Telegraph radio programs are compiled daily in The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph office from programs received from radio stations by mail and wire.

Syracuse Stars Who Come Here—To Battle Pitt in Stadium Saturday

ALBERT VAN NESS

WARREN STEVENS

Four of the regulars of the Syracuse University eleven, which battles Pitt in the stadium next Saturday, after having held Penn State to a 6-6 tie last Saturday and outplayed Nebraska a week before, only to be nosed out, 7-6. Van Ness is a tackle, Newman a guard, Lewis an end and Stevens a halfback. Van Ness and Newman performed brilliantly in the Penn State battle, and Panther forwards opposed to them anticipate a very busy afternoon. Stevens is a consistent ground gainer and Lewis a star passer.

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

Carnegie-New York Game Promises to Be One of Season's Greatest Grid Battles. Westerner Shows Way to Place-Kickers. Report of Trading of Wright to Cubs Just Another Dream.

WHILE the experts are pointing out the "biggest" football games on the program for the remainder of the season and the ones that promise to be hardest fought and possibly most important in deciding the Eastern championship, they must not overlook a battle scheduled for a Pittsburgh gridiron.

Chick Meehan

That is the meeting of Carnegie Tech and New York University, scheduled for Saturday, November 24, at Forbes Field. Coach Chick Meehan has at N. Y. U. one of the heaviest and most powerful elevens in the country, and as Carnegie's team also is one of exceptional strength and ability the struggle here three weeks from next Saturday can hardly fail to be one of the outstanding struggles of the 1928 season.

IN EVERY game played to date the New York team has made good its early promise of being one of the mightiest elevens in the country. It has beaten Niagara 21 to 0, West Virginia Wesleyan 26 to 7, Fordham 34 to 7, Rutgers 48 to 0 and Colgate 47 to 6.

Gotham critics are comparing the Violet with the Army, and predict a red-hot controversy at the end of the campaign as to which is the better outfit, provided both keep up their present gait and finish their schedules undefeated.

REPORTS from New York say that Meehan's team has everything, and that no more smoothly functioning machine has ever been turned out by any Gotham college, not excepting the great Columbia eleven that beat Yale 29 years ago.

The movements of the New Yorkers are described as having a rhythm, a real poetry of motion, allied with rock-ribbed self assurance, that is on display from the brief huddle, through the clash of conflicting bodies, until the ball carrier is brought down by a foeman's tackle.

AS Ed Hughes puts it, "the huddle is obnoxious to many devotees of the game, but not to those who follow the destinies of the Violet. Plays are run off as rapidly as in the signal-calling era and with what precision! The linemen turn backs to the opposition, keeping, at times, a perfect alignment as they bend forward to receive the instructions. A wheeling movement, three jaunty steps forward and the men drop into the orthodox attitude of the line, the ball is snapped and the play is on. There is something downright captivating in the well-lubricated workmanship of this huddle system supposed to be a blight on the even progress of a game."

Tiny Linn

LOCAL football fans still are discussing the great playing of Mike Getto, bulwark of the Pitt line, against Carnegie Tech last Saturday, when he reached a peak of brilliancy that few linemen have attained in these parts.

Pitt men are comparing him with Tiny Linn, who was the hero of the Panthers two years ago. Against Carnegie, his magnificent defensive paly stood out from start to finish, he

GLOOM DESCENDS ON PITT CAMP

By JESS CARVER.

IF CARNEGIE TECH was not taking a week of deserved rest, one might say that the Tri-State district football campaign was primed for its greatest week-end. Contests on the books for this Saturday, both on local gridirons and on foreign fields where district elevens will be a battling, are of great importance.

Alec Fox.

The curtain of gloom which descended over things Pittish following the defeat at the hands of West Virginia and which was rent asunder by the glorious fight the Panthers made against the Carnegie Tech eleven threatens to descend once again on the Oakland university. It became known definitely yesterday that the Golden Cats are going to have to battle for the second successive Saturday against a strong foe with Tom Parkinson out of the lineup. Coach Sutherland said yesterday that he would not play Parky against Syracuse this week—and added that it was extremely doubtful if the plunging back would be fit for service against Wash-Jeff. His ribs are still in bad shape, or rather, are still out of shape.

PITT DRILLS LONG

Pitt had a long drill yesterday, their first of the final week of work prior to the Syracuse battle. The coaching staff, bedecked in neat looking jackets, gave the team a thorough drill concentrating on the aerial attack. From all indications it appears as if the Panthers are going to carry the fight right to Syracuse and not worry so much about the vaunted aerial attack of the invaders from the North.

The backfield combination that started against Tech and played most of the game is booked for duty again against the Orangemen. Sutherland worked his team with Edwards at fullback, Uansa and Williams at the halves and Eddie Baker at quarter yesterday. He used Walenchus at Edwards' place for a while late in the drill and had Hood tossing passes on the second string eleven.

The Dukes got in a hard afternoon of drill as Layden and Reagan pepped and prepped 'em for the Westminster struggle scheduled for the Bluff gridiron Saturday. Andrew Jasper McDonald, tempestuous graduate manager of athletics at the United Presbyterian institution, having a hankering to see the Pitt-Syracuse engagement, made an effort to have this battle moved up a day so that he and his ball club could wander into the Stadium. His efforts, so I understand, fell flat.

The Dukes are not disheartened over the Geneva defeat, at least they did not appear so in their practice session. If Westminster, Thiel, Waynesburg and Bethany can be beaten, the Dukes will have compiled as enviable a record for the season as any of the local clubs—unless Tech goes through without being messed up in the three contests left on the card, with Georgetown, Notre Dame and New York University.

TECH TO BE IDLE

Carnegie Tech has no game booked for this week. The key men of the team, Capt. Harpster, Karcis, Letzelter and maybe a lineman or two will attend the New York-Georgetown game Saturday at New York in the role of scouts. There is a workout scheduled for today for the Plaid.

One of Carnegie Tech's 1929 games has been arranged for. The Tartans will be in Cleveland on October 12 next fall, meeting Western Reserve, the team that the Skibos just nosed out here in 1927. The nose-out was 17-0 as far as I can recall.

Ralph Vince, head coach of football at John Carroll, was in town yesterday to see Buddy Overend about a game with John Carroll. Buddy had just closed a couple hours before Ralph arrived with the Reserve authorities or he would have done business with Carroll.

Reports from all around the circuit yesterday were encouraging. Geneva seems to be so tickled over stopping the Dukes that they are looking forward with real pleasure to giving Charley Berry's Grove City eleven a busy and entertaining afternoon at Beaver Falls Saturday. Wash-Jeff, badly battered and crippled through the loss of four regulars, started work for the hard game at Philadelphia with Lafayette, with a vim.

The morale of the Presidents has not been cracked. You can't keep a fighting team down, and any team that Andy Kerr is connected with is a fightin' club. Else Andy doesn't stay connected with 'em long.

HAROLD COTTON

The forces of the Pittsburgh Hockey Club holdouts were cut considerably when Harold Cotton, star wingman, attached his signature to a 1928-29 contract. The Pirate skater is reported to have received a substantial increase in salary.

Speaking of Sports

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

BENNY LEONARD, retired undefeated lightweight champion of the world, and Young Eppy, former local boxer, who are pals, were comparing present boxing conditions with those of their fighting days, here yesterday, between confabs in which Leonard ironed out some of the kinks in the local hockey situation caused by the holding out of a few of the stars of the Pittsburgh club.

Eppy called attention to a slight trace of an old cut over one of his eyes.

"Very few of the older school of fighters were able to escape cuts of this sort," he said, "and I'll tell you why. Remember how we used to bandage our hands? Eh, Benny? We'd wrap 'em around and around with bicycle tire tape, and make ridges in it and insert a couple of nickels and then apply powder before we slipped them into the gloves and then bang our fists against the wall to flatten out the hard surface over the knuckles. Then we'd work the padding of the gloves away from the knuckles, and, when we got into action, we had something with which to hurt the other fellow and he was similarly prepared for us. And when those knuckles hit you over the eyes, they did plenty of cutting. Many eyes still are being cut open in fights, but not in the same manner, nor nearly the same number."

Benny agreed with Eppy in full as he recalled the alleged "good" old days, and then launched into a bit of reminiscent chatter of his own.

"Every once in a while you hear somebody recall a former star boxer who wound up broke," he said, "and they wonder why he wasn't able to save anything out of his earnings. Say, in the old days, they didn't get the big purses they have received in recent years, and their managers cut them just as heavily and their net earning power wasn't anywhere near what the public thought.

"And here's a thought worth while. The average follower of boxing has little or no idea of how much the young boxer is at the mercy of the manager and promoter. He generally starts in along about his sixteenth or eighteenth year and doesn't know what it's all about. He makes money in good-sized chunks, but his fights are farther apart than paydays on a regular job. When he gets his share of purses he feels rich and self-important for the moment and his manager handles him about as he pleases between fights. Very few boxers ever get to the point where they can successfully handle their own affairs because they become so thoroughly accustomed to being mishandled.

"The average manager of a boxer takes for his end from 25 to 33 1-3 per cent of his boy's earnings. In any other profession the commission is much smaller. A man on the stage, for instance, can get months of solid booking

War Hero to Direct Hearst Shoot

MAJ. GEN. PAUL B. MALONE, commanding the Sixth Corps Area of the United States Army, will personally supervise this year's matches among the R. O. T. C. units competing for the William Randolph Hearst trophies.

General Malone is keenly interested in the development of military activities among educational institutions throughout the country. He regards the Hearst Shoot as one of the best means of encouraging this training, and when the Secretary of War designated the Sixth Corps Area in charge of the Hearst matches, the General welcomed this important duty.

General Malone graduated from the United States Military Academy at West Point in 1894. His first appointment was to Second Lieutenant in the Thirteenth Infantry. He served in the Santiago campaign in 1898, and the following year he took part in the Philippine Insurrection on the island of Luzon, where he remained for two years. Step by step he advanced until he was appointed Brigadier General on October 1, 1918.

His service with the A. E. F. was brilliant. As a member of the General Staff, he took part in the action on the Somme, the Aisne defensive, Chateau-Thierry operation and the Aisne-Marne offensive. He commanded the Tenth Brigade of the Fifth Division in the St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne offensive.

Among his decoration are D. S. C., D. S. M. and W. D. C., conferred upon him by our government. He also holds the French Legion of Honor and Croix de Guerre with two palms and one star.

TIGERS MAY GET RAY SCHALK

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Ray Schalk, former manager and catcher of the Chicago White Sox, intimated yesterday that he might join the Detroit Tigers next year.

Schalk said he had been negotiating with several major league club managers and had discussed the subject with Stanley Harris, new manager of the Tigers.

"I have nothing definite to say now," said Schalk. "However, I expect to be with some ball club next season."

PLAY BECKMAN CLUB

Brentwood A. A. will play the strong Beckman football eleven Sunday at the Arlington grounds. Brentwood will have such stars as Keefer (former Pitt star), Bruce brothers and the Frobe brothers in the lineup.

POPULAR HEAVIES MAY HEED CALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Ears that listen at cauliflower keyholes are tingling these days to whisperings that indicate the return of Luis Angel Firpo, prosperous business man of Buenos Aires, and John Harrison Dempsey, actor and California real estate magnate, to the more rugged lines of endeavor they knew before affluence set in.

Dempsey, led to believe that he possessed the qualities of a great thespian and convinced that he never could whip Gene Tunney in a dozen comebacks, announced last spring that he was "through" with the prize ring forever. His stage bubble has burst, the contract he signed for $5,000 a week for 20 weeks in a Broadway play has been cancelled. Tunney has passed from the ring picture and Dempsey, twice whipped by the Big Marine, is listening to daily advice and pleas that he don the padded mittens just once more to save the heavyweight ranks from utter stagnation.

The Old Man Mauler, despite his 33 years, is wavering. Tex Rickard won't talk, but Jack is believed to have set a $500,000 price tag on his services for one more battle. The mogul of Madison Square Garden is gun-shy now when requests for guarantees of that kind are shoved in his face. Tex still is a bit punch drunk from the financial beating he took when he guaranteed Tunney $550,000 for blasting Tom Heeney before a crowd that paid little more than that to view the tidbit of the summer season.

"What the public wants," Jack muttered in disgust when his show closed a few days ago without completing its "run" on the road, "is real fights, not acted fights. I'm no actor."

Dempsey, today, is restless. He believes and maintains that he never will fight again. But he is listening, arguing with those who try to convince him that the fistic lull is due to the absence of his own colorful, dynamic box office appeal.

The case against Firpo, the shaggy-haired bull who lost the greatest of modern ring battles to Dempsey in 1923, is more obvious. Firpo actually is in training in South America, whittling away flesh from a body grown huge and soggy since he retired to a life of physical leisure in 1925. He has contracted for two matches and is negotiating for a third. Rickard has made him an offer to fight here. Firpo insists on finding out what fighting ability he has left before accepting.

BOOKS TWO MATCHES

Jose Lectoure, Argentine promoter, returned to Buenos Aires Saturday after announcing that he had clinched matches for Firpo with Jack Renault and Roberto Roberti, the Italian giant. Firpo has taken off 50 pounds in several months of training, he said, and now scales 240, about 20 pounds above his best fighting weight. The Renault match is scheduled for January, while Roberti would meet Firpo after two other matches in the Stadium, seating 30,000, at Buenos Aires.

Like Dempsey, the burly Argentine is wealthy now, and is listening to the call of glory rather than necessity. Firpo probably never will forget how close he was to the championship that night in the Polo Grounds when he pounded Dempsey from the ring with one mighty right hand smash after climbing off the floor seven times. The Latin temperament of the man is heeding the call of South America for another fistic fiesta.

JOIE RAY BEATS EL OUAFI IN PHILLY RACE

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Joie Ray, American star, last night showed his heels to El Ouafi, French-Algerian Olympic marathon champion, and two other middle distance stars in a 16-mile indoor race at the arena.

Ray's time was 1 hour, 27 minutes, 18 1-5 seconds. He finished four and one half laps ahead of El Ouafi with Ken Mullen, Philadelphia, third, and Willie Kohlemainen, brother of Hannes Kohlemainen, former Olympic marathon champion, fourth.

In racing to victory, Ray established what was claimed to be a new world's indoor record for 15 miles, having been clocked in 1 hour, 22 minutes and 5 seconds. The race originally had been scheduled for 15 miles, but just prior to the start another mile was added.

FIGHT FOR TUFFY

CONTROVERSY HURTS LOOP

By JULIUS LEVIN.

WHAT promised to develop into one of the finest and best-balanced amateur basketball leagues ever organized in this vicinity may prove only a dream as a result of the Greater Pittsburgh Institutional League failing to reach a satisfactory agreement that would start all teams off on the right foot.

The North Side Community House team, winner of the A. A. U. championship last winter, has withdrawn from the circuit rather than adhere to a ruling that would rob it of its most dependable stars. The ruling in question prevents any league member from competing in outside loops.

Several of the North Side team's stars are working for concerns sponsoring basketball teams, and they regard it a duty to represent their organizations in commercial basketball competition.

The present Community House team is the same that won the championship last winter, every player being a bonafide member of the institution.

If the league authorities remain steadfast in their refusal to alter this legislation there is hardly any chance of a Greater Pittsburgh Institutional League operating this winter. Five teams are not enough to conduct a league properly and with Community House out of the running the loop will lose much of its appeal on the amateur basketball public.

The trouble with amateur basketball authorities in this vicinity is that they allow outside influences to dictate the policies of their activities. Every one of the organizations enrolled in the Greater Pittsburgh Institutional League is capable of handling its own affairs and the sooner they come to realize it the better it will be for basketball as well as other sports.

North Side Community House, Young Men's Hebrew Association, Heinz House, Kingsley House, East Liberty Y. M. C. A. and Hill Top Y. M. C. A. all are governed by a strict amateur code that is well understood by the members and officials of their teams. Why is it necessary to go to an outside source to organize a league under rules that are dictated by disinterested parties?

The amateur officials are well acquainted with the requirements of a first-class institutional league, but they will never get very far unless they come to the realization that they must handle their own affairs to reach this objective. If the amateur officials cannot trust themselves they cannot get much succor from outside sources.

Pittsburgh needs the Greater Pittsburgh Institutional League and the league needs the North Side Community House in its fold. The rule preventing players from appearing in lineups of companies by whom they are employed should be changed to allow the circuit to remain intact.

Sarkins and Levinson, two former Y. M. H. A. stars, will be found in the lineup of the Tempest Club this season. The Tempest passers are embarking on their sixth successive campaign with prospects brighter than ever. All of last year's veterans are back and indications point to a successful season. Owing to the fact that Tempest Club for the time being is without a home floor all games will be teams interested in booking Tempest Club. Call Irwin Volkin at Cedar 1104 between 6:30 and 7 o'clock.

The Kli-Ko-Klub, of Oakland, is booking games with teams operating in the boys' class. This is the club's second year of existence, having played last winter under the name of the Oakland Vagabonds. Teams desiring games at home or abroad call Schenley 1617 between 6 and 7 o'clock and ask for Cy.

CUDDY TO BOX JOHNNY HAYES IN TUBE CITY

Cuddy De Marco, fresh from his victory over Phil Goldstein in the main bout at Motor Square Garden Monday night, will battle Johnny Hayes, of Philadelphia, in the 10-round main bout at McKeesport Thursday night of next week. Manager James (Red) Mason closed for the battle before returning last night to Chicago, where he has been spending considerable time recently.

Two years ago, Hayes gave Cuddy a hard battle at the Manayunk open-air arena in Philadelphia, the bout being declared a draw.

Young Jack Thompson, Negro welterweight, of California, and Danny Gordon, of Philadelphia, box in Chicago tonight. Thompson's return bout with Joe Dundee, the welterweight champion, whom he knocked out in two rounds in Chicago, has been postponed from November 16 because of an infected arm suffered by Dundee.

Joe Glick, the New York lightweight contender, was the victim of a trick decision in his bout with Eddie Anderson at Omaha, the other night and it almost cost him a chance to fight in an elimination tournament in his home town.

Young Nationalista and Bushy Graham have been matched for a bout at Milwaukee next Wednesday night.

Herman Follins, the former amateur of Ambridge, won two fights in four nights after turning pro in New York, last week. His first victim was Johnny Gaito and his second, Patsy Paleto at Jersey City. He boxes again at Jersey City tomorrow night. He is under the management of Lou Brown, of New York, who also handles Nat Kawler, whom he would like to show against Johnny Mellow here. Kawler recently defeated Ray Miller, of Chicago, in New York.

Four amateur boxers will compete in an local intercity show in Cleveland tonight against representatives of Cleveland, Buffalo, Philadelphia and New York. They are Regis Davis, 118 pounds; Dan O'Brien, 135 pounds; Cowboy DeLuca, 147 pounds, and Billy Windso, 160 pounds.

Tony LaRose, the Cincinnati southpaw welterweight, who recently registered a hit here in beating Bobby Richardson at Motor Square Garden and then lost to Rudy Ceder, is anxious to box Ceder again. His manager, Gus Sanzere, writes that Tony was suffering from indigestion in the battle with Rudy and promises to shellack him as he did Richardson if given another chance. Tony certainly merits the opportunity to redeem himself on the strength of his showing against Richardson if for no other reason.

Charley Anderson, Negro heavyweight, of Chicago, former sparring partner of Jack Dempsey, is angling for a battle in these parts with Ike McFowler, of Johnstown, whom he claims he defeated in Chicago before Ike lit out for the Flood City. Anderson is under the management of Billy Stevens, of Chicago, who also manages Pal Moore, the bantamweight; Harry Forbes, featherweight; Russ Whalen, lightweight; Billy Showers, welterweight, and Del Fontaine, middleweight, of Canada, whom he would like to show in battles in Westrn Pennsylvania rings.

Floyd Hybert, of Ashtabula, O., and Henry Firpo, of Louisville, meet in a return bout in the 10-round windup in the Jolly Bowl, at New Castle, next Monday night. Hybert won the first meeting, a hurricane affair. Joey Goodman, of Norfolk, Va., and Sammy Lupica, of Toledo, will box the six-round semi-final.

Walter French, Mack Star, Retires

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Walter French, for six years an outfielder for the Philadelphia Athletics, may have played his last major league baseball game.

French has entered business in Chicago and has asked Connie Mack to put him on the voluntarily retired list.

JACKIE FIELDS STOPS BAKER

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Jackie Fields, flashy Los Angeles welterweight, knocked out Sergt. Sammy Baker in the second round of their scheduled 10-round match here last night.

The knockout came after four minutes 20 seconds of fighting, during which Fields had held the lead in the battling. A terrific left hook landed Baker flat on his back and he was counted out by the referee. A crowd of 15,000 saw the fight, an open-air affair.

After an exchange of blows at the opening of the first round, Baker fell over backwards in coming out of a clinch and Fields went down on top of him. Fields worked his left efficiently through the round and Baker had some difficulty landing effectively.

The Los Angeles boxer started his final drive with a left to the head followed with a right to the same place and then two more rights, then came the knockout left and the end of the fight.

Baker weighed 146½ pounds and Fields one pound less.

made brilliant downfield tackles, recovered fumbles, blocked passes and acted as a morale builder for the whole Pitt team.

IN ALL these respects Getto resembled the great Linn, and further in that each won a regular position only in his senior year and had but one season in which to demonstrate his right to high rank.

Getto "made a monkey," clearly outplayed the Carnegie line men opposite him, and if anyone can pick heroes out of a game in which every player distinguishes himself one wreath must be made to fit the head of the tall Italian boy from Jeannette, who learned his football first under "Pie" Williams and "Dutch" Hockensmith, when they were developing the Pitt system as coaches at Jeannette High School.

MANY of the goal-kicking specialists in this and other parts of the football map who find it difficult to maintain a high average under present-day rules, might profit by taking a leaf from the book of Edgar Schmidt, fullback of the University of Kansas eleven. Western experts claim for Schmidt that he is the best place-kicker in collegiate America. And the reason for the success that has won him that prominence is that he devotes at least one hour of his time daily to practice in place-kicking.

Edgar Schmidt

SCHMIDT has the distinction of having converted 13 of his 14 kicks after touchdowns into extra points. This means that he is charged with only one failure in two years of competition, and on the occasion of his single miss, his kick was blocked by an opponent.

As the season of the Kansas team is only about half over, and he will be eligible for one more year of varsity play, Schmidt bids fair to establish a record which may stand for a long time if he can keep up his present percentage of successes. In practice he hardly ever misses his mark.

THE story sent out from New York to the effect that the Pittsburgh baseball club is working on a deal to trade Shortstop Glenn Wright to the Chicago Cubs may be listed as just another of those off-season tales that are founded only on wild guesswork.

The absurdity of the yarn is shown by the fact that the author follows it up with the statement that Manager Joe McCarthy will have to decide whether to use Wright or English at shortstop, mentions the possibility of English being shifted to third base, and then pictures an infield made up of Grimm, Hornsby, Wright and English, an outfield composed of Stephenson, Wilson and Cuyler, a pitching staff of Nehf, Blake, Malone, Jones, Root and Carslon and a catching duo of Hartnett and Gonzales.

INASMUCH as the same story says that Fred Maguire, Cliff Heathcote and Earl Webb will go to Boston in the Hornsby trade, the average fan may be pardoned for wondering whom or what the Pirates would get in exchange for Wright. With Maguire, Webb and Heathcote assigned to the Braves, all the rest of Chicago's players are named as remaining with the Cubs. The Pittsburgh club never sells a ball player for money, so it is clear that the New York story is unfounded. The Bucs at least would have to get a shortstop to take Wright's place, and even if English were named as coming here in the trade the yarn would not ring true, as it is known that the Buc bosses would not consider trading Wright for English even up. The man wanted for Wright is Travis Jackson of the Giants, and the first steps taken in the expected plan to swap the local shortstop will be in that direction.

NATIONAL GOLF EVENT HERE?

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The awarding of the 1929 women's national golf title tournament will be considered by the executive committee of the United States Golf Association at its meeting here on November 22, and it is reported that the Allegheny Country Club, of Pittsburgh, is to get the award. Oakland Hills, Detroit, and the Country Club, Buffalo, are other clubs being given consideration.

At this same meeting the executive committeemen will talk of the best maximum length for a championship golf match, 18 holes vs. 36. It is not improbable that the vote will be for 36-hole rounds in all major title tests.

HARRIERS TO COMPETE

Cross-country runners from all sections of Western Pennsylvania are entered in senior Allegheny Mountain Association event to be staged over the Schenley Park course on Saturday, November 10,

BUCS AT ODDS IN ARGUMENTS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

"WHAT we need is a couple of pitchers who can throw that ball by a batter occasionally in a clinch."

The speaker was one of the Pirates and his criticism was really constructive.

The player then elaborated on his remark. He was talking at a time when the Pirates were just about out of all flag reckoning.

"We have some good pitchers," he continued, "but we would be higher in the race if we were fixed like the Cubs with respect to a fast-ball thrower.

"Joe McCarthy can throw Malone, Blake, Root or Bush at you and there's four babies who can get something on that ball. And Robbie has Vance and McWeeney with their fast stuff. If we had about two of those birds we'd be sittin' pretty."

NO BATSMEN?

Now for the other side of the argument. One of the leading pitchers of the Buccos squad—who had no knowledge of his mate's remark—goes to the "mike" and delivers this little broadcast, with malice toward none:

"Say, did it ever occur to you that we haven't got one batter who can consistently hit the ball hard to leftfield?

"Just go over the batting order, then, and see for yourself. If we had a good righthand socker who could pull that ball down the leftfield line we'd score more runs.

"The best leftfield hitter we have on the club is a lefthand batter—Paul Waner!"

And there you have two very intimate criticisms of the Pittsburgh club delivered by two athletes who really have the best interests of the club in mind.

There is merit in both arguments, particularly in the sum-up of the pitching situation.

Carmen Hill has a dandy fast ball and so has Kremer, but they are hardly as swift as the pitcher mentioned. A sharpshooter who can "throw them by you" truly is a big asset in a tight ball game.

Chillysauce

KING FOOTBALL reigns over many subjects during two months, but it might be said that the royal figure does not put on his regal raiment until November comes with her frosty tinge.

Most of the classics of the gridiron are staged in the month arriving tomorrow. Each Saturday of November is heavy with traditional battles, and Thanksgiving Day always offers a number of masterpieces of the grid. With each succeeding year Armistice Day is in popularity as a football occasion.

WHEN Richard (Dick) Bartell, infield pepperbox, reports to the Pirate training camp next spring he is likely to be a serious-minded youngster of graver responsibilities. Richard and Miss Olive Jensen were married last week at their Alameda home. Alameda is a suburb of San Francisco.

But the folks who help to carry on the ball and bat diversion would prefer to take a little rest period during which time the gridders might have full swing of the spotlight.

THE big month of football is hardly over before the baseball news begins to pop. About two weeks after the last touchdown has been made the magnates of the major and minor circuits assemble for their winter pow-wows.

Either New York or Chicago entertains the magnates and players in the annual winter session. The minors meet in many cities, Toronto to feature the convention of the smaller circuits this season. These Stove League sessions carry big appeal to the baseball folks, who attend in large numbers, but ere they are over the delegates are quite tired of the hard infields, as the hotel lobbies are termed.

Speaking Of Sports

and pay only 5 or 10 per cent. No, all is not gold that glitters in the fight game—and especially for the boxer."

THIS was the cue for Eppy to break in.

"I never had a manager," he said. "I boxed some good boys, but I never had any one man handle my affairs. In those days, before commissions, the boxers would go around to the promoter and ask for a fight and he would refer them to the matchmaker, who would offer to put them on for specified sums minus a 'cut' for making the match. Anybody who could get me a bout was my manager for that one fight. Finally, I found I could make more money out of a group of taxicabs I was operating at night than I could out of the fight game, so I quit boxing. Training was too hard work compared with the monetary return."

Leonard told of some of his experiences since coming here as a hockey promoter.

"Have I had a headache?" he asked, and replied, "and how! I came here with the intention of taking over a business that had lost considerable money last year and making a new start. The players we wanted to retain were offered increases in their contracts, but a few of them evidently became obsessed with the idea that because New York capitall was coming into the enterprise in the form of my bankroll it was Christmas and I enacting the role of Santa Claus. They asked for sums all out of proportion to the earning possibilities of the club, taking into consideration our other overhead, such as the purchase price of the franchise, rental, equipment and traveling expenses. I want to do the right thing by the players and the hockey fans of Pittsburgh and I am doing it. When the players all see the light and get into line I am sure everything will roll along smoothly and everybody will be perfectly satisfied and we will have a winning club that the fans will be glad to patronize."

Fight Results

At Atlanta — Young Stribling kocked out Sid Terris, 3 rounds.

At Paris—Primo Carnera knocked out Salvatore Ruggirello.

SOCCER DRAW SATURDAY

By TOM BIRKS.

THE announcement that the National Amateur Cup Committee will convene in Cleveland Saturday night to conduct the draw for the first round proper of the National Amateur Soccer Cup brings forcibly to Western Pennsylvania fans the rapidity of the season's scheduling.

And once again, as Pittsburgh fans pick up their Sunday paper and scan the draw to see how local teams fare in the initial round, memories will wander to that rain-lashed Westinghouse High School Stadium where the valiant Green and Gold of Heidelberg played to a standstill the Blue and White of New Bedford, and brought to Pittsburgh its first national soccer championship.

It does not seem more than a few weeks since Armstrong Patterson, then second vice president of the national body, made that presentation at the stadium to Manager Balsarini, but in the interim two years have passed on, and now Western Pennsylvania is sitting, dreaming what the winter will bring forth, for looking at the class of the clubs already displayed it is figured that Pittsburgh and Heidelberg will again be the favorites to bring a national championship to the Steel City if one is to be brought here.

Saturday and Sunday will see the playing of the preliminary round of the West Penn senior cup, and while many league games are watched with interest, it is the cup fights that add the glamor and glory to the soccer season. One game is scheduled for Saturday at Lawrence Park, the Union Switch and Signal eleven will meet the Celtics, and when these rivals play, fans are usually all set to see a game worth while. Swissvale does not seem to be so forceful on the attack as it was last season, the punch in the forward line is missing, and the club is not getting goals. Jack Thomas will have to raise that practice session and make the boys get goals.

On Sunday the most improved club in the district, the Corinthians, will meet Heidelberg. The form displayed of late by the McKay club should make the wearers of the Green and Gold feel that it has a tough job on its hands. The Corinthians' form against Dunlevy and the German Sport Club brands it as a fighting aggregation, and the former national champions will have nothing soft. Then Benick, who makes a practice of saving penalty kicks, will be the last line of defense against the Heidelberg offensive.

Douglas at Westinghouse—that ought to produce a banner crowd and a great game. The writer met Manager Masterton of Douglas for the first time on Tuesday and the Wilkinsburg mentor is working hard trying to give the Black and White a winner.

Douglas is applying snap to its football and that ought to carry it far if the forwards would shoot more often. Against Pittsburgh, McLay played center forward. McLay is a fine defender, but does not fill the bill at leading the line. Masterton wants to get a man in there who can shoot with both feet, and not hesitate around the penalty work.

Given a dry field, East End fans should see the outstanding battle of the season at Homewood playgrounds when the Pittsburgh Soccer Club hooks up with Pittsburgh Rovers in the District League.

ICE HOLDOUTS MAY SIGN TODAY

By CARL W. SHATTO.

Goalie Roy Worters, Wingman Harold Darragh and Center Hib Milks are expected to sign new contracts with the local National Hockey League club late today.

In discussing the situation today, Odie Cleghorn, manager of the local skaters, revealed that the only remaining holdouts were to hold a conference with officials of the club this afternoon. In view of the fact that terms were discussed at several previous conferences, and that any players not signed by this evening automatically will stand suspended, it is assumed that the new conference of this afternoon will result in the clearing up of the holdout situation.

Beginning tomorrow, the Pirate skaters will indulge in two workouts each day, one on the Duquesne Garden ice and one in the gymnasium of the Y. M. H. A. Benny Leonard new owner of the local club, is a strong advocate of calisthenics, and he is confident that an hour of gym work each day will help the Pirates to achieve top form.

The workouts in the Y. M. H. A. gym will be held at 10 o'clock each morning, and the workouts on the ice will be held in the evening, beginning at 7 o'clock.

Dick Carroll, who managed the old Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets and who now is pilot of the Tulsa team in the American pro loop, and Joe Page, veteran hockey critic, were Pittsburgh visitors yesterday.

HAWKS GO TO ST. LOUIS

CHICAGO, Oct. 31—(AP.)—The Chicago Blackhawks moved south to St. Louis today in search of ice on which to complete their training for the coming hockey season.

The Blackhawks have been undergoing a general conditioning course for the past 10 days. The move to St. Louis for the remainder of the training period was necessary because of the lack of permanent ice in Chicago.

Capt. Dick Irvin was included in the squad as the club's physician pronounced the Hawk's fleet wingman entirely recovered from a fractured skull received last year.

RANGERS KEEP LANE

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 31.—Myles Lane, former Dartmouth hockey and football star, has been assigned a place as a member of the New York Rangers hockey team, it was announced here today.

The 12 players who will represent the Stanley Cup winners when they open the 1928-29 hockey season against the Cougars in Detroit, November 15, are: Frank Boucher, Bill and Bun Cook, Ching Johnson, Taffy Abel and John Roach for the regular lineup, with Murray Murdoch, Leo Bourgault, Butch Keeling, Billy Boyd, Paul Thompson and Lane as reserves.

There Is Health in Every Rub

YES, those expert Masseurs at the Pittsburgh Natatorium do rub. No use denying that, for there isn't any occasion to do so. That is what they are paid to do. When the rubbing is finished and your stay in the steam room ends, you are mighty glad you were in the hands of masseurs who could rub. They are rubbers of health. Try them.

When the Banker talks with the Engineer about PAVEMENTS

BOTH banker and engineer to be successful, must be keen judges of value. When they talk pavements, the truth comes out.

The banker knows that brick pavements are a safe investment for any community. Long life; less upkeep. He will tell you that they are thoroughly satisfactory even after 20 to 30 years of hard use and exposure to weather. They outlast the bonds.

The engineer can tell you why this is true. Briefly, paving brick, that dense tough surface, protects pavement base from wear. Being vitrified and laid with asphalt between bricks, it forms a surface that is weatherproof. The sand cushion protects the base from traffic shock.

Time-tried brick is the quality pavement. Its beautiful, even, smooth-riding surface remains that way. Ask for it on road or street. For further information address National Paving Brick Manufacturers Association, National Press Building, Washington, D. C.

Should Boys Have to Work While Getting Education?

By B. C. FORBES

IS it good for our sons to have to work in order to get a good education.

Or does the necessity of having to earn money rob a college course of some of its greatest advantages?

Is the student who had to work or the one who did not have to work the more sought after by employer?

There springs to my mind the sons of one millionaire who were given unlimited funds while they were at college and never were called upon to give an accounting. These young men have since caused their parents much worry.

An associate of this financier, also had two boys at college. While they did not have to earn their way, they were given quite a modest allowance and each month had to prepare a detailed accounting. Their father, in this instance, kept in very close and intimate touch with his sons. They are now extremely promising young men.

THAT, in itself, proves nothing. But my observation is that far more youths are spoiled by being given too much money than are spoiled by not being given enough.

I once asked a veteran professor what was the ideal course to follow. He instanced the dangers of too much pocket money, but decreed that, on balance, the advantages gathered by having to earn money while at college were more than offset by the loss of the social and recreational advantages open to the non-working student. He favored a very limited spending allowance.

LARGE corporations and other employers who look over lists of students about to graduate are less influenced by whether the students spent money freely or had to work, than they are impressed by whether the young men attained leadership in any direction, as a scholar, as captain of an athletic team, as manager of some college activity, or as voted the most promising or most popular student of his class. Leadership qualities are what alert employers want.

HAVING had to leave college at fourteen and having had to acquire education later while doing a full day's work every day, I probably am biased. As I see it, it is salutary for a youth to have to earn at least part of his keep while at college.

In analyzing the careers of several hundreds of those who have attained conspicuous leadership in large affairs, I have been impressed by the large percentage of them who had to work and work hard from a very early age, and who had to support themselves entirely while at college—in the case of those who went to college. Opulence has proved bad for self-discipline.

IT may be significant, at least it is interesting, to note the records of the two presidential candidates. Gov. Smith, as everybody knows, had to fight his way, catch-as-catch-can, for a living on the East Side of New York. He graduated from what Edison called the university of hard knocks.

Mr. Hoover's experiences at college have just been revealed in an official reply given to College Humor. Here it is in part:

"Back in the late eighties when the Republican nominee for president was an office boy for a land company in Salem, Ore., a mining engineer sauntered into the office and captured Bert Hoover's imagination with talk of that profession. He decided to go to college and become a mining engineer.

"And so in the fall of 1891 Bert Hoover became a freshman in the first class at Stanford. He had $100 as his capital and he had a big task on his hands to find a means of supporting himself and to keep up with his studies.

"The first job that came to hand was in the office of the registrar, handling the newly-arrived students. Then he was a local agent for San Francisco papers, which helped out the condition of the exchequer. Next he discovered that there was an opportunity for a laundry agency at the university, and he entered into an arrangement for this with the Red Star Laundry at San Jose. This grew to goodly proportions and he eventually named sub-agents in the fraternity houses.

"During his second year he organized and managed a co-operative student boarding house, along with other things. Returning for his junior year after a second summer with a geological survey of Arkansas, he brought forth a plan for control of student activities by a student body. This was put through and he became treasurer of the student board without salary. He also managed a lecture and concert course.

"Receiving his diploma in May, 1895, he worked as a mine laborer for a brief time."

IT is extremely comforting to become well off financially as one advances through life. Experience proves that danger lurks in letting youth spend lavishly that which it did not earn.

ELECTION BOGY SENDS STOCK PRICES OFF

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Selling pressure increased in today's stock market as speculators, large and small, began to dispose of at least part of their holdings. Fears of a general "shake-out" either just before or just after election day were reflected in the increasing number of cautionary advices by leading commission houses. The reaction, which followed an early outburst of buying in which a dozen or more issues were lifted to new high records, was an orderly one. Trading quieted down considerably.

The bulk of the day's trade news continued favorable, but had little effect on the general price movement. U. S. Steel common and General Motors both yielded to selling pressure, after initial outbursts of strength, despite the unexpectedly favorable character of the Steel third quarter report, and the optimistic comment on earnings and dividend action by President Sloan, of General Motors.

The Iron Age weekly review laid particular stress on the impending purchases of railroad equipment and seasonal orders for rails, but also called attention to the tapering operations of the automobile industry. Ingersoll Rand declared an extra dividend of $1 and announcement was made of a forthcoming merger of Vivaudou and American Druggists Syndicate.

Credit conditions continued favorable, with call money holding steady at 7½ per cent. A fresh import of $2,500,000 in gold was announced from Great Britain, bringing the total on the current movement to about $17,500,000.

Radio, which advanced 4 points to 239¾ in the early trading, fell back to 227. International Nickel dropped from 189½ to 183½. Western Union from 194 to 188, Greene Cananea Copper from 139¾ to 134, Warner Bros. Pictures common from 122⅞ to 117½, and U. S. Steel common from 163 to 160. Du Pont was hammered down 7½ points from last night's close. Victor Talking Machine 6, Wright Aeronautical 5, National Tea 4 and R. H. Macy, Atlantic Refining (old), Johns Manville, Curtiss, Republic Steel, Chrysler and General Motors sold 2½ to nearly 4 points lower.

Express shares showed independent strength, Adams soaring 28 points and American 11.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 8 to 12 points on reports of cold rains in the South and a late rally in Liverpool. January contracts sold up to 19.46c shortly after the opening or about 16 points net higher. But this advance seemed to meet considerable southern selling as well as realizing, and some local selling on a favorable view of the weekly weather report. January eased off to 19.33c and May to 19.20c under these offerings, with the market ruling within 3 or 4 points of yesterday's closing quotations at the end of the first half hour. Private cables said that there had been hedging and liquidation in the Liverpool market but reported a broadening cloth demand from Egypt and the near East and said that the improved position of Lancashire spinners was maintained.

Failure of bullish features in the weather news to create a more active demand probably led to liquidation, while there was further southern selling. The market lacked support except for covering and some trade buying on the declines. Prices worked off to 19.24c for December and 19.12c for May with the general market showing net declines of about 3 to 6 points at midday.

Sloan Sees Record G. M. Year.

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors, returning from England, said his company would establish record-breaking earnings this year, approximating $16 a common share. Mr. Sloan was noncommittal as to the action of directors at a meeting to be held November 8 except to say stockholders would receive something of a "pleasant surprise." He said the export volume of the corporation to England and the continent would exceed $100,000,000 this year and be greater in 1929.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Noon Hour Selling Wave.

The market ran into a sharp selling wave around the noon hour today, and for a time it appeared that another flood of liquidation might sweep over the list. The selling met strong opposition, however, after several of the big speculative leaders had been forced down from two to five points. The weakness upset the calculations of many observers who had anticipated the usual recovery to follow the weekly "Tuesday reaction," which occurred yesterday. What brought the stock into the market was not exactly clear. Some market followers were of the opinion that the technical situation is weaker than many observers believe, and besides, it is generally thought that some of the most important operators are standing aside awaiting the results of the election. Accounts are being strengthened to place the owners in position to take either side of the market. The so-called outside public has toned down its demand for stocks in the past few days and, with the big operators on the side lines, there is not much inclination to work the up side of the list to any great extent. The money market continued firm, with call loans at 7½ per cent, unchanged from yesterday. Banks called about $10,000,000 at mid-day, which indicated that the rate would hardly ease back before the close.

Public on Long Side.

While public confidence was shaken to some extent by last Friday's break, it is evident from the experiences of most commission houses that outsiders are still in favor of the long side. Profit-taking from the public has been more than offset by the new demand which developed at recessions, and a considerable number of stocks have strengthened their position because of the scale-buying orders which have been put into them by outsiders at moderately lower levels. This has been a source of support in various issues and has absorbed some of the selling which came into these stocks for profit-taking.

Looking for "Sick Ones."

Some professionals and traders have adopted the practice of seeking "air pockets" in the market. They have tested the ability of many stocks to absorb selling and when it has been discovered that stop-orders and an otherwise weak technical position exist these operators have been pressing for sale. Thus far there has been evidence of the willingness of some pools to support their favorites, but where group activities have ended the stocks have worked materially lower under this selling. At times the support came mainly from the traders who had put out short lines and who were covering.

Picking Up the Rails.

There has been considerable selective rail buying. Leading carrier stocks are most favored, because these issues have not fully reflected the good earnings which are promised for the coming months. In addition they are selling at levels which give a better yield than the general run of industrials. Odd lot investment buying in the standard dividend-paying rails has been increasing as a result of the advices which have come out of investment firms recently. These houses are now giving preference to the leading rails because they consider this group offers a smaller risk than the industrials.

Vivaudou-Drug Syndicate Merger.

A merger of V. Vivaudou, Inc., American Druggists Syndicate and the Scheerer Corporation of America, under the name of Vadsco Sales Corporation, has been proposed to stockholders of the companies, it was learned today. The companies are engaged in the sale and manufacture of drug and toilet preparations. The new company will have an authorized capital of 125,000 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred and 2,000,000 shares of no par common stock. Assets will be approximately $12,000,000. David A. Schulte, president of the Schulte Retail Stores Corporation, is president of the American Druggists and a director of Vivaudou. Stockholders of the American Druggists will meet December 10 to vote on the proposals, while Vivaudou stockholders meet December 11.

Of the authorized common stock, 500,000 shares will be reserved to take care of the five-year conversion privilege offered holders of preferred stock on the basis of four shares of common for one of preferred. Stockholders of Vivaudou will receive 28,578 preferred shares to be exchanged share for share for their present preferred and 381,573 shares of common on a share for share basis. American Druggists stockholders will receive 1,000,000 shares of $10 par stock, $4,000,000 in new 7 per cent preferred stock and 600,000 new common shares, while stockholders of Kny-Scheerer will receive 8,000 shares of new 7 per cent preferred and 40,000 shares of common.

Jersey Cuts Wholesale Gas.

The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has reduced the price of motor gasoline ½ cent to 11 cents at Bayonne, Baltimore and Parkersburg, W. Va.

Holmes in Aircraft Deal.

J. H. Holmes & Co. is a member of a banking group composed of New York and Boston interests, including Otto H. Kahn, of Kuhn-Loeb & Co., which has acquired 100,000 shares of Bellanca Aircraft Corporation for a reported consideration of $2,000,000. The Bellanca Corporation is preparing an expansion program to fill an order for 300 planes and the company also plans to take up the construction of larger planes, which will be placed on the market shortly. Production of the 300 aircraft will keep the Bellanca plant at capacity production for a year. The Bellanca Company last year obtained the backing of Pierre S. Du Pont and the factory moved to Wilmington, Del., from Staten Island.

International Business Machines.

Report of International Business Machines Corporation (excluding earnings of foreign subsidiaries other than Canada, which will be included in the final quarter) for the nine months ended September 30, 1928, shows net income of $3,173,864 after interest, depreciation and reserve for federal taxes, equivalent to $5.48 a share earned on 578,643 shares of no-par stock. This compares with $2,809,834, or $4.85 a share in first nine months of 1927. Net income for the September quarter was $1,136,682 after above charges, equal to $1.96 a share, comparing with $1,028,171 or $1.78 a share, in preceding quarter and $954,197, or $1.65 a share, in third quarter of previous year.

Lake Erie Coal-Ore Traffic.

Lake Erie coal dumpings for the season to October 21 totaled 23,652,275 tons, against 29,834,421 tons a year ago. Dumpings for the week were 1,151,468 tons, against 741,266 tons in same 1927 week. Iron ore shipments from Lake Erie ports to interior furnaces during the first 25 days of October totaled 3,335,840 tons, against 2,628,420 tons last year.

Wholesale Trade Lags.

Wholesale distribution in the United States continued in approximately the same volume in September as in August. When allowance is made for the seasonal increase, however, wholesale sales in nine lines reporting to the Federal Reserve System showed a decline of 4 per cent from August. Meat packing and furniture firms reported the largest increases in sales in September, compared with the preceding month, while sales of boots and shoes showed largest decline. In comparison with the same month a year previous, volume of wholesale distribution in September was slightly smaller. Seven of the nine reporting lines showed decreases in sales, varying from less than 2 per cent in the case of groceries to about 14 per cent in the case of shoes, while meat packing and furniture firms showed substantial increases.

White Motor Gets Order.

Twelve additional 33-passenger buses to cost $111,000 have been ordered from White Motor Company by Community Traction Company, of Toledo, which has been testing 27 new buses of several makes to determine which to buy in enlarging its fleet to 200. Several traction lines are to be eliminated and bus service substituted soon.

Big Gain for Moto Meter.

Moto Meter Company and subsidiary companies, including National Gauge and Equipment Company, report for quarter ended September 30, 1928, net income of $209,765 after depreciation, federal taxes and preferred dividends of National Gauge and Equipment Company. This is equivalent after dividend requirements on Class A stock to 14 cents a share on 200,000 shares of no-par Class B stock. This compares with $109,309, or 54 cents a share, on Class A stock in preceding quarter and $140,971, or 70 cents a share, on Class A in third quarter of 1927.

Hall Lamp Earnings.

C. M. Hall Lamp Company earned $784,000 after all charges, including federal taxes, in the nine months ended September 30, 1928, equivalent to $1.96 a share on its 400,000 shares of no-par capital stock. This compares with net profits of $285,000, or 71 cents a share, earned in the first nine months last year, and with $430,000, or $1.07 a share, for entire year 1927.

National Cash Register.

Consolidated net profits of National Cash Register Company for nine months ended September 30 is equal under the participating provision of the shares to $3.48 a share on the combined 1,100,000 shares of common A stock and 400,000 shares of B stock, against $3.11 a share on the combined shares in the first nine months of 1927.

Yale & Towne.

The Yale & Towne Manufacturing Company September quarter net income is equal to 78 cents a share against $1.03 a share in previous quarter and $1.06 in September quarter in 1927. For nine months, net equals $2.66 a share against $3.71 in 1927.

Yugo-Slav Match Rights.

The Swedish Match Company has signed an agreement with the Yugo-Slavia government, giving the company sole right to manufacture and sell matches in Yugo-Slavia for 30 years. The agreement provides for a loan to Yugo-Slavia of $22,000,000 at 6½ per cent interest.

Savage Arms.

Savage Arms Corporation and subsidiaries report for quarter ended September 30, 1928, net profit of $219,238 after depreciation and reserve for taxes, etc., equivalent after preferred dividend requirements, to $1.40 a share earned on 174,948 shares of no-par common stock. This compares with $234,831, or $1.32 a share in preceding quarter and $123,793, or $1.37 a share on 87,474 common shares in third quarter of 1927. Net profit for first nine months of 1928, totaled $487,078 after above charges, equal to $2.72 a share on 174,948 common shares against $198,755, or $2.15 a share on 87,474 common shares in first nine months of preceding year.

Barnsdall Improving.

Earnings of the Barnsdall Corporation increased sharply during the third quarter, when they equaled $1.09 per share. Earnings in the first and second quarters were but 31 and 49 cents per share, respectively. The improvement reflects the general upturn in the oil industry. Production from Barnsdall new field near Santa Barbara, Cal., is expected to show in the profits for the last quarter. Total net income for the first nine months of the year, however, at $2,401,461, are substantially less than for the like period of last year, when the total was $3,348,492.

New Gas Company Organized.

The Crawford interests of this city, the Ohio Oil Company and Prairie Oil and Gas Company, have organized a new holding company with capital stock of 2,000,000 shares of no par value, known of the Western Public Service Corporation. The new company will serve Southern Idaho and Central Utah, and plans call for construction of a 350-mile pipe line from Wyoming to Salt Lake City, Utah. George W. Crawford will be chairman of the board, O. D. Donnell, president, and L. B. Denning, N. K. Moody, R. J. Berry and T. B. Gregory, vice presidents.

Big Month on Local Board.

The Pittsburgh Stock Exchange in October enjoyed a very active month in trading. The total share trading up to last night was 302,000 shares, making it one of the most active months in some time. If the trading on the local curb had been included the total would reach probably half a million. There is every reason to expect even further gains in trading on the local board. Some of the good curb shares like Reymer, Pruett-Schaffer and Plymouth Oil will most likely be added to the regular list later.

A. P. I. Oil Figures.

The daily average gross crude oil production in the United States increased 19,300 barrels for the week ended October 27, totaling 2,523,700 barrels, according to the weekly summary of the American Petroleum Institute. Daily average imports of petroleum at principal ports for the week ended October 27 totaled 213,857 barrels, compared with 249,000 for the previous week, and 208,571 for the four weeks ended October 27. Daily average receipts of California Oil at Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports for the week ended October 27 totaled 40,714 barrels, compared with 41,571 for the previous week and 39,429 for the four weeks ended October 27.

Indian Refining.

Indian Refining Company, Inc., and subsidiaries earned in the first nine months $508,745 net, equal to 40 cents a share on 820,328 new common stock. This compares to $6,092 in the entire year of 1927.

Louisiana Oil.

Louisiana Oil Refining Corporation and subsidiaries report profit of $1,137,133 in the first nine months, against $273,316 a year ago.

Calumet-Hecla Earnings Jump.

Calumet and Hecla Consolidated Copper Company reports for quarter ended September 30, 1928, net profit of $847,638 after taxes, depreciation, depletion, etc., equal to 42 cents a share (par $25) earned on 2,005,502 shares of stock. This compares with $744,523, or 37 cents a share, in preceding quarter and $48,340, or 2 cents a share in third quarter of 1927. For first nine months of 1928, net profit totaled $1,904,360 after above charges, equal to 94 cents a share, against $272,227, or 13 cents a share, in the first nine months of preceding year.

Carloadings Beat 1927.

Loading of revenue freight for the week ended October 20 totaled 1,162,095 cars, according to the American Railway Association. This was an increase of 33,040 cars above the corresponding week in 1927, but a decrease of 38,846 cars from the corresponding week, and a decrease of 28,032 cars from the preceding week's loadings, decreases under the week before being reported in the total loading of all commodities, except live stock and merchandise less-than-carload-lot freight.

American Ice Gains 25 Per Cent.

Earnings of the American Ice Company of New York, before federal taxes and depreciation for the past nine months, were $4,616,106, an increase of 25 per cent over the same 1927 period.

Scrap Up At Chicago.

Heavy melting scrap steel in the Chicago territory is quoted at $14.50 to $15, an advance of 50 cents a ton.

Lack of Confidence in Wheat.

The Journal of Commerce today says: "There is a lack of confidence in wheat. It is felt by leading market authorities that the weight of supplies should bring about lower prices as it is thought that the natural action of the market is being delayed by the idea that political influence is being used to maintain prices. Some of the best traders are keeping out of the mart because they believe normal market considerations are not fully operative at this time. Corn, it is believed, gives better promise than wheat for the buyer, although it is confronting the flush of the early harvest movement."

Standard Oil of New York.

In line with other well-rounded oil units, Standard Oil Company of New York is experiencing substantially improved earnings this year. It issues only annual statements, so figures are not available at this time, but the trend of oil trade conditions warrants the belief that 1928 results will better by a large margin the 66 cents a share earned in 1927 on 17,118,931 outstanding shares of capital stock. New York is a complete oil unit, one of the largest in the United States and an important factor in international oil production, extensive refining and marketing facilities and large pipe line and transportation systems. Its production activities are centered around Magnolia Petroleum and General Petroleum companies, subsidiary units. The former is a leading producer in the mid-continent fields and the latter an important factor in the California area.

United States Steel Earnings.

Total earnings of the United States Steel Corporation for the third quarter were announced today as $52,148,476 after expenses and taxes, as compared with $46,932,986 in the preceding quarter and $41,373,831 in the third quarter of 1927. Net income was $34,373,458, against $30,428,901 for the second quarter and $26,077,136 for the third quarter of 1927. Directors declared the regular quarterly dividends of $1.75 per share each on the common and preferred stock. Net income for the first nine months of 1928 was $90,709 598, against $87,683,386 for the corresponding period of 1927, equal to $8.17 per share of common stock, as compared with $7.75 in 1927. Surplus for the third quarter was $11,127,929, as compared with $7,110,428 for the second quarter and $7,379,566 for the third quarter of 1927. Earnings by months compare as follows:

CARNEGIE METALS RALLIES IN LOCAL STOCK MARKET

AIR BRAKE'S 3RD QUARTER IS BEST

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE third quarter was the best of this year for the Westinghouse Air Brake Company, but the improvement over the earlier periods was only moderate.

Net income for the three months ended September 30 was $1,720,113, which was equivalent to 54 cents a share on the capital stock. It was the first quarter of this year in which earnings exceeded dividend requirements of 50 cents a share quarterly. In the first quarter of this year 45 cents a share was earned, and in the second quarter 47 cents a share. The improvement in the quarter just reported was not quite sufficient to bring the return for the first nine months of this year to a point exceeding dividend requirements. The nine months' earnings were $4,650,463, which was equivalent to $1.46 a share.

There has been little buying of railroad equipment, so that earnings in the final quarter are unlikely to show any great increase.

WESTINGHOUSE AIR BRAKE may be expected to earn about $2 a share for the entire year of 1928.

Follansbee Brothers Company this year is reporting the largest earnings in its history except during the war years. Figures for the third quarter are at an annual rate considerably in excess of results for the first six months.

The balance after depreciation, interest and taxes for the third quarter amounted to $388,911, which is equivalent to $1.91 a share on the 180,000 shares of common stock after deducting preferred dividends.

Earnings in the first nine months were $1,080,223, or $5.25 a common share. This was at an annual rate of $7 a share for the junior stock. The quarter earnings were at an annual rate of $7.64 a share. In the full year of 1927 earnings were $3.81 a share.

THE company reports that current operations are on capacity basis and looks for continuance of this activity well into 1929. Follansbee is one of the largest manufacturers in the United States of high-quality steel sheets and tin plate, which are advertised under the trade name "Follansbee Forge" and are distributed throughout the United States. These products are used in the manufacture of a very wide range of articles, such as automobiles, electrical generators, motors, stoves and ranges, gas meters, lanterns, roofing tin plate, steel furniture, ovens, milk and ice cream cans. This diversification of outlet imparts a large element of stability to its business. While it is understood that heavy production of automobiles in 1928 has played a large part in the record business and earnings of Follansbee, an equally important factor has been the increasing efficiency in the company's plants, which has reduced operating costs.

It is interesting to note that the management of the Follansbee Company is now in the second generation and that there is no intention of the family name passing out of the picture, as the younger Follansbee men are trained in various divisions of the company to continue the family ownership.

FOLLANSBEE has an enviable dividend record on its common stock dating back to 1896. Since that time an aggregate of over $5,500,000 in cash has been paid on the common stock, and in addition numerous stock dividends in substantial amounts have been paid.

The company recently declared the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share and also an extra of 25 cents a share, payable on December 15. While no official statement has been made regarding future dividend policy, it is understood that the directors are well disposed towards increasing dividend disbursements commensurate with the future increase in earnings.

Current working position of the company is strong. As of September 30, 1928, current assets amounted to $6,300,000, against current liabilities of a little over $1,000,000. Cash and marketable securities aggregating $2,100,000 were in excess of twice total current liabilities.

STEEL OUTLOOK ENCOURAGING

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The Iron Age in its weekly summary of the iron and steel trade says: Impending purchases of railroad equipment and seasonal orders for rails, a sustained demand for pig iron that has forced prices to still higher levels, and further signs of strength in finished material, particularly bars, are encouraging features of the iron and steel market.

Developments of the week, however, do not all point in the same direction. Steel scrap at Pittsburgh has declined 25 cents a ton. Further evidences of the tapering operations of the automobile industry have been brought to light and a gradual reduction of mill backlogs with a corresponding shortening of deliveries is indicated.

Steel production holds at close to 90 per cent, and pig iron output has reached a record rate for the year. Pig iron production estimates collected by the Iron Age indicate 3,373,000 gross tons for October, or 108,800 tons per day. The daily output exceeds that of September by 6.5 per cent and is the highest in 17 months. It was also the best average for October reached in any year except 1918 and 1916.

The seasonal rail buying movement brought out orders during the week for 159,600 tons from the Pennsylvania and 50,000 tons from a western road.

Railroad equipment inquiries include one for 3,000 cars from the Missouri Pacific. Buying program to be launched after election call for upward of 40,000 cars.

Fabricated steel awards, including an informal contract for 11,300 tons for New York subways, aggregate nearly 42,000 tons, the largest total in six weeks.

Steel bars are selling at 1.95c, Pittsburgh, or $1 a ton above the recent minimum. Most reports indicate a firm sheet market.

The upward swing of pig iron prices has not yet been halted. In the Chicago, Valley and Buffalo markets all grades went up 50c a ton. At Philadelphia basic pig iron rose 25c a ton on a 10,000-ton sale.

Spot furnace coke prices at Connellsville, although unchanged, are growing easier in keeping with an increase in available supplies of the fuel.

The Iron Age composite price for finished steel has advanced from 2.362c to 2.369c a pound, the highest figure since June, 1927. The pig iron composite has risen from $17.92 to $18.25 a ton, the first time it has been above $18 in more than a year.

PRODUCE MARKET

Dealings at the local wholesale produce district for all lines of fruit and vegetables were rather dull today. The quotations were about unchanged.

The poultry market was about steady, with the demand fair, supplies liberal and quotations unchanged.

Eggs and cheese were steady. Butter was firm. No change was made in the quotations on these markets.

Car lot supplies were heavy, a total of 793 cars being on track. Included in the arrivals were 13 cars of apples, 7 cabbage, 3 grapefruits, 31 grapes, 1 parsnips, 2 lettuce, 4 onions, 3 oranges, 3 pears, 1 spinach, 30 potatoes, 5 sweet potatoes, 4 tomatoes and 1 carrots.

STEADY PRICES NOTED IN OTHER SECURITIES

Carnegie Metals, Lone Star Gas and Arkansas Gas were the active members of the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange list during the early trading today.

With the exception of Carnegie Metals, prices were about the same as those prevailing at the close last night. Carnegie rallied well after having slipped off to around 22 in recent trading, the figure at which it received good support following its reaction from the high point of 25 reached a few weeks ago. General strength in the metal shares on the New York exchange and resumption of operations at the Carnegie mines in Mexico following a shut-down, due to engine trouble, brought the stock to the front again recently and friends of the issue are understood to have been adding to their holdings on the recent set-back.

Lone Star held around 59 in the early market, apparently giving no reflection of the announcement of the organization of the Western Public Service Corporation by interests closely identified with the Lone Star management. Western Public Service subsidiaries will supply gas to western districts lying between Wyoming and Salt Lake City, Utah. A 350-mile pipe line will be constructed at once.

Witherow Steel was firm at the recently established high of 30, while Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt was up a fraction at 54¾. National Fireproofing was handled early at 21, unchanged from yesterday's close.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—Wheat prices turned upward early today, notwithstanding declines at the outset. Talk of likelihood of crop damage by rust in Argentina is a bullish factor. Opening unchanged to ⅛c off, wheat sagged a little all around and then scored general gains. Corn also advanced, starting ⅛@¼c down to ⅛c up and subsequently showing a rise for all future deliveries. Oats were steady. Provisions went downgrade.

References to possible damage to wheat in Argentina as a result of rust acted as more than a counterbalance at times today for bearish effects of word that Argentine wheat territory had been visited by further rains. Persistent mention of decreasing stocks of wheat at Liverpool was also more or less a strengthening influence, and so too was news that crop prospects in Western Australia had been reduced owing to dryness, although estimates are yet for a bigger harvest than last year.

A forecast of wet weather in the corn belt tended to lift corn prices. Besides, country offerings of corn to arrive were smaller, and eastern demand good. There were likewise indications that on account of better bids than from Chicago a large amount of Illinois corn is going direct from interior points to the seaboard for export.

The following quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. E. Masten & Co.:

Pennsylvania Needs More and Wider Paved Highways

The concrete highways of Pennsylvania are famous for their durability and their fine riding qualities. They have done much to increase the prestige and prosperity of this state.

Pennsylvania has 90,000 miles of country highways. Less than one-sixth are surfaced, and there are still many miles on the State Highway System that are not adequately improved. About 5,000 miles are paved with concrete, the ideal paving material for modern traffic.

Automobile registration in Pennsylvania, as elsewhere, shows a tremendous annual increase. There is every reason to believe that the increase will continue for many years.

Highway building must not fall behind automobile production. Existing roads must be widened and poor roads must be paved.

In Memoriam 1-B

In loving memory of our dear son, PHILANDER C. KLINKNER, who died 1 year ago today, October 31, 1927. Sadly missed by father, mother and four sisters.

The flowers we placed upon your grave
May wither and decay,
But love for you who lie beneath
Will never fade away.

Result of Graft Probe Doesn't Satisfy Public

The presentment of the grand jury which has been investigating graft, vice, gambling, slot machines and rum is disappointing to the public. Of the 252 names in the list sent to the courts with a recommendation for indictment, there are but few of those who actually are responsible for conditions which resulted in the probe.

Most of the 252 are small figures in the racketeering game which has been conducted boldly and with impunity in Pittsburgh for years. True, there is promise of further revelations in the declaration that the investigation has only begun and that the surface has only been scratched. But it would seem that Mr. Gardner could have made a much better showing toward getting the big profiteers in this sordid game. A half dozen or so out of a list of 252 leaves a great deal to expect of the hearing that is to be resumed.

Two and two make four. It is an old saying. There is a long list of persons, headed by Alfred W. Forney, charged with maintaining gambling devices and each with being a common gambler. Did they operate as openly as they are known to have operated without collusion and protection? The answer is that two and two make four.

In the list are two police lieutenants, four aldermen and justices of the peace and one employe of the Children's Service Bureau.

Not much but something. Enough to make us hopeful that Mr. Gardner can give us another list that is not made up almost entirely of the little shop keepers who paid for protection and now find they have not got it.

The public will not be very well satisfied with the showing Mr. Gardner has made in five weeks of investigation.

Amendments Affecting City Works Advocated

Almost every one of the 14 amendments to the Pennsylvania constitution, coming before the voters November 6, has behind it some interest to advocate it and urge its passage. This is fortunate for the public. The various questions likely would remain unknown to a large majority of the voters were it not for the activity of those favoring the adoption of this or that amendment. Here we have heard most about the Metropolitan Plan amendment. Yet every one of the 14 is of importance.

Council is particularly interested in the passage of No. 8, which would permit the debt of the city to be increased from 7 per cent to 10 per cent of its assessed valuation. This, it has been pointed out in Council, is necessary if contemplated improvements are to be financed. Inasmuch as there is constant demand from the public for modern improvements, it is held by members of Council that it will be impossible to finance them with the present debt margin without increasing the tax millage to an oppressive point.

Another matter of special local interest is No. 7, which provides for improvement assessments against non-abutting properties benefited by the improvement as well as those abutting on it. That seems fair and ultimately it will be fair to all, although a few people may suffer a little through the first application. For instance, citizens have paid for paving a street without aid from property on unpaved streets near an intersection with the improved one, that have benefited by improvement. Those on the paved streets near intersections will be expected to help pay for improving property from which they received no help themselves. This evident injustice eventually will disappear and should not endanger the passage of the amendment, which, as a general principle, is worthy of support.

It may be possible, in specific legislation putting the amendment in force, to avoid even slight unfairness.

Rail-River Terminals Subject of an Inquiry

As a preliminary to plans and estimates for rail-river terminals here, Director Edward G. Lang, of the Department of Public Works, is obtaining data on river and wharf conditions and river freight possibilities. A terminal on the North Side, either on the Ohio or Allegheny, for heavy freight, and one on the Monongahela for light commodities are contemplated. Business concerns have been asked to give information as to possible tonnage they might ship were facilities available.

If the enthusiasm for development of the river trade, which was generated through an impressive trip of a large number of Pittsburgh businessmen a year ago, has not evaporated, Director Lang should get an impressive respone to his initial survey of the situation. Greater use of our waterways has long been advocated and declared to be feasible and economically desirable. River improvements have been carried to such a point that community preparation to take advantage of them now is in order.

If river-rail terminals really mean greater business for Pittsburgh let us have them. But let it be fully determined first whether they give real promise of being something more than ornaments.

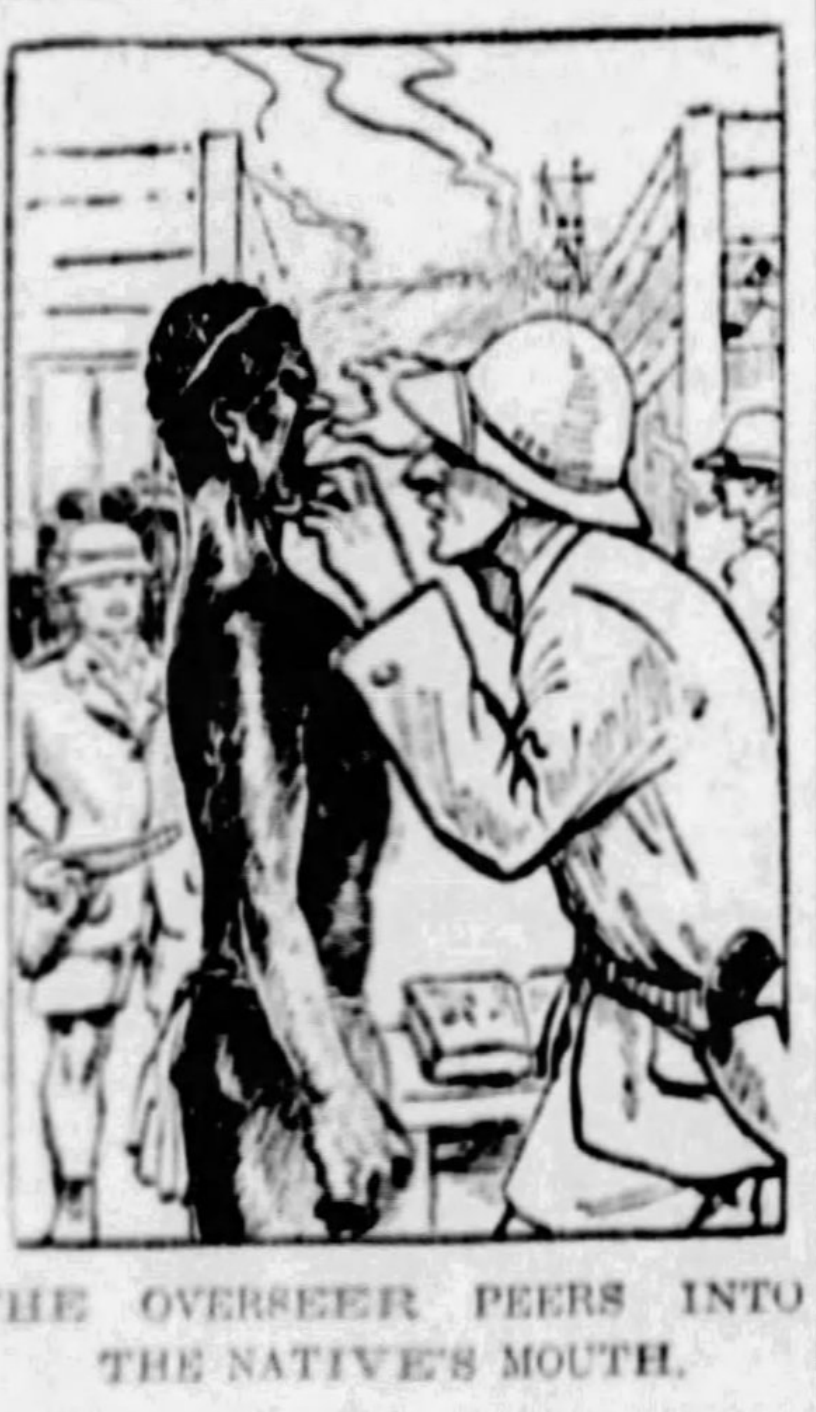
HOW WORKERS ARE SEARCHED IN THE DIAMOND MINES OF BRITISH SOUTH AFRICA

THE greatest, most productive diamond mines in the world are located in the Kimberley region, in British South Africa. Since 1869, when diamonds were discovered in the blue, clay-like soil, the name Kimberley has become a synonym for those precious stones.

It is interesting to note the elaborate precautions taken to preclude the possibility of the natives stealing the stones. All native workers in the mines are segregated. Large, fenced-in areas, wired on top, called compounds, house the miners. After they leave the mines they are literally herded into these compounds and locked in. They are not allowed to leave until morning, nor is anyone permitted to visit.

As the native leaves the mine he is thoroughly examined by overseers lest he might try to secrete one of the stones about his body. As he wears nothing but a loin cloth, this might seem to be a simple matter. But many of them have devised ingenious ways to hide the gems. The overseer peers into the native's mouth, between his toes, under his armpits. Some of the larger mines are even equipped with fluoroscopes to determine if the enterprising native has swallowed a stone.



THE OVERSEER PEERS INTO THE NATIVE'S MOUTH.

It is needless for me to add that these mines are probably the most elaborately equipped in the world. They are lighted throughout with electricity, and every device to facilitate the mining of the stones has been introduced.

A Wise Son

(Proverbs 13:1-13.)

A WISE son heareth his father's instruction: but a scorner heareth not rebuke.

A man shall eat good by the fruit of his mouth: but the soul of the transgressors shall eat violence.

He that keepeth his mouth keepeth his life: but he that openeth wide his lips shall have destruction.

The soul of the sluggard desireth, and hath nothing: but the soul of the diligent shall be made fat.

A righteous man hateth lying: but a wicked man is loathsome, and cometh to shame.

Righteousness keepeth him that is upright in the way: but wickedness overthroweth the sinner.

There is that maketh himself rich, yet hath nothing: there is that maketh himself poor, yet hath great riches.

The ransom of a man's life are his riches: but the poor heareth not rebuke.

The light of the righteous rejoiceth: but the lamp of the wicked shall be put out.

Only by pride cometh contention: but with the well advised is wisdom.

Wealth gotten by vanity shall be diminished: but he that gathereth by labour shall increase.

Hope deferred maketh the heart sick: but when the desire cometh, it is a tree of life.

Whoso despiseth the word shall be destroyed: but he that feareth the commandment shall be rewarded.

Inventions

THERE was a day when inventions were made by farm boys musing along the plowed furrow, or by gifted barbers in pauses of their tonsorial activities, or by tired store clerks burning the midnight oil.

Today most successful research and invention is a part of the mass output of our great corporations.

Chemists of the United States are astonished to learn that the United States Steel Corporation has 2,115 technical men at work on steel problems and tests in 179 laboratories. At Lorain, O., the corporation is turning a large steel mill into an experimental laboratory.

ONCE OVERS
By J. J. Mundy

Are You Conceited Enough?

PERHAPS you haven't conceit enough to make a mark in the world.

You want to excel but you think anything that you might do would be too ordinary.

To feel your work is ordinary is to make it ordinary.

You must be convinced that what you produce is worth while in order to give it the spirit which interests and holds the attention of others.

You have handicaps perhaps that would not be figured in if you had the training and education that most successful persons need.

But as long as you feel inferior you will be inferior.

If with few and meager advantages you can do something as well or better than some who have made a great deal of preparation for that sort of thing, you ought to have a great confidence in yourself.

Natural ability properly directed is pretty apt to win over the acquired skill used by one of little ability, for there is more freedom and fire in nature than in forced effort.

Establish more confidence in yourself.

You will need a lot of it to carry you through in this age of stiff competition.

You can't succeed without it.

HUMAN LIGHTS
By Garrett P. Serviss

IT IS a tale of ancient Rome that M. Ch. Appleton has chosen to illustrate, in the Mercure de France, his theme that not all the prodigies preserved in old legends were the products of either illusion or fraud. At first sight this should please the believers of ghost stories. But it turns out that the writer accepts nothing which cannot, as he thinks, be explained on naturalistic grounds without any intercession of spirits, or of supernatural powers.

The legend around which he groups his argument is that of Servius Tullius, the sixth king of Rome, who was born of a captive mother in the home of Tarquin, the fifth king. The story runs as follows:

One day as the infant was sleeping in his cradle a flame was enveloping his head. An attendant started to throw water upon the child but the queen, Tanaquil, who had been called in, forbade this, and ordered that he should not be disturbed until he awoke of himself; which he did within a short time. Immediately upon the child's waking the flame disappeared. Tanaquil, who was a famous seeress, then assured Tarquin that this infant would one day be the mainstay of the monarchy, and that he ought to be brought up in a manner accordant with his destiny. This was done, and Servius, succeeding Tarquin, became perhaps, the greatest of the kings of Rome.

Mr. Appleton holds that this story was not an invention, but was a substantially true narration of an occurrence, which has always been exceedingly rare, but which was scientifically observed and attested in several cases in the nineteenth century. Evidently it is not a phenomenon restricted to infant kings, but may manifest itself, according to Dr. C. Fere, of the Bicetre Hospital, among persons of any condition affected by nervous troubles. Dr. Fere is the authority upon whom Mr. Appleton principally relies for affirming the reality of the phenomenon of flames, or lights, appearing upon human beings. These lights are called "aureoles nervopathiques," by Dr. Fere, who has described many alleged cases, and two carefully observed by himself, in the "Revue de Medecine," tome XXV.

Dr. Fere says of such cases that a considerable number of persons who were said to have exhibited this phenomenon in former centuries were subject to religious enthusiasms, exaltation, ecstacy, terror, mysticism, and might be considered as at least temporary neveropaths. He thus describes what he himself saw in the case of a young woman in his hospital:

"Around her head appeared a light about twenty centimetres (nearly eight inches) in radius, of an orange color, the intensity of which diminished toward the periphery. The same light appeared around her two hands which were uncovered. The light had appeared two hours before I saw it, and did not cease until two hours after I began my observation!"

The second case was that of a young woman who had lost the power of speech. A light of the same orange color appeared around her head and hands, but it was more distinctly rayed, and more luminous, than that seen in the other case. It lasted only a few minutes, and with its disappearance the subject recovered the power of speech.

Mr. Appleton considers that this phenomenon has no relation with the alleged "N rays" which some years ago were reported by Prof. Blondeau, of Nancy, as being emitted by the human organism. The reality of these rays has not been established by the observations of others. Many persons would probably draw, from the fact that electricity plays a part in human physiological action, the conclusion that visible light may sometimes accompany such action. At present science would say to them: "You are theorizing without first getting the necessary facts." But that is seductive ground, on which scientific men themselves have occasionally slipped.

Tales That Are Told

ELIZABETH was a spoilt girl, and when she married the celebrated cotton magnate all her friends decided that it was just a means of satisfying her extravagance.

They had not been married very long before the husband found that Elizabeth was spending a great deal more money than he allowed her.

"Do you know, Betty," he said one day, "your dressmakers' bills eat up nearly three-quarters of my income?"

"Really? Do they?" replied his extravagant wife. "And what do you do with the rest of your money, Monty?"

Quite Impossible

IT was the last night of his holiday—the most glorious holiday of his life, for he had met the one girl in the world who seemed to matter. Standing with her now on the veranda outside their hotel, he gazed up at the heavens.

"Darling," he whispered at last, "wouldn't you like to sail away on a silvery moonbeam—just you and me together—towards those twinkling stars where all is infinite, even love? And we could dwell in eternal bliss far from—"

"Oh, Freddie," she interrupted, "I couldn't! I've got an appointment with my hairdresser at 3 o'clock tomorrow."

Infinite Good

INFINITE good is about us. It flows
Through the gold of the sunbeam, the red of the rose
Never a lark sang its hymn to the day
But that infinite good in its melody lay.

Countless and tireless its phases we see
Like the sands of the shore, like the waves of the sea,
Infinite good with its infinite power,
Whirling the planet and painting the flower.

Far as the outermost star's faintest gleam,
Near as the hope of the soul's secret dream,
Though we leave it, rejected and misunderstood,
Still we are heirs to the infinite good!

New York Day by Day
O.O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Workers occupying humble posts in New York do not fare so badly. The Cinderella theme is especially pronounced among those who minister to the personal wants of wealthy employers—that is the servant class. During the past year more than 100 have been substantially remembered in wills.

A hotel barber was recently asked by a customer he had shaved for years to meet him after he had finished work for the day. He was driven to a suburb, where a completely furnished seven-room house was turned over to him as a gift.

Wall street financial houses are especially thoughtful in caring for employes passing the age of usefulness. Many such houses pension off servitors on full salaries. Valets to millionaires and maids to their wives frequently achieve old age independence.

There is a quality to personal service that cements a bond between employer and servant. They become members of the family and when no longer able to serve live on in the household in comfort. Scores of ancient coachmen are retained in this fashion.

In a midtown skyscraper there was an alert elevator operator who had a perpetual smile daily for hurrying tenants. He became known as "Smiling Bob." It was learned that due to a bronchial affliction he was trying to find employment in the open air.

Today he owns many broad acres in Missouri, completely paid for and a present from those he had shown courtesy. A pleasant mannered manicure girl in a hotel patronized by theatrical people was permanently disabled in a street accident. Her customers circulated a petition and raised $3,200, which was used to purchase a tea room, and her income is triple that of her manicure post. These are a few of the innumerable instances to show New York generously aids those who serve them well.

Seasoned trans-Atlantic voyagers rarely reserve their cabins save during the rush season. They merely purchase a first-class ticket and depend on the purser to allot them space when the ship pulls out. In this way they are frequently assigned to de luxe quarters that would cost them handsomely if especially reserved.

The versatility of J. P. McEvoy seems endless. He came out of the West to the big town with such fame as is attached to the unknown writers of holiday greeting cards. He took up playwrighting and sponsored three fairly successful hits, launched a newspaper feature that was widely circulated, and this summer authored a best-selling book. Mr. McEvoy wears a black fuzzy hat, turned down all the way around, a checkered cab driver's overcoat, a closely cropped mustache, features a brutish cigar at an Uncle Joe Cannon angle, and is quite a boy.

THEOLOGY
By Dr. Frank Crane

Astronomical studies and conclusions will be found to have much to do with our theological theories.

Think of the different view of the universe and its regulation taken by people now and those that lived before Corpernicus and Galileo.

When David wrote, "When I consider thy heavens, the sun, moon and stars that thou hast made, what is man that thou art mindful of him?" how much smaller a conception of both the universe and man he had from what we now have!

It must have a humbling effect upon every thinker to reflect upon the vastness of the universe and the smallness of the speck upon which we live. All of these discoveries may but increase our awe and reverence for Him who made the universe, but they alter our notion as to how He did this.

Victor Hugo, in his "Intellectual Autobiography," wrote:

"The locomotive travels 15 leagues an hour. The hurricane travels 60 leagues an hour. The cannon ball travels 700 leagues an hour. The locomotive drags, the hurricane limps, the cannon ball is a tortoise.

"Let us bestride a ray of light. This is to mount 4,000 times faster than the cannon ball, 4,200,000 times swifter than the hurricane, and 17,000,000 times swifter than the locomotive. It makes, as you know, 70,000 leagues a second.

"Start. Light launches you from the earth to the sun in eight minutes, from the sun to Oceanus in four hours, from Oceanus to Centaurus in three years and eight months, from Centaurus to the pole star in 28 years, from the pole star to the Milky Way in 16,800 years, and from the Milky Way to the nebula of Canes Venatici in 5,000,000 years. You have not taken a step. The apparitions of the universe will continue to loom. Beyond the visible the invisible, beyond the invisible the unknown."

The earth we proudly bestride represents about three thousandths of 1 per cent of the sun's substance: one of the tiniest specks in the celestial universe.

If we imagine the sun as a ball nine feet across, our globe in proportion would be a one-inch ball at a distance of 323 yards from the sun. The moon would be a speck, the size of a small pea, 30 inches from the earth.

The nearest fixed star to the earth, even on this minute plan, would be over 40,000 miles away. And some of the stars we see at night would be a hundred million miles away in this scale that makes the earth a one-inch ball and the moon a small pea.

These distant stars might marvel to hear our idea:

"Which says Creation had its birth
For such a tiny world as this;
To hear that One who fashioned all
These solar systems tier on tier,
Expressed in little Adam's fall
The purpose of a million spheres!"

If they hear us speak of our sun shining in the heavens to sprout our potatoes and warm our backs, they might see a similarity between that and a flea perched on a hair of a dog's tail opining that the dog was created to keep him warm.

OH, THESE WOMEN
By Leola Allard

ONE of the most interesting results of the marriage questionnaire, sent out by a Chicago minister, is the advice from the greater percentage of those answering, that to be happy, married people should be utterly frank with each other, and secretive about their affairs so far as outsiders are concerned.

After years over the back fence, women agree that higher and thicker back fences are an aid to happiness.

If you don't want your husband to dunk his doughnuts, tell him and don't start a whispering campaign among relatives. If your relatives wonder, out loud, how you happened to pick a husband who would dunk a doughnut, tell them it's your husband and his doughnut, and you think it's cute of him to dunk it. Then get him aside and tell him, between kisses, that you wish he wouldn't.

But it really is becoming the fashion again.

To relatives who always wonder how you dared to marry into such a nice family, dunking is important. What you do in private doesn't interest them so much, but dunking is a blot on the escutcheon. If someone says: "Oh, lookie, the man dunks his doughnuts;" it causes the blush of shame to mantle their cheeks. Relatives are the most sensitive people on earth, to the idiosyncrasies of in-laws.

I have known a wife's relations to advise a divorce because a husband insisted upon eating dinner at 7 o'clock. It was too late, and he mixed his peas with his mashed potatoes, making it impossible to have guests when he was at home.

If wives forbade the house to meddling mothers and bossy sisters, and thrashed out this matter of sticking peas together with mashed potatoes, it could be adjusted without difficulty. Any wife would know how. If she knows how to get him, she knows how to train him, given anything like a break.

Did you know the least bite of parsley would kill a parrot? Nobody knows why. It's poison to them. It's like the advice of neighbors, in matrimonial difficulties.

Sisters are prone to say: "Oh, my dear, look at the men you could have had!" and get a wife all full of the idea that it was a bad choice, and that there is yet time if she hurries.

If the husband knew it, he could explain that she got the best there was. A man who has once convinced a woman that he is the cat's canary, can do it again. And you know how cats feel about canaries. Then, too, a man can always drop a hint about knowing where there is another canary which he doesn't want now, but could get.

Bingo! It's done.

Seal this up with a little parafin, and put it in your ice box and may you never need it.
